

ODELL
HUNTERS RETURN
LADEN WITH GAME

By Rowell Shelley.
Odell, East Hood River Valley, Sept. 28.—Probably the most notable hunt in the history of Odell wound up last Friday, the parties returning to the village near the close of day while the last mellow rays of the setting sun were reflected from the Neil creek hills and back to old Mount Indian. The quiet of the village was suddenly broken by the music of cow bells on the leaders of the four-horse team that came lumbering down the hill laden with deer and bear meat. Amid the jingling of the bells, the sound of the hunter's horn, the baying of the hound and the hoarse yells of the hunters, the crack of the driver's whip, the people flocked to the four corners of Odell to see the trophies of the chase. On top the load was the carcass of a black bear, while underneath the canvas was the dead carcasses of four young deer.

The party was made up of Art Rhodes, Jake Levy, Mr. Dinick and Bert Boardman. The latter had grubbed the crowd, the other fellows thinking they would of course have to furnish Bert with venison steaks, but when the record was made up it was learned that Bert killed his part of the deer with the bear to the good. The spoils were soon divided and as night came on, through the twilight, we could see just across the way the hunters skinning the deer. And as we sat we mused, and through the dim twilight memory took us back to those precious pioneer days of Oregon when the table was always supplied with wild game.

Still we mused, and in the stillness of the hour and amid the darkness there came the picture of a gun rack of velvet stag horns over the old-fashioned rock fireplace, above its rude mantle under the flickering rays of light from the log fire; and with it we heard the faint distant strains of the music of the hunter's horn, and the baying of the dogs hot on the trail, and although nearly 50 years have passed all too swiftly by since then, yet they have gone quicker than the recollection of those dear old days.

Go again, boys, for its only a drill of the past and it causes the blood in the old man's veins to flow more quickly. It is a renewal of youth, and proves a dispenser of petty troubles.

One day last week L. E. Clark and family of Pine Grove called at the Little White store. They were out showing the valley to a party of friends from Illinois, consisting of William Harding and wife and their nephew, Ira Harding. They came West to visit the fair and dropped off here for a visit with the Clarks. They go from here to Portland. Mr. Harding was delighted with the valley. Mr. Clark had been writing to him concerning it and hence he was better prepared for what awaited him than most strangers within our gates. Mr. Harding has no intention of coming West to locate, but is sanguine concerning the future of Oregon and Hood River valley.

Otto Ehrck and Henry Selverkrupp, who for two months have been absent in Baker county, returned home last Saturday. The boys have had a good time as well as a good job while away, and came home feeling fine. They brought with them quite a number of games made of Mandueta, a hardwood that takes on a high polish. They will join the crowd on Hood River day and help to make the day merry.

Herbert Morton returned last Saturday to Odell, after several months' absence on a visit to his old home in Scotland. Mr. Morton's friends are glad of his return and greet him most cordially. He has accepted a position in Portland with William McMaster, financial agent, with offices in the Worcester building, and began his work last Monday. We hope his business may call him this way occasionally, as he has many friends about Odell who will always be glad to see him.

School opened up last Monday under most favorable auspices. The number of teachers is as follows: S. J. Ennes, principal; Miss Anna Thompson, intermediate, and Miss Mae Hull, primary, which makes a strong team, and if this school year is not a successful one we are safe in saying that it will not be the fault of the teachers. With the nicest modern school building in the valley, with every possible equipment for comfort and convenience, and with competent instructors this should be a record-breaking year for Odell.

J. H. Shoemaker of the West Side passed through Odell recently, on his way to the camp of the new ditch company. Mr. Shoemaker informs us that the preliminary work is going along satisfactorily. We congratulate these people on their prospect for winter next season.

R. D. Shelley of the Little White store is spending a week at the fair. He will visit his birthplace, Independence, Polk county, while away and visit his brother Hugh, whom he has not seen for more than seven years.

M. D. Odell and wife are spending a few days in Portland, taking in the fair.

Professor Ennes, the new school teacher, and family will soon move into the C. L. Rogers house, just south of Odell.

Miss Thompson and Miss Hull are looking for house-keeping rooms, a thing hard to find in Odell. This leads us to remark that some enterprising capitalist would do well to build a few neat cottages for rent. It would not only prove a money-making scheme, but we would gladly place his name upon the list of public benefactors. It is a fact that every house in Odell is full, and with no hotel or boarding house, strangers find it hard on shoe leather in finding a place to stop.

