J. G. Morgan was a Heppner visitor this week.

T. E. Coon of University Park was a Hood River visitor last week.

R. H. Wallace who recently purchased the E. A. Frank property, is moving up from Portland with his family.

Forest Gould 8 years old, is the winner of the Red School House shoe puzzle contest conducted by J. E. Rand's store.

Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Gosling, visiting at White Salmon last week, seeing Dr. and Mrs. Gourhart, Mrs. Gourhart and Mrs. Gosling were school mates in Ohio.

The interior of the Methodist church is being renovated and otherwise renovated. About $125 will be expended in improvements. The greater part of this sum was raised by the woman of the old society.

Mrs. E. T. Carns and little son left Saturday for Portland, where she will remain until Dr. Carns return from Southern California sometime in April. The doctor took the California winter of great benefit to his health.

L. Henry recalls to mind, that 12 years ago peach, pear, plum and cherry trees were in full bloom the first of April. That was a big fruit year, as the promise to be. As Mr. Henry says, "I hate frost and winter weather. If the blossoms, there would still be plenty of fruit on the trees, which in this country always overyield unless thinned."

Dr. W. T. Rowley brought suit before Justice Nicholson last week against F. Angus to recover money alleged to be due for professional services. Attorney Harris represented Dr. Rowley, while Mr. Angus was defended by a Portland lawyer. The case was dismissed on the grounds of nonsuit. The amount under consideration was $90.00.

Fred Urban of Waynesville, Okla., was in Hood River during the week, looking after some timber interests he holds in the upper valley. Mr. Urban farms 320 acres of good land in Oklahoma, and has a long experience in this western country. He hopes to see the railroad built to the Mount Hood country, and believes that its completion will work wonders in setting up the valley.

Ray Inlander of Iron Flat, who was in Hood River Monday, will leave about the first of May for Spokane, where he has accepted a position in a large dry-goods store of that city. Mr. Inlander has many friends in Hood River who wish him success in his new venture. The young man learned to sell dry-goods in 1904 city, for several years he was a valued clerk in the store of Frank A. Cram. Mr. Inlander has been teaching piano during the winter. Snow left Iron Flat three weeks ago. The fall of this year was unusually light.

The special meeting of the Hood River Commercial club, called for Tuesday evening to discuss the best method of advertising Hood River at the Lewis and Clark fair, was very poorly attended and no business was transacted.

Jack Morrison has replaced his stock of liquors with lemonade, sodapop and root beer. He says he has to make his root sodapop, and that Hood River is too good a place to leave, even if it is prohibition just now. The water days make for a brisk trade at his parlors.

N. Parth, president of the North-western States Historical Museum, and church, assisted by Elders Smith and Darrington of Portland, held services at the Artisan hall, Sunday evening.

Amos Underwood believes that the Northern Pacific, the Great Northern or whoever it is that has purchased the Columbia River Northern railroad, could do well to construct a portage around the Cascades between Stevenson and Butler landing, for use during the high water, when it is not possible to operate the locks. This could furnish unobstructed navigation for traffic going to Portland by way of the Northern Pacific, and would be a portion of the road that will have to be built across or below down the north bank of the Columbia. Amos has long had his dream about a city at the mouth of the White Salmon, but gives up, believing it will come in time to do him any good. He declares he is getting too old, now to have a good time spending the money that would come to him from the sale of city lots if the road went through his townships.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton H. Vaughan left Sunday for Centralia, where they will visit relatives. Mr. Vaughan will return the latter part of the week, while Mrs. Vaughan will remain a week longer at Centralia and Portland.

R. Fields of White Salmon was in the city Monday morning, looking after his property interests here. Mr. Fields was too busy with road work last week to send in his usual grid of news. Each less will soon be in bloom on the north side of the river, and stock have been turned out on the ramps to rustle for themselves.

Mr. and Mrs. G. J. Gosling were at White Salmon last week, visiting Dr. and Mrs. Gourhart. Mrs. Gourhart and Mrs. Gosling were school mates in Ohio. They had not seen each other for over 16 years.

St. Patrick's day dance at the hall at Odell evening of March 17. Music by Gordon Band, under the management of James Cook and others. Everybody invited.

Lee Morse is home from an extended trip to his old stamping ground in Kansas. Lee says there are crowds of people coming West. At each division his train had to be cut up and extra engines secured. Hundreds of people are coming to Oregon, many of them wealthy people.
