CORRESPONDENCE.

ODELL.

On Tuesday evening the 22d, a few of the many friends of Chris Detman and wife surprised them on the occasion of the 20th anniversary of their marriage. The following persons were among the party: William Ehrlek and family, Hans Lage and family, Henry Lage and wife, William Seoby and wife, Mr. Kolls and wife, Mr. Dragsett, Mr. McGill and sister, and Ben Lage. Coffee and light refreshments were served and a jolly good time was had, and not until one o'clock in the morning did the crowd take leave of their host and hostess. Chris is 20 years older than when he was married, yet the only evidence of this fact is the sprinkling of grey in his whiskers. It is said that a man is as old as he feels, and a woman as old as she looks. As the crowd took their departure it was with the wish that Mr. and Mrs. Detman should be spared to enjoy many anniversaries of this kind, and that prosperity and happiness be their lot in life.

Nearly all the lumber for the Odd Fellows' building is on the ground, and the work of building has begun and will be crowded. Ed Hays is superintending the work of building. The completion of this hall will meet a long-felt public demand at Odell, and we are glad to note the beginning of such an enterprise.

We note with regret the illness of the family of F. L. Massey of Willow Flat, and hope soon to hear of their recovery.

Thanksgiving, with all it means with reference to reunion of loved ones at home, with good things to eat and good cheer, has come and gone. It is a good thing to rest from labor now and then, and to enjoy the fruits of the past, and with unfaltering trust look forward toward the future, laden with its duties and responsibilities, and pledge ourselves to more faithful effort along the lines of honorable manhood. The difficulties overcome in the past should furnish inspiration for better future work.

A very creditable school entertainment was given last Wednesday night at the school house, V. V. Willis and Miss Blanche Wilson having trained the pupils for it. It was along Thanksgiving lines. The only thing to mar the peace of the large crowd was some disturbance in the crowd by a few persons large enough to be men. Common decency suggests order at any public gathering and especially at a school entertainment, where the audience is largely made up of parents, whose children are on the program, and who are easily embarrassed by such conduct. To young bloods whose brains are in their heels, it is little use to talk, but as a newgatherer, the public will be informed concerning such matters. However, we trust it will not be necessary to speak of such a matter again. "A hint to the wise, etc."

Harry Kemp's blacksmith shop was moved from a prominent Odell corner a few days ago to give place to a more pretentious building—the Old Fellows' hall.

George W. Lafferty came here only a few years ago from LaGrande and purchased 30 acres of land one-half mile west of Odell. Today, with painstaking effort, he has one of the nicest little places in the country. This year, from 20 acres of the place, with only four acres of bearing orchard, a small patch of strawberries and some hay, he has had a revenue of $800. He now has only one-half acre to clear and the whole 30 acres will be cultivated and immensely productive. He recently dug a straight ditch through his place and filled the old creek bed, thereby reclaiming an acre of fine meadow land. Mr. Lafferty is thorough in his farm work, and realizes that land is too valuable to have any waste places, especially in small tracts. We are ever ready to note the work of any enterprising rancher, and prophesy that Mr. Lafferty will get well paid for his work in case he ever wants to sell, or, if not, in revenue while he keeps his place.

The young people of Odell, about 40 in number, took possessible possession of the home of Messrs. H. Morton and Anderson last Saturday evening. A fine supper was furnished. Dancing was the order of the evening. A right merry time was had, and the young people are grateful to Messrs. Morton and Anderson for a very pleasant evening, and for a home where they always find a warm welcome.

I am sending a copy of the Glacier to my brother, J. M. Shelley of Eugene, and last week he wrote me like this: "We read your Odell notes with pleasure and enjoy your boot items." Of course we forgive this brother for such a statement, for we realize it is difficult for him, living as he does in a slow, plodding, non-covered country like the Willamette valley, to understand the marked contrast between the land of Webfoots and that of Hood River valley—not only the best advertised valley in the Northwest, but from a revenue-producing basis, the very best on record. And why? It is filled up with a class of wide-awake, enterprising people, who, by reason of rural daily mail and telephone service, are absolutely up-to-date, and acquainting themselves with improved methods in ranching, they they produce the best possible results; while the products of the valley find their way into the best markets of the world. This solves the problem of land values here, and removes every semblance of boom from the Odell notes.

