L. Smith, and found to be well written and accurate. Mr. Brooks of The Dalles was another member of a committee of three to examine the Wasco county write-up.

There is a good story going the rounds of Mosier. The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Mosier, had been attending the Sister's school of the Catholic church at Walla Walla, and returning home, her mother was interested in knowing how observant the young lady had been as to the size of the city, etc. "How big is Walla Walla, Alice; is it as large as The Dalles?" "O, my mama, it is fourteen times as large as The Dalles; why it is very nearly as large as Hood River." The absolute simplicity of the child in telling the truth as she saw it, is very good evidence of how all visitors to this section size up the situation.
