THURSDAY, MARCH 9, 1905.

It is proposed now by use of the initiative to do away with the surplus normal schools, and thus save the state the appropriation grants that were engineered through the recent session of the legislature. This appears to us more satisfactory than the plan of invoking the referendum on the general appropriation for the just would suffer with the unjust, and interest amounting to thousands of dollars would have to be paid on loans to state institutions. Make use of the initiative and reduce the four poor normal schools to one good one, and relieve future legislatures of the embarrassment of submitting to the whip of the normal school "machine".

The general rule is that the tourist who travels through a country noted for fruit raising buys only the most inferior products of that country, says the Rural Northwest. The average fruit stands which he passes and the boys who offer fruit in the vicinity of rail way stations, sell the stuff which could not be sold in any other way. It would be a great thing for Oregon this year if some plan could be devised by which the visitors who come to the exposition and pass through the state would find it easy at all times to buy first class fruit. The man who lives here knows where to get good fruit. But the visitor does not.

The Columbia River & Northern railroad, operating between Lyle and Goldendale, and including the Regulator line of steamers has been sold to eastern capitalists, presumably representatives of the Northern Pacific. It is announced that in all likelihood the road will be continued on from Goldendale to Prosser, this summer, thus affording the Northern Pacific a short cut to the Columbia. How soon the company will build down the north bank of the Columbia to Vancouver and then to Portland, no one knows. When this time comes, there will be a rush to secure fine fruit lands in Western Klickitat, and there should be a boom in the valley of the White Salmon, from Underwood to Trout Lake and Camas Prairie.

Advice from White Salmon.

White Salmon Enterprise.
Hood River and The Dalles each had a bill that they very much wished passed by the Oregon legislature at its last session. Hood River wanted a new county and The Dalles wanted an appropriation to extend the state portage railroad from the big oddy into town. The Dalles fought the new county proposition so that it failed to become a law, and the Hood River people grieved the toboggan slide so that the other measure still smoldered in the legislature. It is two communities to have worked together and both secured what they wanted, than to have fought like cats and dogs and neither got anything? The ill feeling thus engendered will last for years and may result in other fights where both sides will lose. The Dalles people evidently believe that it is better to have fought and lost than never to have fought at all.

L. N. Blowers Makes a Capture.

Last Thursday's Oregonian gives the following account of how United States Deputy Marshal Blowers formerly of this city made a neat capture last week:
Apparently fleeing from arrest possibilities, John M. Morgan, an important witness in the land fraud cases, was arrested through the clever work of United States Deputy Marshal L. N. Blowers last night and is now in the custody of the county jailor.

Morgan is witness in the Butte Creek Land, Lumber & Livestock Company fraud case, and the importance of his testimony to the government is evidenced by the close watch kept on his movements. Yesterday the Portland officials were notified that Morgan, whose home is near Fossil, Or., had taken the train for Portland and the game propagandists and movements had been such as to lead to the belief that his journey was to be extensive and indefinite as to duration.

Immediately upon receipt of this advice a warrant was ordered issued for the arrest of Morgan and placed in the hands of United States Marshal.

Armed with the warrant, Deputy Blowers met the O. R. & N. Co.'s Portland-Chicago special at East Portland last night and went through the train, looking for Morgan. After this preliminary sizing up, and while crossing the bridge, Deputy Blowers returned to the snicker and approaching a boyish looking young man, greeted him with a "Hello, Morgan."

"Hello" was the surprised answer, with a questioning look.

"I have a warrant for you," was the laconic reply.
As the train pulled into the depot Morgan gathered up his overcoat and suit case and prepared to leave the train without seeking an explanation.

With a dazed look he was escorted to the United States Marshal's office and only when there did he fully realize that he was under arrest to insure his detention as a witness.

When he was told that he would have to spend at least the night in the county jail, Morgan weakened and begged pitiously for some means of escape. He was allowed to leave the jail house and prevention of news of his incarceration reaching his wife. He told Deputy Blowers that he had $100 in cash with him which he would put up until today, until he could get bonds from Fossil.