The clearing of land and the planting of thousands of apple trees in the country, together with the erection of the substantial brick blocks in Hood River this year, with others, that are now forcing their way to completion through the storms of winter, are silent, eloquent witnesses, attesting the growth and development of this most wonderful valley. While I have pleasant and tender recollections of my childhood's home in the valley of the Willamette, we are creatures of circumstance during our childhood days, but choose for ourselves, so give me Hood River valley.

Mr. Coburn, a relative of Mr. Copple, who recently came here from the East, and has been touring the Willamette valley with a view of buying a home, has returned to Hood River, and will no doubt purchase a home here. We understand that negotiations are now pending for a ranch in the valley.

Mr. Williams, who lived here last winter on the Claude Cargile place, and went last spring to the Dalles and purchased 30 acres, is back again and will spend the winter here and probably locate permanently.

MOUNT HOOD.

Rain, rain! all the time up here these days.

There was a very nice mask ball given at the Mount Hood hall on Thanksgiving by O. A. Knox and W. M. Cooper.

We saw George D. Culbertson on our streets last Saturday. Come again, George.

W. H. Durkee and wife are working at Helmer's logging camp at present. Mrs. Durkee is doing the cooking.

There was a little railroad excitement up here last week. It was so strong that some of the boys claim they could hear the whistle blow.

It is rumored that a new company is going to buy the Davenport mill up here. It would be a good thing if some-one would get hold of it and run it to its full capacity.

M. Dumas' brother arrived here from France last week. He was unable to give an account of his trip in English, so we will send it in as soon as we learn to speak French.

CRAPPER.

Your correspondent was put "out of commission" last week by a severe attack of neuralgia.

Mrs. Brosi has gone to Portland, where she expects to remain during the coming winter.

Miss Susie Kelley, who has been seriously sick for several days, is improving very nicely.

Henry Hackett and Elmer Richardson returned a few days ago from a week's visit with friends at Trout Lake, Wash.

K. D. Martin had a severe attack of neuralgia last week. It was found necessary to have a tooth drawn, and he thinks that in case of a similar attack it might be just about as well to have his head drawn.

P. H. Martin was on the sick list last week.

John Hicks and his friend, Mr. Barnes, spent a week recently, camping in the hills, where they spent their time very pleasantly looking for bear tracks. They reported big piles of scenery, oceans of fresh air, and all of the healthful exercise they could find any use for.

Harry Hackett and L. B. Wilson are both on the sick list.

Miss Maud Stranahan spent Thanksgiving day with her sister at Wasco.

Rev. W. A. Elkins preached a very interesting sermon at the Crapper schoolhouse on last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Moses entertained Mrs. Moses' parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Egbert of Irrigon, also Mr. and Mrs. Louis Moses and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Bobbax and family, on Thanksgiving day. Mrs. Dobson is Mrs. Moses' sister.

P. H. Martin and family entertained his parents, also his brother, K. D. Martin, and sister Miss Inez, on Thanksgiving day.

Mrs. Goddard advertises for a renter in another column.

Michael Thornton bought a fine new grubber this week.

A meeting was held at the school house to consider the question of the completion of the Underwood end of the new road; also another meeting was held at the same time for the purpose of talking over the strawberry question and appointing a man to handle the shipping business.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Thornton left for the Dalles to spend Thanksgiving with Mrs. Thornton's father.

Hugh Lusk was in Underwood last Sunday.

Mr. Orser and daughter were visiting friends in Underwood.

B. F. Fuller and wife passed through Underwood Saturday.

A good many strangers were in Underwood Sunday. The attraction was a prize fight.

The Menominee Mill company has put a dam to turn the water back into the old channel at the mouth of the White Salmon.

W. A. Orser and son returned to Portland Saturday after rusticating a few days on the latter's claim.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Goddard with their daughter, Miss Jessie, spent Thanksgiving at Acorn lodge.

W. A. Orser is superintending the completion of the new road at the landing, with a complete force of donation workers.

There will be a new mail carrier on Thursday, Tuesday was Mail Carrier Hayes' last trip, the Chenoweth postoffice having been discontinued. The price offered by the government was too small and he threw it up. The mail will now leave Hood River at 7:30 for this office, and returning, leaves this office at 9:30 a. m.

Mr. McEadden is building a new residence on Washington street.