So we say again that some one who can do blacksmithing and wood work repairing would do well to buy Harry Kemp out. Then in addition to shoeing horses, feed them and furnish a place for people to feed. This is a long-felt want among the many things wanted in Odell.

The quiet village of Odell is fast becoming famous, so we say to outsiders if you have never taken a peep at Odell you have something to live for. So come along, get a lot with an east frontage 'neath the beautiful pine-hair food. It feeds, nourishes. The hair stops falling, grows long and heavy, and all dandruff disappears.

Get in on the ground floor and build up with the town. Remember that before many moons people will be falling down over each other in order to get a desirable location. If you want resident sites, go to the Kemp heights, which joins the village, near the shadow of Mount Hood and overlooking the peaceful valley of East Hood River.

Poor Hair

Before your readers see this Hood River will be having her red-letter day at the fair. On this joyous occasion every nook and corner of our valley spreading away up to Mount Hood will have been advertised, and Hood River people will have done themselves proud, as they always do, Hood River against the world. We are proud of it, for it is our home. We are proud of its matchless climate, its peerless scenery, and its wonderful resources which are rapidly being developed by its intelligent, wide-awake people. Yes, we're from Hood River on the 28th and forever after.

Geo. W. Lafferty is in receipt of a sample cigar sent to him from the Philippine Islands by his son, J. V. Lafferty, who is postmaster at Nervu-Caseras, on the island of Luzon. This cigar measures 12 inches in length and 4 inches in circumference. The label is in a foreign tongue. The price there is two for a nickel. Mr. Lafferty says he intends to smoke it Christmas, and wants an eagle to place the light on the cigar.

Last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Rowell Shelley celebrated their third wedding anniversary. It was their pleasure on that occasion to entertain Herbert Morton. Two of our kind neighbors, Art Rhodes and Jake Levy, had donated venison, the result of the recent chase. So as we sat at meat Mr. Morton enjoyed the haunch of venison and we enjoyed Mr. Morton.

Last Saturday we enjoyed a call from W. S. Winchell, of Astoria. Mr. Mrs. Slocum, who with her husband, lives on a homestead west of Duke's Valley, is his daughter, to whom he is paying a short visit. Mr. Winchell is in business in Illinois, but is looking over the Western field for a location. Concerning this he asked my advice. In this I declined, yet should he come I will give him the glad hand. Mr. Anderson accompanied the party. Mr. and Mrs. Slocum are also entertaining two lady friends from Illinois, whose names I forgot, but I do not forget the fact that they are enjoying themselves.

J. B. Jackson and wife of Pine Grove are frequently seen in Odell of late. J. B. has a brand new buggy, a glossy span of bays with new harness and spotted and red tassels hanging from the bridles. J. B. proudly draws the reins over these spirited roadsters, and although several weeks have passed by since they were married, his smile seems broader, and his warm blood seems to gush through his veins more swiftly than ever. He is of southern ancestry and like his father, is genial and hospitable. These people from the sunny south possess drawing qualities, and the only wonder is that J. B. remained in single harness so long. Having omitted to congratulate them at the proper time, we now beg to wish them a bon voyage through all the storms of life, and in the words of Maxin Gorky, may each say to the other: "The sea with all its waves can never wash you out of my heart."

R. H. Wallace and wife of Shadow Brook farm, near town, with P. N. Gilbert and wife of Portland, who were guests of the Wallaces over Sunday, were callers on the Little White store people last Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace have a charming home on the West Side. Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert were delighted with their visit. Mr. Gilbert is in business in Portland and formerly in Salem, where the writer knew him years ago. Call again.

Mr. Holman of Kansas visited George Holman of Pine Grove during the week. Mr. Holman has traveled extensively in the eastern states and Canada, but says Hood River presents more attractions than any other place he has seen. He has an extensive business in the East, but as soon as he can sell out there, he intends to locate permanently in Hood River. Mr. Robinson says his friend is a thorough, capable business man, and Hood River people will be pleased to have him locate here.

BARRETT.
Mr. Thompson, a rancher from Eastern Oregon, is visiting with B. P. Shoemaker.

Ma Inalls is delivering butter most every other day to the Rockford store. We do not want to blow it all, but Ma Inalls does make the butter fit for presidents or rulers.

