

SEND BOX NEWTOWNS TO SOUTH SEA ISLANDS

A box of Hood River Newtowns when opened in the South Sea Islands ought to startle the natives, sure enough.

Oscar Vanderbilt, proprietor of the Beulah Land fruit ranch on the East Side, shipped a box of his famous Newtowns last week to A. L. Craig, the general passenger agent of the O. R. & Co., who with Mrs. Craig is enjoying the sunshine on Tahiti island, way down in the southern Pacific ocean, 8000 miles from Oregon.

Mr. Vanderbilt has written Mr. Craig to distribute the apples to his friends there and to tell them that the fruit came from Hood River.

Never Too Much Fancy Fruit.

Some people always see gloomy prospects and plumed markets; they always look on the dark side of everything and seem never to catch even a glimpse of the silver edging of a cloud, says the Canadian Horticulturist. We do, indeed, find our markets at times over-supplied with certain fruits, but if we look into the conditions we find either that the fruit was poor or that it was badly distributed. Perhaps one market was receiving three-fourths of the shipments from our Canadian growers and hundreds of smaller markets throughout the country where almost none of supply. We do not believe that too much really high grade fruit, of good shipping quality, can be grown. There is an axiom about this which we believe will hold good, namely, "The more good fruit put into a market the greater will be the consumption and the better the prices in the end," while no doubt the reverse of this statement is equally true. The fact is that when people cannot get good apples, for example, they will look out for choice fruits of other kinds, whether fresh or preserved, to take their place, and so on throughout the chapter. The moral then is plain—grow only fancy high grade fruit, and place such goods only on the market, and the chances are that we shall seldom see a glut, unless it be over-ripe fruit that must be hurriedly disposed of.

Buys Air Pressure Spray Pump.

Oscar Vanderbilt of the Beulah Land fruit farm has ordered something new in the way of power spray pumps from the East. If the machine comes up to the recommendation of the manufacturer, Mr. Vanderbilt expects to greatly lessen the labor expense in orchard spraying. The pump will be operated by compressed air. The pump comes already attached to a carriage, and the revolution of the wheels as the wagon is driven to the orchard is expected to raise the necessary pressure, which will be maintained as the machine is driven through the orchard from tree to tree. At present it requires four men to operate a spray pump in the orchard.

Wagon Road on North Bank Columbia

The bill to establish a road between Washougal in Clark county and Lyle, in this county, along the north bank of the Columbia river, is pretty sure to become a law at this session of the legislature, says the White Salmon Enterprise. The bill has already passed the house and was under consideration in the senate. It is understood that there is not much doubt this time but that it will become a law.

The bill carries an appropriation of $15,000 which will be used to construct a joint together the links of wagon road already existing between the terminal points. This is likely what is intended, as the appropriation would not be a drop in the bucket when it comes to building an entire new road. In joining together the stretches of county road it would probably be found necessary to build or reconstruct a short piece of road between Washougal and Cape Horn, then there would be a short but heavy piece of work between the Lower and Upper Cascades, then would come the main obstacle between the Collins hot springs and Little White Salmon rivers seven or eight miles of pretty rough country and a bridge across the latter stream.

This is the only bridge on the route of any consequence not already built. There would be a great deal to be gained from the White Salmon bridge and probably another up the hill east of the town of White Salmon. The rest of the road is built.

"Hit the Trail."

Hood River, Ore., Jan. 1, 1905.—W. O. Martin and family sent me a royal invitation to visit them after my arrival here from Shawnee, Oklahoma, which I accepted. I spent a week with them in their Hood River valley home in the Crapper district. Mr. Martin and I would never tire of talking about our friends in Sunny Florida. As he writes the Hood River news, I will just drop a few lines pertaining to the coming Lewis and Clark exposition at Portland.

