

TELLS THE WORLD OF HOOD RIVER

"Hood River is not only making a national reputation for her fruit, but is doing more to advertise Oregon among the Eastern people than all the rest of the state put together," remarked John A. Westerlund, of Wm. Westerlund & Co., land and immigration agents of Chicago, who was in Hood River Monday trading business with his Hood River representative, George D. Culbertson.

Mr. Westerlund is an enthusiastic booster of the Hood River country. He is a constant reader of the Glacier and every week finds something in it to show to people asking about Hood River. Every now and then he clips a fruit story from the Glacier and has a plate made from which 5000 copies are printed and sent broadcast over the Eastern states.

Many people who are now residents of Hood River, and glad they came here, first learned of this valley through advertising literature sent out by Westerlund & Co. Mr. Westerlund says he frequently comes across names in the Glacier of people who had formerly written to him asking about Hood River. The Glacier has a large list of Eastern readers who have subscribed for the Glacier at the instance of Mr. Westerlund, in order that they may learn more about this wonderful and famous fruit valley.

Mr. Westerlund is anxious to come West and make his headquarters at Hood River. He is in love with Oregon and thinks there is no place like Hood River. When in Portland last week Mr. Westerlund received $15 worth of Hood River orchard views, which he has put into albums for his Chicago office. They will create a sensation in the East, says he.

Mr. Westerlund was at St. Louis when the Hood River apples arrived, and secured a number of the boxes of the fruit when the fair closed. "Your fruit show there was the greatest of the world ever saw," said Mr. Westerlund.

Hansbery Launches a Steamer.

The successful launching of the steamer Wi-ne-ma on Klamath Lake a few weeks ago is given extended mention in the Reporter from Klamath Falls. The little steamer is 110 feet in length and 19 feet beam, and is built to carry 300 passengers. Hansbery, one of the partners in launching, is well known in Hood River, where his mother and sister reside. Following is a portion of the account as given in the Klamath Republican:

"Totten and Hansbery are receiving the congratulations of their friends for the initiatory success of the enterprise, and they have the best wishes of the entire public for a prosperous career in steamboning on the Klamath waters."

"The day was fine and the crowd was large, the ceremony was impressive and everybody pronounced it one of Klamath county's most important and successful events."

"The Indian maiden, Wi-ne-ma, was the pride and belle of Klamath county when it was ruled by the aborigines; and the steambone, Wi-ne-ma, will be the belle and pride of the Upper Klamath—the inland sea of Southern Oregon."

"The boat was built by Messrs. Totten & Hansbery to navigate the waters of the Upper Klamath, and was launched last Saturday afternoon in the presence of about 250 spectators."

"Promptly at the hour appointed Oscar C. Stone stepped to the bow of the vessel and in a brief speech introduced Mrs. F. W. Jennings, who was the lucky contestant in the selection of a name for the boat, and as a result had the honor of christening it."

"On the waters of the mighty Klamath, under God's blue canopy, with this wine of sunny France, I christen thee Wi-ne-ma."

"Prospects Never Were Better." "In all of the good fruit years we have ever had in Hood River, prospects for full crops never were better than right now," remarked Frank Chandler, owner of several large orchards on the West Side of the river.

"This will be my year for a big crop on the Council place, and I will also have 600 young trees that will bear their first crop this fall."

"Now that the cold snap has passed over, no one expects to see any more winter weather. The mercury hinged the zero mark for several days, but all fruit buds were dormant, and no damage has been noted. Snow covered the strawberry fields, and a big crop is expected of this fruit."

Mr. Chandler says he has met many newcomers inquiring for lands, and from what he can gather, this will be a banner year for Hood River.

Shoe Social Friday Night.

Mountain Home camp, Royal Neighbors of America, is arranging for a social at K. of P. hall, Friday night of this week. An extended program will be rendered, a special feature of which will be "Our Social Pleasures are Neglected." There will be special music, a tableaux and several other interesting features.

The admission price is to be determined in a unique manner. It will depend on the size of your shoe—five cents for each number. A prize has been arranged for the lady having the largest foot.

That they will have a royal time goes without saying.

Small Fine for James Brown.

Last Friday afternoon James Brown, of Mosier, whom the jury found guilty of assault with a dangerous weapon, recommending the leniency of the court, was fined $100, the minimum fine provided by law for such offense.