Owing to the increase in business, Alex Stewart, the popular merchant, finds it necessary to construct a warehouse for flour and grain.

Mr. Howe of Portland, who has 200,000 feet of very select white pine lumber in Mosier, he has disposed of a car load to a gentleman from the East.

Miss Annie Godderson, who is teaching school at Fairfield, Or., spent the Thanksgiving holidays at home. J. J. Lewis made a business trip to Portland last week.

The young people of Mosier tripped the light fantastic toe in Mr. Lamb's new hall on Thanksgiving evening.

Miss Katie Davenport spent Thanksgiving at home.

Mr. Campbell of Fairfield, was in Mosier last week buying stock cattle.

Mr. and Mrs. George Woods are now occupying their new residence in town.

Miss Dollie Mosier and Miss Agnes Gulovson spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. Frank P. Taylor at the Dalles.

Miss Inez Spivan closed a very successful term of school in district eight on Friday, November 26. Her services have been engaged for the spring term. Mr. Rossman also closed a three months term in district 54.

Clarence Gilbert and Miss Fannie and Lottie Gilbert, who are living at Pine Flat, Wash., visited their parents during the holidays.

WHITE SALMON.

Numerous applications to purchase land in small tracts have of late been pouring in to the surprise of Captain Cook; perhaps owing to a typographical error in the Glacier, wherein it was stated that the captain had sold ten acres at $10 an acre, when it should have read $10 an acre.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wood, a son.

Mr. Evethart, who has been sick for some time, is in a Portland hospital, where an operation was performed last week. Latest reports say the physician thinks he is out of danger.

The new meat market is nearly completed. Rosegrant & Everhart are preparing to build another store on Mr. Fox's store.

Mr. Zimmerman of Pinedale was in town after some fruit trees he will set out this fall.

G. Terrell has a sore eye. While over in the woods splitting posts a piece of steel struck him in the eye. It is feared he will lose the eye.

B. Field bought two and one-half acres from Main & Bowman, near the house he built last summer; consideration $225. He expects to set out cherries and peaches.

Mr. Hanesek and George Rankin went to Troutlake for the winter to work in the canyon of the Chapman Bros. Mr. Hanesek will be the blacksmith.

Mrs. Aylsworth and children went home to Mountavilla, having spent Thanksgiving with her aunt, Mrs. W. Overhast.

Last Thursday evening, Will C. Aylsworth and family, assisted by 12 school children of White Salmon, rendered a program such as perhaps never was given here before. Mr. Aylsworth's songs were well received, while "Old Mr. and Mrs. Malone," sung by Bryan and Bernice Aylsworth, aged seven and five respectively, brought down the house.

A large audience greeted the singers, and should they appear again in this city a full house is assured. The entertainment was given under the auspices of Artisan assembly, No. 77, and was a decided financial success.

Professor Aylsworth organized a chorus Friday evening, securing a good-sized class. He will give a series of 12 lessons, and a concert Friday evening, December 9. Judging from the success with which Professor Aylsworth has met so far, the concert will prove a success in every way.

Mrs. Gladden met with a serious accident Thanksgiving pay. While she was preparing some chickens for dinner she slipped and fell backward, striking her head so severely that she was unconscious for quite a while. A physician was summoned and she is getting along very nicely.

County Clerk Coley, on last Saturday, by order of Judge A. L. Miller, issued a venire for the following petit jurymen, to appear at Goldendale for service Monday, December 6. The jurymen summoned are: From Goldendale—Ed Atkinson, G. H. Chamberlain, Frank Coffield, William Glover, John P. Harris, E. S. Lester, A. D. McPherson, Walter Norris, Ed Pierce, F. M. Powers, J. D. Smith and Clay Thompson. From Cleveland—W. L. Lewis, Joseph Noblett, Henry Thane and J. S. Woods. From Bickleton—J. T. McCredy. From Dot—John Coppenhefer and Joe Gaddelger. From Felda—R. M. Krepps, H. Ladiges, sr., and Peter Staack. From Trout Lake—John Dethman. From Lyle—John Spitzenberg.

FROM THE ENTERPRISE.

Mrs. P. A. Trana left White Salmon for Dallas, Texas, on the 14th inst, to be gone until May 1, 1905.