"Hit the Trail" is the expression. "Hit the trail" at the fair at Portland, the pride and metropolis of the Pacific northwest, called by the enthusiastic "Rose City," and the "Pearl of the Pacific." And dear readers, while "hitting the long trail," as I may express it—the long railway trail across the continent to the fair—you will see sights worth coming the four thousand miles for. Sights in among the Rockies are certainly grand, but for scenic beauty Oregon will lead the world, Florida, the land of flowers, excepted. To my mind the mighty Columbia river presents a most beautiful sight indeed. Its scenery in the midst of the Cascades is truly magnificent. From the heights of Portland on a clear day can be seen the snow-capped summits of Mount Hood, St. Helens, Rainier, Adams and Jefferson, a sight worth indeed beholding. Between the Cascades and the coast range is found one of the garden spots of the world, where the soil is rich, the moisture abundant and transportation easy. Oklahoma has cotton, corn, wheat, watermelons and enterprising cities, but Oregon has the sea, and wheat, and cattle, and fruit, and forest, and fish, and gold, and silver, and nickel, and copper, and tin, and last, but not least, scenery. It was the battleship Oregon, the "huldee" of the navy, which sailed around the horn on record-breaking time and saved the day at Santiago de Cuba, during the Spanish-American war, so it is with the state of Oregon in the public eye at the present time.—Albert Anson Graham, in the Ocala Fla. Star.

Fraud Exposed.

A few counterfeiters have lately been making and trying to sell imitations of

Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds and other ailments, thereby defrauding the public. This is to warn you to beware of such people, who seek to profit, through stealing the reputation of remedies which have been successfully curing disease, for over 35 years. A sure protection, to you, is our name on the wrapper. Look for it, on all Dr. King's or Wackerlin's remedies, as all others are mere imitations. H. E. HARVEY DUNN FOUND DEAD UNDER THE ICE

Harvey Dunn, an adopted son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Jewett of White Salmon, was found dead, Monday morning, under the ice of Warner lake, a small pond on Hingen flat. The boy had started skating Sunday afternoon. He did not return that night, but no alarm was felt as he was accustomed to remaining over night with friends.

Search was made when he failed to appear Monday morning. None of his friends had seen anything of him. His horse was soon found tied to a tree at the edge of the pond. In the center of the pond the ice was broken, and on searching the water, the lifeless body of the young man was found.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon, from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Jewett. Harvey Dunn was a half brother of Aulus Jewett, who died last summer of typhoid fever. Mr. and Mrs. Jewett are very much grieved over their sad loss. It is stated by old settlers that Warner lake has never been known to freeze over before and remain frozen all day.

WORKING MODELS FOR IRRIGATION EXHIBIT

Special to the Glacier.

Portland, Feb. 15.—Hood River should be particularly interested in the irrigation exhibit which will be made at the Lewis and Clark exposition. The exhibit will be complete, well arranged and instructive, and will prove a marvel to eastern people, who know little of the wonderful results which an artificial water supply has accomplished in many western districts.

The exhibit will largely consist of working models of irrigation projects, the largest being patterned after the $5,000,000 plant now being built in Southern Arizona. The models will show the manner of storing the water by reservoirs, the method of carrying it into the lowlands by means of canals and flumes, and its final distribution to the lands to be irrigated. There will also be models of dams and reservoirs, and an exhibit of instruments used in determining the amount of water which may be utilized from any given stream. In addition to these displays, there will be a practical illustration of irrigation methods on the grounds back of the government building, on the peninsula in Guilds lake, where there will be a small farm with crops growing on land actually irrigated.

Death of Miss Sadie Young.

Miss Sadie Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Young of Odell, East Hood River, died at Santa Barbara, Cal., Sunday, February 5. The body was brought to Hood River Friday. Funeral services were held Sunday in the M. E. church in this city. At the request of the family of the deceased, Milton Odell, assisted by Rev. W. C. Evans with the services. Mr. Odell wants the Sunday school teacher of Miss Sadie, and favored friend of hers. Burial was made at Idlewild cemetery. Troy Shelley of Hood River writes as follows from Santa Barbara, on the death of Sadie Young: "Sadie Young was a little over 15 years old. She had been sick nearly a year with what was supposed to be typhoid fever in the first place, but which turned out to be tuberculosis of the bowels. Her case was a very peculiar one, baffling the skill of all her physicians for a long time to diagnosis.