No damage was done. L. H. Taffe in his suit against the city of The Dalles. The jury voted the place where Taffe fell into an open sewer and sustained a broken leg, but after remaining out all night, concluding the accident was due to his own negligence, and gave him no damages. The plaintiff was granted two days in which to file a motion for a new trial.

Franz Sells Farm For $12,000.

E. A. Franz sold his 42 1/2-acre farm, two miles south of the city, last week to R. H. Wallace of Portland; consideration, $12,000. Mr. Wallace expects to move here to join his family. He was formerly in the drug business in Portland, but for the last few years has been connected with a large piano house in that city. Mr. Wallace comes here to regain lost health. There are 29 acres of berries on the farm and three acres of young orchard. The balance of the land is given up to clover hay.

W. J. Baker assisted in making the sale.

The Pneumonia Season.

Coughs and colds in children as well as adults are frequently dangerous at this season of the year, and a little pre-now may save much trouble, worry and expense. Kennedy's Laxative and Tar is a combined cough and cold cure—a new scientific discovery in medicine—is a certain cure for coughs, colds, whooping cough, etc. The coughs and colds are cleared out of the system by gently moving the bowels, and at the same time the throat, chest, lungs and bronchial tubes are so strengthened that there is little probability of danger. Kennedy's Laxative and Tar is pleasant to take. Contains no opiates. Sold by G. E. Williams.

PLOW UP BERRIES IN MIDDLE WEST

"Word comes from reliable sources in the Middle West that hundreds of acres of berry patches in Arkansas and Missouri have been plowed up because of poor prices received last year," says E. A. Franz of the Hood River Fruit Growers' union. "This should work to the advantage of Hood River strawberry growers," continued Mr. Franz, "particularly to those who have taken good care of their patches since the crop was taken off last summer. There is not the acreage here this year there was last, and with fewer berries elsewhere this should be a good berry year. Brokers and commission men in the East are already beginning to ask about berries for this year."

McCLURE TO PLANT 1000 CHERRY TREES

D. D. McClure has 700 cherry trees set out on his White Salmon farm, and will continue planting until he has an orchard of 1000 cherry trees. Mr. McClure is satisfied there is money in cherries. The trees in his young orchard have made a vigorous growth, and if some older trees in the neighborhood can be taken as a criterion of what cherry trees will do at White Salmon Mr. McClure has a fortune in sight.

From one cherry tree on the C. F. Waldo place 200 pounds of fruit have been gathered each season for the past two years. This fruit brought over four cents a pound.

A portion of Mr. McClure's land is among the very earliest at White Salmon. He has ten acres in berries, and hopes to get the bulk of his crop in the market before berries on this side of the river get fairly started. He has kept two men busy in his berry patches and orchard all winter.

Mr. McClure has constructed a concrete reservoir on the upper part of his farm from which he has a system of pipes running to every foot of his ground. He irrigates with whirling sprinklers, which do away entirely with ditching. There is no waste from evaporation as is frequently the case when the water is carried in open ditches or ditches.

The majority of Mr. McClure's cherry trees are Royal Annes. He says this variety sells well in Portland markets and is preferred by fruit canneries. Last year 28 cartloads of these cherries were picked and shipped from Southern California to France, where they were put through a preparation, packed in little bottles and sent back to America for use as a decoration in fancy luncheon drinks.

Mr. McClure says he has expended a great deal of money in improving his place since he purchased it a few years ago, but he is satisfied there is a good thing in it for him.

Kicked off Fortune and to Fame.

Portland Journal, Portland. Frank Angus, who was in earnest this week visiting old friends, has an illustration of the opportunity to the good offers to her children and newcomer.

Some years ago Mr. Angus was a street car conductor on the lines of the Portland Street Railway company, but owing to some difficulty with the Superintendent he retired. It happened at a time when he was extremely short of funds. He never had been able to get ahead financially, and owned nothing more than the usual limited amount of personal effects that men cannot well get along without. Seeing no opening for work in this city, he resolved to go east.

He was loath to part with the few pieces of silver left in his pocket after he had discharged his small debts. He took passage on the blind baggage over the Oregon Railroad & Navigation company's line. At Hood River a brakeman put him off the train. Wandering about in the little town, without a friend within its precincts or any hope of finding work there, he saw an advertisement for berry pickers. He promptly sought out the berry patch owner and accepted a job.

