Hood River Glacier

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1904.

The Dalles newspaper rejoices because Wasco county won the only grand prize in the whole United States, but refrains from mentioning what Hood River did toward winning the prize. How unkind.

E. L. Smith has received word from C. J. Sincel, secretary of the Northwest Fruit Growers' association, that the annual meeting of the organization will be held at Boise, Idaho, January 16, 17 and 18. Mr. Smith, who is president of the association, will attend from Hood River. He is desirous of having a delegation of fruit men accompany him from here.

A meeting of the librarians of Oregon will be held in Portland, Tuesday, December 27, to discuss methods of work. This will be sort of a preliminary meeting before the gathering of the national association in that city next July. Librarians are a strong factor in educational work, and as the Hood River public schools have a splendid beginning for a valuable library, it would be helpful for those in charge of the work in this city if one of the teachers or one of the high school pupils could attend the meeting in Portland next week.

The firemen's ball New Year's eve is a worthy object which every citizen of Hood River and the valley who has the prosperity of the city and country at heart should support. A thoroughly equipped and efficiently drilled fire company is one of the very best acquisitions a live town can secure for its protection and the continuity and increase of its prosperity. The welfare of the city is closely allied to the success of the valley, and many of our citizens in the country will undoubtedly have enough personal interest in the creation of a first class fire department in Hood River to assist them to the extent of the price of a ticket at least. We have the timber on our volunteers for the making of a first class fire company. Let us see that they have everything they need for their work. It is all the pay they get and all they expect, and they will repay it a thousand times in preventing in the future such disastrous fires as the one we experienced but recently.

Hood River wins more gold medals on fruit—two gold ones and one grand prize for Wasco county, the only prize of its kind for fruit in the whole United States. Hood River fruit growers are accustomed to receiving such prizes, and while the result is gratifying, we don't believe our farmers will be spoiled because of these additional notices they have carved in the tally stick of fame. It was the apples from the Hood River fruit fair that brought the gold medals, and no doubt won the grand prize for the state's horticultural display, as well as that for Wasco county. The sending intact to St. Louis of the apple display from the fair last October was made possible by the prompt action of the Portland business men in pledging money for the expense. Hood River will not forget this kindness.

We have won the gold medals we went after, now let's spend some money in advertising this fact far and wide throughout the land, and make early preparations for a proper display at the Lewis and Clark fair. This will require hard work and money, but Hood River people can supply both.

Commissioner of pensions, Eugene F. Ware, was too honest a man for the Washington pension sharks. He resigned last week and returned to Kansas, declaring he prefers the cyclones to his experiences in the pension office.

The building of a railroad up Hood River valley next summer will tend to make business lively here. We hope a grade will be found that will make the building of the road possible. It will mean that the mills of the Oregon Lumber company will give steady employment to hundreds of men. Not only that, but a steam railway up the valley will furnish means of transporting berries and apples to the track of the O. R. & N., in better shape than the fruit can be hauled in wagons. In the next few years the bringing to market of the apples of the valley will tax the capacity of all the wagons and the time of all the drivers in Hood River. A road up the valley is a necessity.

Pleasant Dancing Party.
The dancing club's hop at the opera house last Friday evening was a very enjoyable event. Thirty-one couples were present, and Everett's five-piece orchestra from Portland supplied superb music. The lights flickered and went out as the musicians struck up the strains of the "Home Sweet Home waltz," but a little thing like that bothered no one, as the gay dancers swung round in the hall, sorry it was the last dance of the evening.

Light refreshments were nicely served by the management of the Favorite Oyster parlors.

Commissioner Weber Visits Orchards.
R. H. Weber, horticultural commissioner for the fourth district, and proprietor of The Dalles Nurseries, was in Hood River last week, visiting the orchards of the valley and warning fruit growers to be careful in keeping their trees free from scale and other dangerous pests.

Mr. Weber says he finds it very difficult to get fruit trees sprayed inside the city limits, but the law requires all fruit trees to be sprayed, and he does not feel that people in the town and cities should be allowed to neglect their few scattering fruit trees to the detriment of the orchards in the valley. Those who have trees within the city limits must look after them, or the fruit commissioner will exercise his authority in ordering them grubbed out, should he find any of them infested with disease.