We notice John Gibbons bringing back some new furniture. John wants things nice in the home nowadays.

D. Labbey and wife have returned from the fair in Portland.

Thomas Shear is erecting a new barn on his ranch. The boy says he will not make fire in the new barn.

Thomas Goss, on the Methodist Lane, is building quite a neat house, which, when it is completed, will be a comfortable home, and a good substantial addition to Barrett district.

Walter Isenberger and wife returned from the fair. Walter says it is too good a thing to miss, but a man should spend two weeks to see some of the exhibits.

B. F. Elemen and wife returned on Thursday from the fair. Ben says they had to return for the street cars would not carry them, and the thing was too good for Mrs. B. P. to walk. So they got on the iron horse and BELMONT.

Belmont seems to be more like itself since the number of families who were away to the hop fields, in the Willamette valley, have returned to their homes. Those who went to the Yakima fields have not yet come home.

Fry. Sam Keley returned home last Friday, after spending about a week in Portland, visiting friends and "hitting the Trail."

M. H. Nickelsen has cut a third crop of clover on a small piece of land, from which he harvested a good crop of berries last year.

J. B. King returned to Belmont last week. Mr. King has been in Eastern Oregon for the past two months working in the harvest fields.

Clinton, the ten-year-old son of L. C. Nealeigh, was taken sick two weeks ago. His illness has proved itself to be typhoid fever.

Rev. H. C. Clark went to Mount Hood last Saturday afternoon to fill his appointment there on Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallum and daughter have moved over on the East Side of the river, where Mr. Wallum is foreman for W. E. Sanders, contractor on the Sherman cottage.

Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Clark returned from Portland Friday. They attended the temperance congress and report having a pleasant time.

Rev. Kennedy preached at Belmont last Sunday morning. His sermon was enjoyed by all who heard him.

Want 100,000 Admissions Portland Day
Special to the Glacier.
Portland, Sept. 28.—President H. W. Goodie of the Lewis and Clark exposition, in an open letter just at hand, says that on Portland Day, Saturday, September 30, the attendance at the exposition should reach 100,000, and that "if Portland turns out and enthusiasm as it should, we will get the admissions and Portland Day will be the crowning event, the record breaker, of the exposition." The Chamber of Commerce and the Board of Trade already have taken up the cause of Portland Day, and are starting a vigorous campaign in favor of a general turnout on that day. It is the intention to decorate the business houses with bunting and flags, and stretch great banners across the down town streets.

The committee selected to choose a yell and a slogan from the thousands were submitted for Portland Day in answer to an offer of $25 for the most suitable, and awarded the slogan prize to John C. Brinton of Harrisburg, Pa., and the yell prize to John L. Tomlinson of Mentone, Cal.

The yell is:
"Portland Great, Portland Fine, Fire Hundred Thousand in Nineteen-Nine!"

"Portland Points the Way" was considered the best slogan.

There will be no formal exercises on Portland Day, but in the Williams' there will be a reproduction of the Battle of Manila Bay, and exceptionally fine fireworks on Guild's Lake. Admiral Dewey, who was invited to be present on that occasion, has wired his regrets, in a telegram in which he states that nothing but professional and other engagements prevent his accepting the invitation. "I have always known that the Pacific Coast fully valued the importance of the battle of Manila Bay, although Governor-General Wright recently called it a mere episode," says the Admiral. On Portland Day the exposition management will distribute prizes aggregating $1000 to the holders of the lucky numbers.

Will Stay in Hood River.

A New Coat=Nukote

Every one likes to have new and up-to-date articles. This is true in dress, ornaments, homes and property of all kinds, and especially is it true with the interior of our homes. We like to see the furniture and fixtures new and bright; but with the best of care they will become dull or the styles will change and we find our furniture not as satisfactory and wish we had something else.

In place of discarding the old at great loss, why not buy a can of Nukote, the new up-to-date Finish and house beautifier. It stains and varnishes in one application, is easy to apply, and can be used on old or new work to cover up marred surfaces, or change the finish on any wood work, giving a brilliant and durable finish in any wood shade desired.

It stains and finishes in one operation, imitates perfectly any hardwood, gives a high luster, or can be rubbed to a dull finish; enables one to change a dark piece of furniture to a light shade, or vice versa, and will dry in twenty-four hours.

It is endorsed by leading painters and house decorators. For sale by
