

CIDER FACTORY FOR HOOD RIVER

A cider and vinegar factory wants to locate at Hood River. Sam P. Jones, vice president of Jones Bros. & Co., manufacturers of cider and vinegar at Louisville, Ky., was in the city one day last week, and outlined his proposition to Mr. Blancher, president of the Hood River Commercial club.

A meeting of the members of the Commercial club was held Monday evening, when the subject was informally discussed. The proposition met with favor with the business men, it being recognized as an excellent opportunity for the fruit growers to dispose of their second grade fruit, much of which is now a waste, but which, if carefully handled, could be made a paying by-product of the orchard and berry fields.

It is expected that Mr. Jones will be here later to present the matter in person to the people of Hood River. The date and time of meeting will be made known, and every farmer in the valley is invited to be present and hear what Mr. Jones has to offer them. His proposition was substantially as follows:

Organize a stock company to engage in the manufacture of cider and vinegar Hood River under same name as above company with a capital stock of $25,000 distributed as follows: Citizens of Hood River, $10,000 paid up; Jones & Co., $20,000 paid up, and $30,000 stock as a bonus for the trade name and their coast trade.

The stock taken by Hood River can be 3 per cent preferred stock if desired, and all other stock will be common stock. They pay 2 to 3 cents per pound for berries and 25 to 35 cents per 100 pounds for apples, and are desirous of starting to build immediately, that they may have grinding apparatus in place for this fall's crop, the balance of apparatus can be installed later on as fast as time permits. Profits will not fall below 20 per cent when apple crop is large enough to run plant to its capacity.

They offer the following references: Mason Ehrman, Portland, (their present Portland agents), American National Bank and Louisville National Bank of Louisville, Kentucky. Their present capital is $125,000 fully paid up, as Dun's or Bradstreet's will show. Jones stated that they could organize this company entirely among themselves here and to enlist local interest in the industry if possible, and at present preferred not to take the whole amount out of their Eastern business.

This plant will only use 6 or 8 men in the factory the whole year and perhaps 20 men during the grinding season with 2 or 3 in the office. A site of at least an acre preferred if possible, giving ample room for 2 one-story buildings and 1 three-story building and a chance to enlarge as needed. Less room will answer.

Has Extensive Real Estate Business. Leland J. Henderson, member of the Henderson Realty Corporation, Limited, of New Orleans, was in the city Tuesday, the guest of his father, Judge John Leland Henderson. Mr. Henderson expected to make several other visits with relatives in the Northwest, but fears he may be called home to his family, because of the spread of the yellow fever epidemic in the South.

Mr. Henderson is a member of the second largest realty company in Louisiana. A statement of the assets and liabilities of this company, issued at the commencement of business, June 3, 1905, show a total asset of $156,484.02. One of the assets is a one-fourth interest in a sulphur mine in the state of Louisiana, which is 90 miles long, with an average width of 20 miles, and is 10 feet deep. The Henderson Realty Co. pays off rent of $200 a year in the Hibernian bank building in New Orleans.

We Must Wash. We may live without poetry, music and art; We may live without conscience, may love without heart; We may live without mothers, live without hope; But civilized women can't live without soap.

We may live without book—what is knowledge but sorrow? We may live without beauty—it fades on the morrow. We may live without lawsuit—indictments are squashing; But where if the one who can lie without washing.

Dies From Rattlesnake Bite. Late yesterday afternoon, while Joseph Speldrich, a German about 45 years old, was working at a cabin on the Clark place on Ward's creek, gathering up shingles from the ground which had been taken from the roof of the cabin, he was struck on the hand by a rattlesnake. Speldrich went at once to the Lavigne ranch, a distance of two miles, for assistance. Dr. King of this place was sent for, but the poison had done its deadly work, and medical skill was of no avail. UNDERWOOD.

The Chenoweth postoffice is to be re-established, and Miss Sadie Orser is to be postmistress. The postoffice will be located on Miss Orser's home-stand. Service will be resumed within a few weeks, or as soon as a carrier is secured to carry the mail from Underwood to the new Chenoweth office.

The Berry belt telephone system has been completed now from Stevenson to White Salmon. A large number of phones have been contracted for by the people of Underwood. Manager Wills was here last week securing orders.

The little White Salmon is becoming a favorite summer resort, there being a large number of parties there this summer. Fishing is reported very good.

A number of fires, starting from unknown sources, is filling the air with smoke along Buck creek. While no serious damage has been done so far, if the careless parties who permitted the fires to escape could be found, an example would likely be made of some of them. The law against setting out fires makes the offence a serious one.

