

Hood River Glacier

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1905.

Hope for Cascade County.

While Cascade county's fate still hangs in the balance because of political combinations in the state senate, there is yet ground for hoping that Hood River's desires for local self government will be granted.

Hood River has a delegation of citizens at the capital who are leaving no stone unturned to clear the road for passage of the bill through the senate. Night and day have these men worked, and win or lose they one and all deserve a public vote of thanks from the citizens of this town and valley, and the growing community of Mosier.

Representative Jayne took the Cascade county measure through the house without a dissenting vote. He has aroused an interest in the success of his new county bill second to no other measure before the legislature. Mr. Jayne received a handsome vote in Wasco county last June. If he ever wants to run for office again his vote in the western end will be unanimous.

There remains yet a week until the adjournment of the legislature, and as many things can be brought to bear on legislation at the last moments of a session, the friends of Cascade county feel confident of swinging a sufficient number of senators into line to pass the bill.

The benefits to be derived by the people in the proposed new county cannot be over estimated, and it is to be hoped that the bill will become a law.

Professor Whitten cheers us with the announcement that present conditions indicate the biggest fruit year in 1905 that we have had in seven years. "Present conditions" may be all right, but their initial letters, as fruit growers have learned, stand also for "possible contingencies."—Practical Fruit Grower.

Oregon should be proud of her junior senator, Charles W. Fulton, who is rapidly advancing at the national capital. When he enters his third year, Senator Fulton will be chairman of the committee on claims, one of the most important committees of that body. It was fortunate for this state when Senator Fulton was chosen. He is a man who, especially in Washington, becomes popular and influential. He has the bearing of a man, the manner of a gentleman, the requisites of a statesman, and is a born and persuasive orator. He is a decided credit to Oregon.—Woodburn Independent.

WILLIAMS NOW IN HIS NEW BUILDING

Williams' pharmacy is now located in the new building on the corner of Oak and Second streets. Mr. Williams began moving Saturday noon. There is lots of hard work in moving an entire store of goods, but Mr. Williams will soon have his store arranged once more. Located on one of the best business corners in the city, Mr. Williams has the finest drug store in the city. The main store room, 20x70, faces Oak street, while his laboratory occupies 100 square feet in the rear of the room taken by the central office of the telephone company.

A skylight in the rear of the room admits an abundance of soft light to the prescription counter. At the rear of the main store, windows extending the full height of the 14-foot walls furnish all the light needed in the back part of the room. Fine plate glass windows, with steel clamps at the corners, make a very attractive front to the store. The counters are also of plate glass and oak—all of the latest patterns and designs in interior furnishings. The floor is of solid oak and polished. Later, Mr. Williams says, the walls will be tinted. Chandeliers fitted with glass prisms furnish a flood of electric light at night that makes the building light as day. With the over-head lights there is not a shadow in the store.

The Williams Pharmacy is the original pioneer drug store of Hood River. While it has been conducted under several names and by several different parties, it is the same business house established here 20 years ago. Mr. Williams enjoys a splendid trade, and has many friends who wish to extend success in his new location.

Ministers in City Hold Meeting.

All the ministers in charge of churches in this city met Monday morning at 10:30 with Rev. W. C. Evans for an hour of fellowship and conference.

A most profitable season was spent in exchange of ideas and in strengthening the common purpose to make the churches of force and value to the highest culture and welfare of Hood River and vicinity.

Advance in Oregon Newtowns.

According to a market circular issued about the middle of January by a large London fruit firm the only strong feature of the European market is the demand for table fruit.

Barrels of Nova Scotia Ribstones and Golden Russets kept their price at about $5.50 to $6.25 a barrel, while Oregon Newtown pippins continued wonderfully strong, the best qualities going at from $4.00 to $4.75 a box.

Oregon Apples in Boston.

The following from a recent issue of the Youth's Companion pays a glowing tribute to Oregon apples and their growers:

Oregon apples sell in Boston markets for 60 and 75 cent a dozen—a higher price than is asked for good oranges in the same market. The reason is that they are carefully selected and carefully packed. The fact and the reason are commended "to whom it may concern."

On a Hunt For Five Cougars.

Dan Moars returned Sunday night from a visit with Mordecai Jones and William Frost in the woods above Hudson. Mrs. Moars accompanied Dan, and was the guest of Mrs. Jones while the hunters charged through the woods in search of mountain lions.

to get any of the big cats, but are still in the woods, and Jones will never rest until he has one of them. Chief Jonnia of the Klickitats is with Jones.

When our cougars Dan says the dogs would pay no attention to the numerous deer that jumped up every now and then. The bounds are trained to hunt bear and cougars, and consider deer too tame a game for them. The cougars have become so numerous and so destructive to the deer that Jones is anxious to thin them out. Carcasses of deer killed by the cougars were frequently met with.

OFFERS WATER $2 A HYDRANT

Because of the uncertain condition of a weak treasury, the city council was forced to lay over a proposition from the Hood River Electric Light and Power Co., offering water for fire protection at $2 per hydrant per fire.

The proposition submitted to the council by H. F. Davidson, manager of the Water company, reads as follows: "We will lay the necessary 6-inch and 8-inch mains for furnishing water to hydrants in the business portion of the city for $2 per month per hydrant, the city to put on the hydrants, or we will put on the hydrants at $2.25 per month and the city to repay us for the hydrants at cost installed, at termination of this arrangement, and to keep them in repair from the beginning.

