THURSDAY, JULY 13, 1905.

The presence of the Princeton newspaper men and entire office force was demanded this week at the Williamson trial by Mr. Honey, and as a consequence the Review and Journal came out on half sheets last week.

Mr. Shelby and son Ralph of Odell are deserving of much commendation for the initiative steps they took toward interesting the Portland creamery company in establishing a route here. The monthly roll of checks which this business should bring to Hood River farmers will insure added prosperity to all.

All doubt has been cleared away as to the building of the road down the north bank of the Columbia in railway circles. The ranchers along the line have heard a great deal about railroads before but all are now ready to believe that a transcontinental line is soon to be pushed down the river bank.

Hood River has not dealt heretofore with million dollar propositions, but if Mr. Tarr can capitalize his project for a cotton mill for Hood River, the people here will assure him of a location and water power. Factories are what we need, and an institution employing 500 to 700 people would mean an additional population of 2000. With the Orient calling for American cotton goods, a manufacturing plant at Hood River would have exceptional transportation facilities with Portland, where the goods would be loaded on ocean liners direct for the ports of the Far East. The project deserves consideration.

The Common Council of Hood River have called another election for tomorrow on the question whether the city shall put in its own water system. While the majority of the taxpayers declared at the last election that they were in favor of such a move, yet it failed to carry by nine votes. A number made the objection that the ordinance failed to carry a provision for buying the present plant, if deemed advisable. The new ordinance contains that provision. The councilmen are unanimous in the opinion that the time is at hand for an up-to-date system, one that will provide for an adequate supply of pure water for the future, serving the entire city, and providing fire protection. It will probably not be necessary to issue $50,000 worth of bonds, and only the amount absolutely necessary, possibly less than $50,000 will be called for. If the present water system is purchased, it will be paid for out of the money derived from the sale of the bonds. It is up to the taxpayers to decide. The glacier believes it should carry.

When your Eastern friends inquire for figures on Oregon fruit, let them read the following statistics compiled by the Portland Chamber of Commerce Bulletin:

In the last decade Oregon has gained more honors and medals for its fruits than any other state in the Union. It swept these away from all competitors at Chicago, Buffalo, Charleston and elsewhere. At Buffalo, Oregon won 18 gold medals for its horticultural, pomological and viticultural exhibits. At Charleston it gained 34 and 14 silver medals, as well as one bronze medal for its fruit exhibits. At St. Louis, Oregon won 67 gold medals, 162 silver medals and 72 bronze medals, as also three grand prizes, making a total of 294 medals and grand prizes. Its Hood River strawberries and apples are noted the world over, and its cherries are widely celebrated. The Oregon prune crop in 1904 amounted to 15,000,000 pounds, and its peaches are becoming yearly more famous. The total of the fruit output for 1904 was $2,413,500, divided as follows: Apples, $655,000; peaches, $325,000; cherries, $25,000; grapes, $10,000; strawberries, $25,000; small fruits, $255,000. Oregon apples are to be found in all the principal markets of the world. One man at Hood River last year netted nearly $1000 an acre from less than 300 trees. An Eastern Oregon apple tree alone produced 40 boxes of choice fruit, and a Jackson county farmer netted $650 an acre from his apple crop.

Illinois is one of the pioneer states in rural free delivery. The Rock Island (Illinois) Argus says: "This state leads all others in the rural free delivery service, having a total of 2,478 rural free delivery routes. Illinois will continue in this position, the postoffice department having made a statement that it is hardly probable any other state will overtake her. Indiana has more counties in which have been installed complete service, but the Hoosier state can not compare with Illinois in the total number of routes in operation. Ohio ranks second with 2,186 routes, Iowa third, with 2,068; Indiana fourth with 1,934; Pennsylvania fifth with 1,737; Missouri sixth with 1,589, etc., showing Illinois well in the lead. This means much for Illinois. This state was recognized by the department as the best state in which to initiate it—the topography of the state, its population, the character of its people, and all conditions pertaining to the installation of rural service being such as to invite the rapid extension of that great connecting link of city with city, county with county and district with district, insuring a convenient delivery of mail undreamed of a few years ago, but which has proved one of the most practical systems ever afforded by the government to its rural citizens. May 1 the total number of routes in the United States was 30,982, as against 24,556 on the same date of the preceding year, showing a rapid growth in the service all over the United States.