Captain Olson has about completed his hotel. When the railroad comes through here, the Captain intends to be prepared for the big rush of business sure to come this way.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Haynes are planning a trip to Yakima this month.

An Easterner, who was looking over this country one day last week, spent an evening at the home of A. J. Haynes. After the evening entertainment from Mr. Haynes's residence, the view of Mount Hood and Hood River valley from there being grand indeed, the stranger remarked that he had traveled all over the United States, but never before saw such a grand view.

The weather has been very warm today, the thermometer rose to 100.

Mrs. Amelia Walters and baby have been quite sick.

There seems to be big fires back in the mountains near Tommy Brothers' farm.

Miss Elmore Larsen went to Hood River last Wednesday. Before starting home the wind came up, and blew so hard that a person with glasses on couldn't see half way across the river, for the flying sand, and she had to stay in the city until the next day.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Thornton were over to Little White Salmon on a visit last Saturday.

Professor C. H. Cronwell was over to Little White Salmon fishing last Sunday. As he was drawing a fish out of the water it fell from the hook into a yellow jacket nest which he did not see until he went to pick up the fish, and then he saw the yellow jackets saw him, for he has an extra big hand.

Mrs. Ogilvie, her daughter Bernice, Miss Louise, Miss Cora Clark and Mr. McNamee were out on a picnic to the big White Salmon falls last Saturday. They all reported a fine time, but didn't catch any fish.

One of the most pleasant social affairs ever given in the New Grange hall at Underwood occurred one week ago last Friday evening. It was a success in every respect. The crowd was not large owing to the absence of so many to the mining camps and of others who were out on summer vacations. It was under the management of Messrs. William Underwood and William Wheeler, and nothing was overlooked to make it a grand success. The striking feature of the evening was the supper served by Mrs. William Wheeler and Miss Lena Kullback. These two ladies have long been known as the very finest of caterers and on this occasion an effort was made to outdo themselves. The supper was a grand spread, indeed, and it was the comment of all that it was one of the most elaborate entertainments ever offered any party in Washington, or any other state for that matter.

Mrs. E. A. Ogilvie, who recently purchased the C. H. Thornton ranch, is preparing to make many improvements and has already commenced to build. It is her intention to make it one of the very finest ranches in the country and she is going about it with that end in view.

A. G. Marsh of The Dalles, who now owns the Mike Thornton ranch, is erecting a new residence, and in many other ways improving the ranch.

CHENOWITH

We are not all dead yet, though it is pretty warm here, everybody is hunting the shade. The new postoffice has been established. Miss Sadie Orser is postmistress and B. F. Fuller is mail carrier.

Mrs. Cora Ienborg of Hood River has been visiting her mother and father.

Miss Jessie Hughes of Stevenson is visiting her friend, Mrs. Alexander.

George Fisher of Portland is here on an outing. He is spending his time in fishing.

Frank Wilcox went fishing last Sunday and caught several trout over a foot long.

Tom Newton has been to visit the fair. Mr. Newton says it is a grand sight and everyone should see it.

Ask to Have the Pastor Returned. At the fourth quarterly conference of Ashbury M. E. church of this city, a petition was framed for presentation at the annual Columbia river conference, which convenes this year at Moscow, Idaho, August 23, asking for the return of Rev. W. C. Evans to his charge in Hood River.

The conference was largely attended last Friday. While the construction of a parsonage last year entailed a considerable expense, the finances of the church were found to be in very good shape. Rev. Evans reported the work of the church progressing very nicely. He of course is gratified at the action of his parishioners, and will be pleased to remain here for the coming year.

CON EARN 88 A MONTH.

T. G. Halley, who has a dairy farm on the Wild Horse creek, six miles east of Pendleton, has been milking about 25 cows during the past month, and on an average has supplied the Blue Mountain creamery between 25 and 30 pounds of sweet cream daily, which has tested 30 per cent butter fat. At 25 cents a pound, his check for the month of July will be over $175, or nearly $8 a cow.

C. G. Berkeley, who has had a farm on McKay creek, in the next largest cream producer, milking 20 cows. His statement is not quite as large as Mr. Halley's but is nearly the same. Other large producers receiving good checks reside in the Grande Ronde valley, who ship the surplus to Pendleton to be made into butter, as the La Grande creamery is taxed to its capacity.

It will wash and not rub off. This complexion all envy me; It's no secret so I'll tell, Take them Rocky Mountain Tea.