Mr. Angus the other day refused $15,000 for his apple orchard in Hood River valley, about three miles from the town, where, nine years before, the brakeman compelled him to seek and find the fortune waiting there for him.

In Memory of Miss Sadie Young.

By the trosside in solemn silence, We are sitting all alone; And our hearts are calling, calling For the loved one that has gone. Tears from our eyes are starting, And wrinkled is our brow; Ah! and the hour of parting— We have no Sadie now.

From morning until evening Sorrow rests upon our brow; She has gone from us to Heaven, And is with the angels now.

MARIE LOCKMAN. A lovely bud of promise, Of beauty bright and fair, Has left this world of sorrow To dwell with angels there.

Lost! Oh, no! But safe in Heaven; Free from sorrow, pain and care. God in tender mercy took thee To dwell with angels there.

Faded are the snow-white fingers, Dimmed are those laughing eyes; But now she broadly robed in glory In the palace of the skies.

Here we never more shall see her Till we see the light of day— Till with angel wings like Sadie, We from earth shall pass away.

Father, mother, brother, friend do not weep. Gone to her last rest 'has our loved one. Her life was full of suffering, God's will, not ours, be done. MRS. L. T. O.

Expect Heavy Wool Clip.

The prime condition of the sheep at this time indicates that the wool clip will be even heavier than last year. The lamb crop, too, is expected to be excellent, owing to the splendid condition of the ewes. Sheep men in Morrow feel confident of being able to save 90 to 100 per cent. Although prospects are good shipments of sheep cannot yet be forecasted with any degree of accuracy, as buyers will not enter this territory until about the time the sheep are turned on the summer range.—Heppner Times.

OUTLINES PLAN FOR DEVELOPMENT WORK

At the suggestion of E. L. Smith, president of the Oregon Development League, a meeting of the members will be held in Portland, April 4 and 5, when plans will be perfected for having representatives of the various Oregon industries at the Lewis and Clark fair to give out information to visitors, and if possible to send out competent men with parties of Easterners to the different parts of the state and show them what Oregon has to offer the business man and investor.

The official call will be issued in a few days from the office of the secretary, Tom Richardson in Portland. The program and place of meeting will then be announced. Discussing the objects of the convention, President Smith said:

"We must get together in April and decide definitely on a plan by which all the interests of Oregon are represented by competent people on the grounds of the Lewis and Clark exposition. The Oregon Development League should have an office located on the grounds, where visitors could secure reliable information concerning every part of the state. The horticultural interests of the state will be represented by a practical man, who can give those who desire information all they care to know in this line. The mining interests, the timber interests and other lines of industry should be well taken care of."

He says the league should at its April meeting, unite on a plan that will make the organization thoroughly effective in locating advantageous thousands of people who come to seek homes in all parts of the state.

Wedding Reception in the Philippines.

Miss Minnie Schungel of Heloit went to the Philippines some time ago to marry Hoke Simpson, also of Heloit. The bride writes home that all the natives of the surrounding country met them on their arrival at San Estaban, after their marriage at Manila, and escorted them to their home in Santa Maria, a distance of four miles. The bride and groom rode in a two-wheeled cart drawn by an ox and their baggage was borne in carts drawn by bull teams, then a cavalcade of 200 natives followed on to their home where they passed the rest of the natives came out to greet them. In the evening the natives gave a big reception to the bride couple and there were dancing, singing, addresses and an orchestra.—Topeka Capital.

Miss Schungel was last year principal of the Hood River public schools.

Book Commission Reappointed.

Governor Chamberlain has named the members of the old text book commission to compose that body for the next four years. This commission was named by Ex-Governor Geer four years ago, and is composed of W. M. Colvig of Jackson, P. L. Campbell of Eugene, C. A. Johns of Baker City, H. W. Scott and W. M. Ladd of Portland. Although considerable pressure was brought to bear upon Governor Chamberlain by democratic candidates for places on the commission he threw aside all partisan feelings in the matter and appointed the old board, four of whom are republicans.

Ode to White Salmon.

The White Salmon valley So fine and so gay, With its evergreen woods And the orchards that pay; With its cloud-bringing climate And changes, not slow— Sometimes it's rain and sometimes it's snow. With beautiful views always in sight— Mount Hood the sublime, Snow-capped and bright— The gleaming Columbia river divine, No other excels in lover and general farming. With many fine views, north, east and west. Come see this fair country the land of the best.