"Water to be furnished to the hydrants from our present system with an 8-inch main, also to be connected with Mr. Wilson's pipe at State and Oak streets. Water from Mr. Wilson's pipe will be used in case of fire requiring more water than our system would afford. Mr. Wilson agreeing to keep a supply of not less than 500,000 gallons and in case his supply should fall temporarily we can use our surplus from the upper system in maintaining the full supply at all times.

"Hydrants may be put in on the hill under a head of not less than 50 feet on 6-inch or 8-inch mains as now laid at $1 per month, or $1.25 per month on same conditions as above provided, for the lower part of the city.

"In addition to above we will furnish free of charge water for flushing sewers and for drinking fountain and for watering troughs.

"In order that we may furnish water on the above conditions it is important that a contract be entered into promptly."

J. E. Rand of the fire and water committee remarked that the proposition "looked good if we can pay for it." Early moved that the proposition be referred to the fire and water committee to draw up the best contract they could.

McDonald thought the matter should go into the hands of the finance committee. The offer from Mr. Davidson looked very reasonable to him, but he stated that it is estimated that it will require the expenditure of $2000 or more to supply the city with the necessary fire hose and other apparatus, which the city take the water from the hydrants. With the possibility that the city will have to pay the saloon men their $1200, the town has already reached the limit of indebtedness without bonding.

A vote being called on Mr. Early's motion, there were no "ayes," and after a long pause, but three faint "noes." A petition from J. F. Batchelder to erect a frame building on the Davidson block on River street, within the fire limits, was denied. It was the opinion of the council that if one party were allowed to erect wooden buildings within the fire district, others would have to be granted the same privilege, and the question would be of no effect.

Oscar Stranahan was present to ask the council what had become of a plat he had left with the recorder for filing. It was explained that owing to the unsettled condition of the boundary lines on the hill, the plat was left with the committee on streets and public property, but before a report could be brought in the plat had been filed with the county clerk. As this is contrary to the laws of the city, the plat had to be rejected.

McDonald expressed himself as anxious that the boundary dispute on the hill be settled. He was very emphatic in stating that the city could not accept plat boundaries extending the ground of which encroaches from six to ten feet on a public street.

Councilman Early presented by request a verbal petition from T. H. Williams to stretch a sign across Oak street from the Paris fair corner to the fire block. A motion that the request be not granted carried.

On motion of Early the fire and water committee was instructed to have the engine house painted at the lowest possible cost to the city.

The following claims against the city were allowed and warrants ordered drawn for their payment.

Death of Mrs. Phoebe Jones.

Mrs. Phoebe Langdon Jones, beloved mother of Miss Emma R. Jones of Hood River and L. W. Jones of Walla Walla, died at the residence of her son, in Walla Walla, Saturday morning, February 4, aged 75 years. Her death was preceded by a short but severe illness of la grippe and asthma.

In early life Mrs. Jones became a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, and throughout her long life remained true and faithful to her convictions.

In Hood River, Mrs. Jones had a large circle of friends and acquaintances who will be deeply pained to learn of her sudden death. She was a kind neighbor, a true friend and loving mother. Her unusually cheerful disposition and sweetness of character caused her to be held in high esteem by all who knew her.

Funeral services with burial were conducted in Walla Walla, Monday, Rev. Mr. Brown of the Methodist Episcopal church, officiating.

Mrs. Jones was well known to the people of Hood River, especially the older settlers, who will be deeply pained to learn of her death. Mrs. Jones spent last summer in Hood River with her daughter, Miss Jones. She went to Walla Walla in October to spend the winter with her son.

Eat Dinner and Sew Raps. One of the most pleasant and enjoyable affairs that has lately transpired in the jungles of Hood River was a ragtime soiree at the home of Mrs. J. G. Gill. The party consisted of members of the relief corps and a few stars that shone brightly. The occasion was the celebration of Mrs. Gill's 50th birthday.

All several raps and played pranks on each other until every one was aglow with merriment and laughter. At five o'clock the doors of the dining room were thrown open, where stood a beautiful table, groaning under its ponderous weight of viands.

Mrs. Gill deserves much praise for the charming and most delightful way in which she so royally entertained us. May she enjoy many such happy occasions, and the relief corps wish their black sheep hope to be present.

Not Her Menn. She was manager of a Fresh Air Fund society and for a long time she had fixed her attention upon a certain old couple in a flourishing rural district, where they lived amid peace and plenty. Finally, after much persuasion, they had consented to take a child into their home for a few weeks' change, and the Fresh Air Fund lady set about the selection of the most destitute and forlorn one on the list to give it the benefit of this unusual opportunity.

In due time the child, a little girl of the proper degree of wretchedness, was found and sent to the kind shelter awaiting her. That night the hospitable hostess, with a heart overflowing with pity, prepared the most bountiful supper, and, thinking to treat the little stranger to a great delicacy that she had never tasted, provided a big apple pie.

As the thin hollow-eyed child took her place at the table she cast a somewhat critical glance over the array of food and ejaculated succinctly: "Apple pie and no cheese! Hell!"—Lippincott's.
