Hood River Glacier.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 16, 1904.

The Glacier's Odell correspondent thinks he has held his position long enough. No, no, Mr. Shelley; let your good work go on.

St. Louis sends greeting to its Oregon friend, the city of Portland, and wishes it much joy and success with the Lewis and Clark exposition.—Globe-Democrat.

If a move is to be made to cut off the west end of Wasco county, with Hood River as the county seat of the new territory, it is time we got busy. With a petition to come before the legislature to cut off the Stockman section of the county, and which will have no opposition, it will be no easy matter for Hood River to take another slice off old Wasco, but with hard work, if taken in time, we believe it can be done. In another column will be found expressions on the subject from some of the taxpayers.

Judge Galloway, in the circuit court for Marion county has rendered a decision which holds that the state law against Sunday closing is inoperative in incorporated cities and towns. The case at issue was that of a Salem saloon-keeper, charged with keeping his place open on Sunday. The judge holds that regulation of this matter is in the hands of the council. So far as Sunday saloons are concerned the capitol city is now a wide open town, for there is neither a state law nor a city ordinance under which prosecutions may be had.

Canby post, G. A. R., at its regular meeting Saturday, resolved that every member should act as a committee of one to assist in the organization of a camp of Sons of Veterans in Hood River. Hood River has the material to form as strong a camp in point of numbers as any city in the state outside of Portland. It is therefore hoped that every son of a Civil war veteran, in Hood River and vicinity, who has attained the age of 18 years, will attend the meeting when called to organize. The Sons of Veterans will soon be called upon to take up the work of the Grand Army of the Republic, and now is the time for the son or grandson to look up the war record of the father, which alone will entitle him to admission into the Order of the Sons of Veterans.

Pupils Put up a Good Debate.
The literary society of the Frankton school held its first regular meeting last Friday immediately after the afternoon recess. Several visitors were present. A good program was rendered. When the roll was called the members answered to their names by rising and repeating a memory gem. Many recitations were excellently given.

Not the least interesting part of the program was the reading of the society's newspaper by the editor, Earl Ely, which sparkled with witty jokes that were original and good local hits. This young editor may some day be chosen to edit the funny column of some great metropolitan journal.

The question for debate was: "Resolved that Women Should Have the Right of Suffrage." The debate was well handled, both sides bringing out some strong points, and the judges decided two to one in favor of the affirmative. Upon a rising vote the decision of the judges was decided by a big majority.

The few spectators present were surprised to find that no more of the parents and friends of this well-conducted school were in attendance to give support and encouragement to the bright pupils who took part in the exercises.

WILL THERE BE A NEW COUNTY?

"Do we want a new county?" is the question asked in street corner conversation, now that the legislative session is only three weeks off.
A. A. Jayne of this city, representative elect from this county, is personally very much in favor of county division, but as little or no mention has been made of the matter, Representative Jayne feels that he would rather hear an expression of his constituents on the issue before taking the initiative in advocating a measure for dividing Wasco county. Mr. Jayne believes a new county with Hood River as the county seat would mean more business for this city, and would permit of a much more satisfactory and economical administration of local affairs.

The Dalles is known to oppose the movement to a man. Southwestern Wasco county, with Antelope as the center, will make another effort for county division at the coming session of the legislature, and the petition for the new county of Stockman is meeting with ready signatures in The Dalles. The people there realize that with Stockman county cut off at this term, it would counteract on Hood River's move for county division, and perhaps hinder this city from obtaining her wish for several years to come.

On the other hand the people of The Dalles, who have heretofore opposed the creation of Stockman county, are beginning to realize, says Commissioner Hubbard, that the Antelope country is a constant source of expense to Wasco county, with comparatively little coming back. For this reason The Dalles is entirely willing that Antelope should have her long cherished wish of a separate county. This will be the third attempt Antelope will have made for county division.

The people of The Dalles are very much averse to losing Hood River, Malcolm Mosdy stated to a Glacier representative last week, that he is a landowner in Hood River valley, and that were he a resident here, he would work against county division for Hood River, believing county division would be a detriment to property interests here.