Cougar Took Young Man's Nerve.
Mr. Evans of Mosier, who was in Hood River Tuesday afternoon, tells a real cougar story as follows: Ed Harvey, a young man of Mosier, who came up from Portland last Friday night to spend a few days with his parents, who reside a couple of miles back from Mosier station, was going out home with a lantern, when a monster cougar appeared in the road. The cougar let out blood-curling screeches and refused to give the path to young Harvey.

Harvey didn't care to force matters, so stopped and returned not in a leisurely manner to the home of Mr. Evans, where Ed breathlessly told his tale, and secured lodgings for the night.

CITY LEVIES A TEN-MILL TAX

Police Committee's Report Starts Some Lively Fire Works.

The city council of Hood River levied a ten-mill tax at the regular meeting Monday night. This is expected to raise about $2500. Three mills of the tax were designated for road purposes and the balance for general purposes. The assessable valuation of the property within the corporate limits of the city of Hood River is $254,885.

The report of the police committee, exonerating Marshal Olinger from the charges preferred against him by a logger named Cooper, who was arrested on charges of drunkenness, started sparks.

Early Monday the adoption of the report, when Mayes arose to state there had been nothing regular about the examination held in the recorder's office with the marshal and Cooper two weeks ago. "I am not a kicker," remarked Mayes, "but when anything is carried on in a manner not considered strict and legal, I shall interpose an objection."

Prather insinuated there was politics in the case.

Mayes replied there was nothing of the kind, and made some serious charges against the report. "I am not intoxicated during the week and nearly fell against a woman in the street."

Prather was on his feet in a minute. "We have had a great deal of men to fill the position of marshal in this city," he asserted. "But of them all, Mr. Olinger has performed his duties far better than anyone else. If there are charges to be made against Mr. Olinger, let someone make them in writing, and I am not here to sign his name. We are not here to listen to the heresy of anyone."

Bailey then asserted in mild tones that this man Cooper had used this matter in the city campaign, and efforts had been made to drag his (Bailey's) name into the affair.

Mayor Blowers declared he was not satisfied with the objection raised by Mayes against the report. "I am not in favor of covering up crime," remarked the city's chief executive, "but I believe Mr. Mayes misunderstands the matter. In this report, the committee does find fault with the negligence of the marshal in not turning city money over more promptly to the recorder, but regarding the other matter charging him with extorting money from prisoners, the charge was found to be all base, and the examination plainly indicated."

street to the depot. As the walk will accommodate the general public as well as Mr. Fouts, the same was ordered built.

Mr. Early for the sewer committee reported that a communication was on hand from Attorney W. H. Wilson of The Dalles, but that matters are not near a solution at this time.

Street Commissioner Canning was notified that a firm stood in the street in the east end of the city, and that it must be removed at once.

The vote of the recent city election was canvassed, and certificates of election ordered issued.

Claims against the city to the sum of $145.43 were allowed as follows:
B. F. Belton, labor..... 3.75
Or. Lbr Co., lumber..... 3.87

Gauger and Hartley, labor..... 9.00

After the transaction of business, the council adjourned to attend the first monthly tea. Owing to the lateness of the hour, the recorder was excused from preparing Col. Hartley's $30 call for beef tea, but was ordered to do so for the next meeting, in honor of the retiring councilman, Geo. T. Prather.

Card of Thanks.
The benefit entertainment Monday evening was so liberally patronized that the management felt it their duty to return to the good Christian-spirited people of this city their sincere thanks for their warm-hearted attendance. The net receipts of the house were $1.75, which was duly deposited in the bank to Mrs. Kelley's credit.

We met several good saintly souls the following morning, who were not able to gain admission to the hall (which is altogether too small for Hood River's charitable work). They handed us a bunch of regrets, and said they would make it a point next time to get around earlier. This helped some. Of course these regrets will not go at the bank for collateral, neither will the merchants accept them for flour and bacon, but coming as they did from people of high christian ideas, it tends to make us feel that one can do worse things than get up charity entertainments.

So we have nothing but the kindest feeling for those regret peddlers, and do sincerely hope when they have finished their career in this sin-cursed world and passed to that land where ice cream and cold feet are unknown, they will be erected to their honor a monument that will reach to the moon. May they soon need it.