In the recently issued summer book of the O. R. & N., Hood River is put down as a pomological paradise. A glowing account is also given of the enchanting trip to Mount Hood. Mr. Craig of the passenger department at Portland will be pleased to send a copy of this excellent descriptive publication to an eastern friend of yours for a two-cent stamp. The booklet is very attractively gotten up. Rinaldo M. Hall, publicity promoter for the O. R. & N., prepared the book for publication and took a personal interest in seeing the work turned out by the printers and engravers. Mr. Hall's own ideas prevail in the tastefulness and originality with which the splendid illustrations are arranged in the book. It is altogether one of the best pieces of advertising literature sent out by the railroad company.

Hood River has a population of 1808; and Newberg, 1600; Hillsboro, 1447; and Forest Grove, 1620. All good towns, too, says the Forest Grove News.

TO VOTE FRIDAY ON BOND ISSUE

Hood River will hold a special election Friday, the issue before the people being a proposition to bond the city for $20,000, or what sum under $20,000 is required to bring water in from the Tucker spring five miles distant, and to either buy the piping system of the present company or construct a new system.

The present water company is making every effort to defeat the issue. The same question was voted upon last month, when it failed by nine votes to secure the necessary two-thirds majority. A meeting of citizens interested in municipal ownership was held last night, when a campaign committee was appointed to promote the interests of the bond supporters.

Both sides feel confident of victory. Only voters who are freeholders have the right to vote on the proposition.

Big Majority for Water Bonds.
Corvallis, Or., July 7.—At a special election held here yesterday to determine whether or not Corvallis should issue $75,000 bonds for the purpose of installing a mountain water gravity system, the vote was overwhelmingly in favor of such a move, the vote being 278 for and 106 against.

APPLE UNION BUILDS A LARGE WAREHOUSE

Construction work has begun on a fruit-packing warehouse for the Hood River Apple Growers' union, located just east of the O. R. & N. freight depot. F. C. Stought of Belmont secured the contract at $2900. The building is 40x100, two stories in height, the lower portion to be constructed of concrete. The work is to be completed by October 1, in time for use in shipping this fall's apple crop.

SCALE THE SUMMIT OF MOUNT HOOD

Fifty-seven mountain climbers, representatives of the Sierra Club of San Francisco, and the Appalachian club of Boston, gained the summit of Mount Hood Tuesday. A large portion of the climbers made the trip from Portland the day before in automobiles to Government Camp, while others took the stages at Hood River Monday for Cloud Cap Inn.

The air was very clear, enabling the climbers to obtain a magnificent view of the country in all directions. A snow peak to the south of Jefferson was pointed out by some of the party. Whether this peak can really be seen from Hood, owing to the curvature of the earth.

The party from the south side left the snow line at 4:30 and reached the summit about noon. Those from the Inn left at 7:30 and did not get to the summit until 2 o'clock. It was quite cold on the top of the mountain, although many stayed there long enough to make the return trip down the north side. Those of the party were: E. G. Knapp, San Francisco; Miss Lilla McKinnis, San Francisco; Miss E. B. Catton, San Francisco; Miss Florence Mayhew, Niles; Osgood Putnam, San Francisco; A. T. Barton, San Francisco; Professor Joseph N. LeConte, University of California; Mr. and Mrs. Willoughby Rodman, Los Angeles; J. N. Hines, Des Moines; P. Salmon, Vancouver; Walter H. W. Prince, Newton; Miss Mary E. Haskell, Boston; R. A. Bullock, Boston.

Miss Ella McBride of Portland represented the Mazama club. Others who reached the summit were Lieutenant G. E. Laney, U. S. A.; N. S. Bennett, Medford.

Peter Felthausen piloted the party up the north side of the mountain from the Inn.

Band Secures an Excellent Show.

Owing to an open date the Hood River band has secured the National Stock company for a two-night's engagement under the band nights, showing here tomorrow and Saturday nights. This company is one of the very best now in the west and the band boys are fortunate in securing such an attraction. The National Stock company is on its way to Ogden and was to have played Pendleton on the nights the company plays Hood River, but it seems that the scenery in the Pendleton theatre has all been removed to the summer park. The company played The Dalles three nights, closing there last night.

Friday night the company will present "In Idaho" Saturday, "The Diamond Robbery."

Notice.

A special discount of 30 per cent will be given for cash on all lots sold by the Hood River Park and Jewell additions to Hood River for ten days on cash sales only. This is a chance you will not get again. To secure lots on the above terms, see C. A. Danon, W. J. Baker or Mrs. J. F. Batchelder at Country Club Inn.