Falling in this offer Morgan offered Deputy Blowers $10 if he would allow him to remain in the deputy's charge over night and thus avoid the jail but to this Deputy Blowers was equally obdurate, and Morgan was given into the custody of the sheriff."

A Moral Between the Lines.

White Salmon Enterprise.
Charles Waters, who makes himself busy around the Enterprise office on press days and glories in the name of "printer's devil" and who is 80 years young, told us a story the other day of his experience when he was a boy. He said that he started out one day with a sack of roasting ears on his shoulders to sell them in town and so started the foundation for a large fortune he intended to make. He wandered around town all day and when he came home at night his father asked him if he had sold any corn. "Why, no," he said, "I had not." "He had not learned the art of advertising his wares. There are some business men around here somewhere who might learn a valuable lesson from this story."

MEETING SET FOR SATURDAY 2 O'CLOCK

E. H. Shepard, chairman of the delegation named by President Early of the Hood River Commercial club, to attend the meeting of the Oregon Development league in Portland, April 1 and 5, has issued a call for a meeting of the local delegation at the rooms of the Commercial club at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.
It is imperative that there be a full attendance of the members of this city at the meeting called for Saturday afternoon. Those named as delegates in last week's Glacier are requested to take note of this and attend.

Anxious for a Rousing Meeting.

The executive committee of the Oregon Development league, consisting of W. M. Ladd, chairman; Theodore B. Wilcox, Robert Livingstone, S. L. Mills, J. Frank Watson, J. C. Ainsworth, L. A. Lewis, W. F. Burrell, L. N. Blowers, have issued the formal call for the meeting of the league at Portland, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 4 and 5.

The committee urges an especially large and a thoroughly representative delegation from every portion of Oregon to the convention, at which time plans will be adopted which will result in getting every possible benefit of a permanent character for the state of Oregon as a result of the Lewis and Clark centennial exposition.
As suggested by E. L. Smith, president of the league, it is very probable that at the conventions the delegations from the different sections will be instructed to provide for the sending of representatives to the Lewis and Clark fair to devote their entire time to informing the Eastern visitors of the wonderful resources to be found in each particular part of Oregon.

ARE HERE TO BID ON RAILROAD WORK

Several contractors arrived during the week to put in bids for the construction of the railroad up Hood River valley. This begins to look as if the railroad is almost a certainty.
Engineers West give the assurance that things are shaping up much faster than heretofore, but the matter of rights of way are still unsettled. It is impossible for the company to know exactly where the road will be built, as most of the surveying is being done on the East Side, there is good ground for believing the road will follow up the East bank of the river on the most direct route to the upper timber at the headwaters of the Hood river. From there connection will likely be made with the settlement at Mount Hood.

Congressman Williamson Returns.

Congressman Williamson reached The Dalles Tuesday morning, and the following day went to Portland, where it was his intention to give bonds of $100, by his appearance before the United States court, when the land fraud cases come up for trial.

Lawrence Blowers Will Return.

Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Blowers and children were in Hood River over Sunday, visiting relatives. Mr. Blowers is a deputy in the office of the United States Marshal at Portland. He has to do a great deal of traveling in connection with his position. This work he does not particularly care for, and Hood River people can expect to see himself and family residents of Hood River not later than October.

Belmont Boys Meet Defeat.

The Hood River second nine defeated the Belmont Tigers at Columbia Park last Sunday in the first game of the season. The final score stood 4 to 1 in favor of the locals. The visitors secured early in the game, but were pieces when they took charge in their tallies. There will be another game Sunday. Fifteen and 25 cents admission.

Don't Sign but One.

Mount Hood, Or., Mar. 6.—Editor Glacier: In respect to the report that has got circulated that I took a stamp against the division of Western counties, and worked against it, there is no truth in it, as that was my position at the time, but now the story goes that I turned and signed the petition in favor of the division. Now, the latter statement has no truth in it what ever, as I positively refused to sign the petition after signing the remonstrance. One was enough for me to sign.
ROBERT LEASURE.