Every other Dalles citizen approached on the subject signified his intention of doing all he could to thwart an attempt of Hood River to have the legislature create a new county.

Here in Hood River, no one is found who really opposes a new county or believes such a thing would be a detriment to the town and valley, but there are many who believe it useless to try for a division at this time. There are others though anxious to make the fight for county division, success or no success this time, believing if they fall there will be opportunities to fight again.

D. McDonald of the firm of Bone & McDonald, is strongly in favor of a new county. Mr. McDonald was a resident of Sherman county when that section was carved out of old Wasco. That was about 17 years ago. Wasco had an enormous debt at the time, but Sherman county assumed her proportion, and three years ago erected a brick court house and today has something like $15,000 in the treasury to use when needed. The affairs of the county are managed to the satisfaction of all the voters, and the people who pay the taxes are highly pleased.

"We didn't build any expensive court house," says Mr. McDonald. "A little wooden building was secured and a concrete vault built on the outside. The county business was transacted here very conveniently and the people reaped a direct benefit in lower taxes."

E. L. Smith thinks it would be impossible to get a new county at this session of the legislature. Mr. Smith was one of the leaders in the fight for county division 15 years ago. He says he went down with a delegate at that time from Hood River. The committee in the house on new counties were opposed to giving Hood River a new county, but before Smith and the other Hood River citizens had got through with their work the committee brought in a favorable report for Cascade county.

Then at the critical moment, Hood River's representative got up on the floor of the house and said he wasn't personally interested in securing the new county. Today Mr. Smith is not in favor of a new county. He says he would rather belong to a strong county that would have a large delegation in a state convention than to belong to a county having no influence in state affairs.

"Yes, I'm in for county division with both feet," replied W. J. Baker.
"County division? Yes, yes," enthusiastically responded Rowland Sherry when the question was put to him, "and I should like nothing better than a trip to Salem this winter to work for the new county."

Mayor A. S. Blowers is strongly in favor of a new county. He believes, though, it will be a hard fight, but he's not afraid of that.

"It's too much like free silver—a dead issue with Whelan in the lead," was the characteristic reply of Joe Wilcox.
"There is no crying necessity for the formation of a new county, making Hood River the county seat," said S. F. Blythe. "We are within an hour's ride of The Dalles, and except when drawn on the jury, our citizens rarely have occasion to go to the county seat. A new county would double the number of officers, increase taxation and give us no better administration of county affairs. Wasco county will be only of debt. Let us get out of debt and stay out. Home taxes will worry us soon enough. I am opposed to any further division of Wasco county."

O. Froehberg, mail carrier to Mount Hood, strongly favors the move, and says all the people of his part of the country would do likewise. They are tired of the long trip to The Dalles and the expense they are put to, whenever they have dealings at the county seat.

Axel Rahm thinks Hood River should be the county seat. "If there is to be booting and grafting, let's keep it at home," he continued. "We can never get recognition at The Dalles."

R. B. Bragg is in favor of county division, and can see the increase it would give to business with a county seat here.
N. C. Evans is optimistic enough to believe that Hood River could secure up the required 6000 population for a representative from the new county.

A. F. Ratham says the people of Wasco are divided on the subject. While there are many who would cling to The Dalles, a majority, he believes, would favor throwing their fortunes with Hood River.
V. C. Beck, bookkeeper for the First National bank, who took part in the liberation of Sherman county, believes a new county would be in every way to the best interests of Hood River, "but the fight has been started too late," he remarked. "I know something of the hard battle that has to be put up for a new county, and how near we came to losing the fight for Sherman county. The representatives and senator to the legislature should have been nominated with this end in view. The opposition among our delegation will overbalance all Mr. Jayne could do for us."
G. J. Geesing thinks we have offered holders enough.

A. M. Kelsey of the Davenport Bros. Lumber Co. said that as far as his company as a corporation is concerned they would not be strongly interested one way or the other, but if the majority of the people of Hood River expressed a desire for a new county, the members of the company would be found on the right side.