"When the trouble was finally known, her father, like many another parent who has struggled with the grim monster, resolved to leave no stone unturned to save the life of his child. Gathering all together, he came with his family and the writer, to Santa Barbara, landing here December 20.

"Here it seemed, if anywhere on earth, seductive influences of nature would woo her back to health. The still, warm, sunshiny days, and the pure, fresh air from the ocean laden with the balm of blooming flowers, was wonderfully invigorating.

"For a time she got better, but it was not to be. Death finally claimed her body for his victim, but could not conquer the soul. She fell asleep in Jesus, peacefully, quietly, trusting Him to the end.

"Although so young she had a peculiar quality of character, which greatly endeared her to those around her; and it is safe to say that along with her friends, every doctor and nurse who attended her in these last days loved her.

"We are again reminded that 'The king of terrors loves a shining mark.' Happy the mother who bore her into this world and into the kingdom of the Lord."

Vermont to Have Unique Building.

Special to the Glacier. Portland, Feb. 15.—The pavilion which Vermont will erect at the Lewis and Clark centennial will be one of the most interesting on the grounds. The building will be an exact reproduction of the old Constitution House of 1777. In this novel exposition structure will be housed exhibits to show the resources of the Green Mountain state. Historical records and other public documents will show the part which Vermont has taken in the history of the union, and there will be exhibits to tell the progress of Vermont from the days of Ethan Allen to the present time. The building will be used as a club house for the visitors from the Green Mountain state, and thousands are expected to register there.

MAKE VALUABLE TAR FROM PINE STUMPS

D. I. Stone of this city is firmly convinced the people of Hood River are letting a fortune slip through their fingers because they permit the pine stumps on their land to go to waste, when it would be possible to extract the turpentine at a good profit. If the pine stumps elsewhere are turned into money, Mr. Stone considers it an awful waste because Hood River farmers do not investigate the matter.

Pine tar plants have been started up near the head of Lake Superior. That the industry is no experiment and of no doubtful value is shown by the fact that the Weyerhaeuser syndicate, the largest lumbering concern in the world, has taken it up, has just bought out the plants already established and is installing more.

All the regions about the head of Lake Superior is, or was, covered with pine timber, and when this was cut out, the stumps remained in the ground. Pine stumps do not rot as do those of hard woods and the pressure of these stumps was a serious obstacle to the spread of farming in the region.

Now comes the pine tar company and offers to clear the farm of all its old stumps, or pay the owner $3 for every cubic foot of them that he will himself. For farmers throughout thousands of acres, this is an inestimable boon and it will open hundreds of thousands of acres as fast as the stumps are cut out.

The company has invented, or applied existing processes of destructive distillation of wood to the pine stumps and is securing a combined product of great value. There is a large number of turpentine and tar stumps also a high grade of lubricating oil, tar, and finally, excellent charcoal. The discovery that lubricating oil was to be secured from stumps by carrying the distilled product to its last analysis is a revolution, and no machines for producing this have yet been installed, but they are to be put in at once in the company's plant a few miles south of Duluth.

Changed His Mind. A tramp, dirty and ragged to the last degree, called at a house on the door which was a doctor's sign. A large, rather masculine-looking woman opened the door.

"Sense melody," said the tramp, "but I just called to see if the doctor had any old clothes he'd let me have. You see, I'm kind of broke here last week, and I'd be much obliged for anything the doctor could let me have, an' I ain't particular as to the fit."

The woman smiled and made reply,—"I am the doctor!"

"Sublime Moses!" ejaculated the tramp as he made a beeline for the gate.—Lippincott's