Grand Christmas dinner at the Hotel Waucoma.

Mrs. G. R. Castner fell and dislocated her shoulder, Monday evening.

Mrs. Savage is home from Latonelle, where she visited her sister, Mrs. Rex.

Miss Eva Nicklason came home from Walla Walla Tuesday to remain during the holidays.

Old Wasco Good Enough for Him.

Hood River, Or., Dec. 19.—Editor Glacier: A county division again? For 15 long years the division question has been asleep. Pray don't disturb it now. County division may be all right for the people in town, but it would be very hard for the farmers to pay the taxes and keep the town—yes, keep the town.

You will find many that will say that county division would be a detriment to the valley, more so to the East Side. Let me tell you something I know to be a fact. The people at Cascade Locks would join with Multnomah county; so what would be left?

I am with S. F. Rytbe, E. L. Smith and Malcolm Moody, and closing will say, that with a new county we would be taxed to death. Old Wasco is good enough for all of us. J. P. HILLSTROM.

New Officers Eastern Star.

At a regular meeting of Hood River chapter No. 25, order of the Eastern Star, held Tuesday evening, Dec. 13, the annual election was held with the following result:

Rachael Herschner, W. M.; C. D. Thompson, W. P.; Edith Earley, A. M.; Theresa Castner, secretary; Fannie Bailey, treasurer; Eva Clarke, conductor; Calla Davidson, assistant conductor.

The worthy matron elect has filled the appointive offices as follows:
Ada—Kate Dumble, Ruth—Maud Chipping, Esther—Elizabeth Shaw, Martha—Emma Brooks, Electa—Lily B. Brock, Warder—Mary Savage, Marshal—Mary B. Davidson, Chaplain—Mary Clarke, Organist—Lizzie Roberts, Sentinel—A. L. Phelps.

These officers will be installed at a joint meeting with the Blue Lodge, Masons on Tuesday evening, December 27.

If Saloons Go, so Must Women.

The debate by the High School Literary society last Friday afternoon was decided unanimously in favor of the "wets." The question turned on the issue whether Hood River would be better off without saloons Harold Hershner and Miss Marjorie Baker were the strong debaters for the winning side.

In answer to the argument that saloons had a bad influence on men, Harold Hershner sought to prove by the same logic that woman should be abolished.

"Didn't Eve have a bad influence on Adam in the Garden of Eden," went on the young speaker, "and has not Mrs. Chaswick proven the ruin of a Cleveland banker and brought disgrace to the name of Carnegie?" In the land fraud cases recently tried at Portland, two women were said to be at the bottom of the whole conspiracy. If we must abolish that which has a baneful influence on man, we must make no exceptions and include woman with the other evils of the day."

Before such unimpeachable logic the judges, Mayor Blowers, Rev. Spight and Cecil Green, gave a unanimous decision in the young man's favor.

Woman's suffrage will be the next subject for debate. By a decision of the members of the literary society, the debates will hereafter be held in the evening, which will permit of a larger attendance. The next debate will be held in the Odd Fellows' hall, over the Paris Fair, Friday evening, January 6.

In Hood River, Wednesday, December 14, 1904, the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Snyder. The little one was but two days old at the time of its death. The child appeared healthy and vigorous, but died from heart failure. Burial was made Friday in Idlewild cemetery.

N. T. Chapman, after running a 25c adlet in the Glacier for two weeks, made sale of his 10 acres to E. M. Osburn; consideration, $2,000. Mr. Osburn comes from Chenoweth and will build on the land. Nothing pays like a Glacier ad.

The state horticultural society will meet in Portland, Wednesday and Thursday, January 11 and 12. E. L. Smith will attend from Hood River. Mr. Smith has been asked by Professor Elliott of the Pullman agricultural college to attend a fruit growers' meeting at Pullman January 19, but he says with the meeting in Portland, and the convention of the Northwest Fruit Growers' association at Boise, January 16, 17 and 18, it is impossible for him to attend the meeting in Eastern Washington. Mr. Smith is in constant receipt of such invitations, and says if he could accept them all he would have all his time occupied traveling about the country talking horticulture.
