Wonderful Work of Wizard Burbank. Considering Mother Nature as occupying a distinct personality with some of the characteristics of her human progeny, perhaps nothing since the exposures made by Darwin could be better calculated to disturb the equilibrium of the old lady than to show a white blackberry.

Sham Battle at the Fair. Special to the Glacier. Portland, June 20, 1905.—What promises to be the most realistic sham battle in the annals of mimic warfare is scheduled to take place at the Lewis and Clark exposition July 21, constituting the crowning of three days of military maneuvers in which at least 1,500 troops of the Oregon National Guard will take part.

Adjutant General V. E. Finger, in conference with President H. W. Goode of the exposition, has arranged the important details. The guard will go into camp at Gearhart Park on July 13, remaining there six days and then proceeding to Portland. During the first two days of the encampment at the exposition, there will be a dress parade each day, and a grand review in honor of Governor Chamberlain and staff.

The battle proper will be between two detachments, one wearing the brown khaki uniform and the other the blue. The blue will entrench on the left, the khaki on the right, and the attacking force of blue will be met by the attacking force of brown. The field artillery will supplement the entrenched force, while the cavalry will assist the attacking party, operating from the rear of the line.

We may live without poetry, music and art.

We may live without conscience, may love without heart.

We may live without mothers, live without heart.

But civilized women can't live without soap.

We may live without book—what is knowledge but sorrow?

We may live without beauty—it fades on the morrow.

We may live without lawsuit—indemnities are squandering.

But where if the one who can live without washing.

Berries Brought Poor Prices.

A report from Rogers, Ark., says: Berry shipments from this section were not very satisfactory. The Ozark Fruit Co. did not handle the business as well as was expected. It only had a few of the large associations and when they got to shipping heavy, a great deal of diverting to markets which were already full and the prices were not at all satisfactory. The season has been a bad one for berries on account of so much rain.

There will not be more than one third of a crop of apples and no peaches except in the extreme southern part of the State.
