Aorney E. H. Hartwig boarded the noon train Tuesday for the Dalles, where he is interested in a criminal case of Brown vs. Fisher, being heard this week before the circuit court. Brown and Fisher are the only men in the Dalles who were in the military service of the United States. He left his regiment at Fort Assiniboine, Mont., early in January, and since then had been nearly starved. A deserter's life was too strenuous, so he gave himself up to Deputy Sheriff Olinger.

Grace and Lois Campbell, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Campbell, former residents of Hood River, were among the injured in the street car accident in Portland last week. Shaffer writes that Mrs. Grace Campbell had been cut open and her chest crushed, but not seriously. Lois had her leg sprained. Moore desired to purchase a few boxes, but he was unable to know something about the country and to keep posted on outside conditions, so he left for the Dalles. Thornton did. There is indication that fierce competition in the berry crate business will result in lower prices than were ever heard of before in Hood River.

Poling conducted a short committal service.—Chronicle.

Their Estimate. It was in the superb new Congressional Library building at Washington, and one of the ever-present ladies making a tour of the city had gone all over the building arm-in-arm with her rather raw-looking young bridegroom. Taking a last look at the beautiful interior, the bride said at the door: "It don't seem to me so terrible much do it?" to which the young Bessie replied with: "No; 'tain't no great shakes of a building fer as I can see."—Lippincott's.

Death of Baby Vaughan.

Kathryn, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton H. Vaughan died early Tuesday morning aged one month and five days.

A brief funeral service was conducted by Rev. J. L. Hersher at the family residence Tuesday morning. The last little form was taken to The Dalles for interment in the burial plot of the family.

Mr. and Mrs. Vaughan have the sincere and heartfelt sympathy of the entire community in their sorrow.

Here to Learn Spraying Methods.

E. O. Beas, resident of Hood River, will now a resident on Mill creek, southwest of The Dalles, was in Hood River during the week, interviewing some of the fruit men on the best methods of spraying fruit trees. Mr. Beas has been a successful grower of Hood River fruit, and of course wants to make use of the latest successful methods. Last year Mr. Beas's fruit turned off 100 bushels of mostly Spitzenberg; 4,000 pounds of mostly cherries, and 800 bushels of peaches.

Mr. Beas and family are well pleased with their new home. His neighbors are very hospitable and have made himself and family right at home. The second night in their new home a four-man load of young people trooped in for a surprise party. The community is sociable and hospitable, and the Beas have soon become acquainted.

Passes Peacefully to the Great Beyond.

Feeling poorly but not seriously ill, Mrs. Carrie Abbott laid down on the sofa last Saturday morning. Those in the room noticed her turn on her left side, and in a few moments were startled to find her dead. Mrs. Abbott was the mother of H. M. Abbott, and lived with the family of her son on the heights.

Funeral services were conducted at the First Unitarian church, Saturday morning. Rev. J. L. Hersher assisted Rev. O. J. Nelson in the services. Interment was made at Idelwilde cemetery.

Mrs. Abbott was aged 62 years, 5 months and 3 days. She was born in Gosport, Mass. Her maiden name was Caroline Dixwell Herber. In 1860 she was married to Herbert Abbott, who died five years ago.

H. M. Abbott of this city was her only child. Some 20 years ago Mrs. Abbott suffered a fall which injured her respiratory organs. It is believed that this served to induce apoplexy, probably the cause of her sudden and peaceful death.

Flag Raising Week from Friday.

Because of the cold weather the flag raising at the Pleasant View school, the school on the hill, has been postponed until Friday afternoon of next week. There will be a program and speeches by members of W. R. C. and teachers and pupils of the school. An invitation is extended to all the teachers and school children to be present.

Mrs. T. J. Canning, patriotic instructor for Canby post, W. R. C., has been instrumental in pushing the flag raising. Mrs. Canning is determined that something shall be done this summer along this line, and believes there is a good opportunity here to make a start.

Carl of Thanks.

H. M. Abbott and family wish to thank their many friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted during the passing on of their mother, Mrs. Caroline Driscoll Abbott. Also the dear friends and ladies of the Relief corps who so kindly assisted at the church.

H. M. ABBOTT and FAMILY.

ICE STOPS TRAFFIC ON THE COLUMBIA

The Columbia river at The Dalles is a mass of packed ice chunks extending almost a mile above the city, it having blocked at Crates point soon after noon yesterday, says the Chronicle. Reports from down the river say that the river is clear below Manseloc. Monday the little steamer George W. Simon, came as far up as Hood River, but was advised to go back and is now at the locks. The Regulator by starting down earlier than usual, succeeded in keeping ahead of the ice and reached Portland, where it will remain until the river is again clear.

Up at Grants yesterday they crossed the river in a skiff as they did here early in the morning. Today there is a message saying there is no way of reaching the other side, though they may be able to cross on the ice tomorrow.

Trains for Goldendale have also been stopped, so that passengers for the other side are in a bad way.

Before purchasing anything in the watch, clock or jewelry line, get my prices. Clarke, the jeweler.

Booth's

Announcement

Last year we commenced what we propose to make an annual feature in our business—a series of church benefit sales, giving the profit of one day's sales to each organized country church in the valley. They were a great success last year and we intend to make them more so this year. First sale will be by the Ladies Aid Society of the Belmont Methodist Church, Wednesday, March 15th.