The following named pupils were neither tardy nor absent for the month ending February 3: Frieda Hinrichs, Arthur Moses, Viola Wilson, Lena Shoemaker, Claude Thompson, May Smith, Ben Gerking, Emory Cole, Estella Brown, Kitty Smith, Laura Hinrichs, Pardee Serroging, Armand Labbe, William Davenport, Joe Gerking, Anna Fosberg, Ellen Mose, Albert Brown, Willis Davidson, Lanna Johnson, Ernest Laube, Katie Camp, Elbert Moser, Grace Hoskins, Thea Nelson, Cora Jacobson, Marie Stone, Della Smith, Clifford Helms, Van Nordie, Nettle King, Mary Neelich, Alma Lapper, Raymond Ingalls, Orland Morse, Paul Cheney, Alma Hinrichs, Leo Cheney, Willie Gibson, Roy Blocher, Mary Carmes, Kirby Ross, Ora Serroging, Gussie Fosberg, Carrie Camp, Albert Shore, Ned Nelson, Harry Hoskins, Gladys Rowley, Ellis Morse, Vernon Shoemaker, Elsie More, Bessie Camp, George Brown, Frank Brodies, Charlie Brown, Martin Plog, Freddie Plog, Willie Kurze, Gaylord Moten, Eunice Stone, Florence Neidich, Margaret Hubbard, Roy Miller, Lois Cole, Ethel Parrel, Clinton Neidich, Harold Ingalls.

Pupils Visit Enterprise Office.
White Salmon, Wash., Mar. 8.—Editor Glacier: It was a glad day at the Enterprise office March 3. As the Enterprise force, devil, saint and the rest, were in the livery of yesterday, Professor Golluburn and his pupils about 20 in number, appeared at the door and were invited by the editor to occupy it.

They filled the room to overflowing, as the Enterprise has not yet got in its two-story press room.

Not more than half the pupils had ever been in a printing office before. It was pleasing to see what intelligent they took in the work that was going on—type setting, press work, folding and mailing—"The art preservative of all arts."

It is possible that some of the pupils may fill some high position in life. Perhaps some may refer to this day, and the professor's teaching and precepts as the first stepping stone to their success.

When this district got the fine school building finished, the movers of that enterprise said: "Now we must have a better man to teach than we had in the log-school house back yander." It is claimed that the professor or is equal if not ahead of the fine school house in which he is principal.

Use Williams' anti-septic hair tonic and keep off gray hairs.

Mme. Abbott's MILLINERY ANNOUNCEMENT
I have opened a millinery in Hood River, and have secured the services of a milliner from Portland, who will make all styles of hats, including the latest from Paris. My styles are new and attractive, and I guarantee satisfaction to all who patronize me. My prices are low and my work is guaranteed. I have also a large stock of ribbons, notions, and trimmings. Call at my store, 121 N. Third Street, for a list of my prices.

Goldendale Will Dism This Summer.
R. D. Smith, county clerk of Klickitat county, and a prominent citizen of Goldendale, was in Hood River Tuesday morning, to attend the World to the district convention of Eastern Washington.

"We expect a boom at Goldendale this summer," remarked County Clerk Sunderland. "The building of the Columbia Northern up to Prosser will furnish employment to a large number of men, and when the road is completed it will afford an outlet for our timber which we have never had before. Many settlers are coming into Klickitat county, and business everywhere is increasing at a rapid rate."

"Winter wheat is looking fine, and the farmers will have the largest crop known in the county. There has been much less rain this year than heretofore, and as we generally have showers throughout the summer, crops never suffer from drought."

Last November Mr. Sutherland was elected to the office of county clerk by a handsome vote. Since taking up his duties, Mr. Sunderland has proved himself capable in every way to fill this responsible position, and there have been many words of commendation in his behalf, for the courteous and obliging manner in which he attends to the duties of his office.