W. H. Eccles of the Oregon Lumber Co. was out of town, but it is stated that he is personally opposed to the division of the county.
C. L. Gilbert, proprietor of the Mount Hood hotel, and formerly county superintendent of schools, strongly favors county division, believing the people here can take care of their affairs better than the officials at The Dalles.

ISSUE BONDS FOR IMPROVED SERVICE

The board of directors of the Hood River Electric Light, Power and Water company has authorized the issue of $100,000 in bonds, according to information made public yesterday afternoon by a member of the board of directors of the Light Co.
The Portland Trust company, as trustee will assume $50,000 of the bonds at six per cent. With this amount of money on hand, several extensive improvements to the light and water service are promised. The paid up capital stock of the company is stated to be $11,500, and the present indebtedness, approximately $25,000. The proposed loan will assume the present indebtedness.

SURVEY LINE FOR STEAM RAILWAY

It was learned yesterday afternoon that a force of surveyors arrived the night before and were engaged yesterday taking levels and running lines for the steam railway up the valley which the Oregon Lumber company is under consideration. It will be remembered that the Glacier published an interview with W. H. Eccles a few weeks ago announcing the company's intention to build this steam railroad up the valley for the purpose of hauling saw logs to the mill at the east end of the city.

Fight Will be Bitter.
Those who will persist in closing their ears against the continual recommendation of Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, will have a long and bitter fight with their troubles, if not ended earlier by fatal determination. Read what T. R. Beall of Beall, Miss. has to say: "Last fall my wife had every symptom of consumption. She took Dr. King's New Discovery after everything else had failed. Improvement came at once and four bottles entirely cured her. Guaranteed by Chas. N. Clarke Druggist. Price 50 cts. and $1.00.

To Enable City to Borrow Money.

Representative A. A. Jayne, working under instructions from the fire and water committee of the city council, is preparing a bill which will present to the Oregon legislature next month for amending the city charter to make it possible for the city to borrow more than the present limited ten percent of the assessed valuation of the property in the corporate limits.
This amendment, says Mr. Jayne, will make it possible for the city to bond for a municipal water system, if the people so decide.

Miss Zolota Kelsey returned Monday afternoon from a visit in The Dalles.

Mrs. Woodward returned to Portland after a visit here with her cousin, John Leland Henderson. Judge Henderson accompanied her to Portland.

Mrs. Joseph Frazier, sr., suffered an acute attack of rheumatism in her neck last Saturday, which required the services of a physician. Mrs. Frazier is better now.

Rev. W. C. Gilmore preached his first sermon as pastor of the Congregational church last Sunday. Those who heard Mr. Gilmore, speak very highly of his discourse. From now on there will be regular services at the Congregational church. The announcement of services appears in the church notices.

Charles Watson, the Leak Walton of White Salmon, now in his 85th year, was a Hood River visitor Tuesday, and called at the Glacier office while in the city. Mr. Watson takes a great interest in supplying Trout Lake with fish. He has received fish eggs from the government hatchery three different times, and in all has placed 50,000 eggs in the lake and the streams leading into the same.

J. F. McElroy, who has the W. H. Pugh place rented was in the Glacier office yesterday and started the Glacier to making his visits to the home of his brother-in-law, C. P. Lincoln, Milford Center, Ohio. Mr. McElroy says he did not do so very well with his strawberries the past season, but is not discouraged, on the contrary, he showed his faith in the business by planting three acres more, making nine acres of berries in all that he will have in bearing this coming year. In addition to the berries he has four or five acres of apple orchard which he is giving good attention, and from which he expects good results the coming season.

The Glacier man and family were the guests of Landlord Fouts at the Hotel Waucoma, at dinner Sunday. Mr. Fouts is making his new hotel first-class in every particular, and Sunday's dinner could not be excelled anywhere. The service is prompt and very satisfactory; everything neat and clean, and the surroundings pleasant and homelike. Mr. Fouts says that many of the suites of rooms have had to be divided already, to make more single rooms to accommodate the increasing patronage, and he is very well pleased with the outlook. Hood River is fortunate in having another first-class hot by the opening of the Hotel Waucoma.