Fruit trees are still arriving in large quantities by almost every boat that stops at our dock. These are being taken to the country, where they will be set out in orchards, and will be heard from in our shipping business in the future. This year's crop, in fact, soon become "a land of fruit and flowers."

The Woman's club of White Salmon at its last meeting voted $15.50 toward a school fund. They expect to add to this fund from time to time and ultimately put up an iron or stone fence enclosing the school grounds.

DUKES VALLEY.

We are enjoying real Webfoot weather at present, but Dukes Valley people pay no attention to weather. You will see us out at work at something or other rain or shine.

J. O. Cameron and A. J. Kessel supplied the valley people with good beef during Thanksgiving week.

After doing without our daily mail for a week, we appreciate more than ever a system that enables us to get our mail ten miles from the postoffice every day. We should all be glad to contribute enough to raise the carrier's salary to $800 or $1000 a year. As every one says, the route cannot be taken for less and enable the carrier to make wages.

A. J. Kessel is building a good house on his homestead, but finds it rather up-hill work, as the weather has been bad and carpenters hard to get. Mr. Kessel hopes to get moved into his new house some time this winter.

Fred Chandler of Crapper was visiting friends in the valley last Sunday. Fred expects to leave for the East soon, to be gone all winter.

Milton O. McClellan is visiting his sister, Mrs. A. T. Lodge.

Miss Mabel Dodson and Tommy Dodson, who have been on the sick list, are improving at present writing.

Our literary society met last Saturday night. A fine program was rendered, after which the following officers were elected to serve for the next three months: Mark Cameron, president; Oscar Cameron, secretary; Charles Murphy, treasurer; Thomas Broderick, sergeant-at-arms.

The little sawmill in the south end of our valley is running at its full capacity. It gets the timber off of the land, and where now grows the fir and pine will grow something more profitable to the owner. But this mill is a detriment to those who own land along the creek below the mill, as this mill runs all the sawdust that it cuts into the creek, and is filling up the channel and spreading over the valley. This little creek has always been the pride of our valley, and we don't like to see the sawdust running into it. Furthermore, it is against the law.

Our little valley is visited with sickness and doctors. Of this we are sorry. F. L. Massey had five in his family who were sick at the same time. The two oldest boys, George and Walter, are quite sick with pneumonia, but we hope they will soon be up and around again, as George is the Dukes Valley school teacher. School is closed for the present. A. T. Dodge has one boy that is quite sick.

Gilbert Edgington made final proof on his claim west of the valley last Friday at the Dalles.

There was some talk of a wedding to take place in our valley soon, but it has not matured yet, so far as the writer can learn.

Our Sunday school had a small attendance last Sunday on account of the rainy day and sickness.

There was a good crowd out to our literary Saturday evening and a good program was rendered. Leonard Dodson was out and gave us an entertainment on his new photograph. At our next meeting there will be a mock trial. Gilbert Edgington will be sued for not publishing the society paper on Saturday, November 12. If found guilty he will be fined the sum of 25 cents. All are invited out and are expected to take part in the program. Our next meeting will be two weeks from last Saturday, December 10.

On December 11, Rev. Cummings will preach at our school house. His text for this day is found in Romans 6:17. All are invited to come out and help in this worship.

BARRETT.

Thanksgiving day is past. How much we have to be thankful for; seeing that we have had a bountiful harvest; throughout our land we have had enough and a little to spare; our hearts have swelled up when we contributed to the wants of other nations who have been stricken with famine. Then we have contributed to others of our own land, where floods and disaster have had swept over localities, such as Hennepin, the Chicago theatre fire, the burning of the steamer General Slocum. Shall not we take up the cry and return thanks unto Him who has safely kept and preserved us during the past year, and say "The Lord He is God and doeth all things well?"

Mrs. E. Ingalls entertained her two daughters with their husbands and families on Thanksgiving day, where they all had a pleasant time.

Rolla Phelps passed through on Thanksgiving day with a load of fir poles. Suppose Rolla must be fixing up to have a phoe put in.

The Barrett school contributed to the Children's home at Portland, a nice lot of good things for Thanksgiving day. Good for Barrett School.

The governor of a Southern state in his Thanksgiving proclamation said they should not forget to give thanks for the most charming crop of babies ever born in his jurisdiction since the creation. Well, we are not left out in Barrett district, for we have had a few babies
