

HOOD RIVER GLACIER

Issued every Thursday by ARTHUR D. MOSE, Publisher.
Terms of subscription—$1.50 a year when paid
in advance.
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1905.

It will be noted that Wasco county comes in for her share of the $1000 prize for best display at the exposition. Jackson and Polk counties, where apples are grown "just as good as those at Hood River," are found in the second class.

The matter of taxing the property of the O. R. & N. railroad in Umatilla county has been compromised, the company signifying a willingness to pay on a valuation of $10,000 a mile. The county assessor wanted to make the valuation $12,000, and the road took the matter into court in an effort to defeat the payment, but lost. It is understood that the company will bring suit in equity to show that the assessment is unjust.

The Glacier is in receipt of a copy of "Abroad," published by Mr. Ed Falk, general agent for the Harriman lines in Europe. The greater part of the issue is occupied by excerpts from the recent O. R. & N. booklet descriptive of the Pacific Northwest, and that portion of the article relating to the fruit industry in Hood River is given considerable prominence. The article in the Glacier early in the summer. Copies of Abroad are distributed by Mr. Falk through the various agencies in Europe, which goes to show that the Oregon Railroad and Navigation company is doing much for Hood River in the way of exploiting the fruit industry here.

Portland papers announce that L. N. Blowers of Hood River is under consideration by President Roosevelt as receiver of the Roseburg land office. Mr. Blowers' many friends in this city and other parts of the state would be pleased to see this honor conferred upon the young man, who is honest, competent and capable in every way for the position. He came here 15 years ago, the greater part of which time he has been prominently identified with the business interests of the town, which shortly after it was incorporated as a city elected him mayor. He has since been a United States Deputy Marshal. He stands high in the opinion of his friends, and is a man willing to have his record investigated. We sincerely hope this responsible position will come to Mr. Blowers, whom we know can fill it very acceptably to Mr. Hitchcock and President Roosevelt.

Hood River people who do more or less shopping in Portland, would do well to get prices of Hood River merchants before buying their goods out of town. A good many instances have happened of late where parties have found out after returning home that articles which were bought in Portland could have been purchased at home for less money than was paid for the same goods there. It will cost nothing to at least get posted before going away from home to buy. There is not a merchant in town who will not gladly show goods and give prices, and it will be a rare case, indeed, when these prices will not be as low, if not lower than out of town. So much for the cold-blooded business standpoint. On the other hand, the money left at home will help to build new residences, stores, and other improvements; there will be more money left to be given to public subscriptions for a needy citizen or a public benefit; more money left to advertise Hood River and make it attractive; more money left to build churches and school houses—in fact, every dollar kept at home will benefit the one who leaves it here as well as the merchant who receives it in exchange for a dollar's worth of goods.

Meeting of the State Board.
The October meeting of the Oregon state board of horticulture was held in Portland, Monday. All the members were present. One of the issues brought up by President E. L. Smith was that of the appointment of county fruit inspectors under the provisions of a law passed by the last Legislature. He urged that appointments be made as rapidly as possible, and that care be exercised to select competent men. He called attention to several of the best fruit inspectors in the state, and recommended Mr. J. H. Stetson, of Clatsop county, and Mr. J. H. Stetson, of Clatsop county, as the best spray for codlin moth, and recommended sulphur and lime, boiled for an hour, as the best spray for the San Jose scale.

The reports of the several commissioners, summarized, follow:
W. K. Nevel, first district, embracing Northwestern Oregon—Crops light; apples lightest in years, due to long, dry summer; prunes yield about two-thirds of a crop, with good prices; growers encouraged; new orchards will be planted as a result. Of fruits shown that attracted most attention at the Exposition was Oregon cherries. Grapes about an average crop, but damaged by rain.
Charles A. Park, second district, embracing Central Western Oregon—One fourth apple crop; two thirds prunes crop, with better quality and better prices; cherries half a crop; prunes two-thirds, with prices double that of last year. Inspectors appointed for Marion and Polk counties are A. H. Carson, third district, embracing Southwestern Oregon—Only 100,000 bushels of apples raised in the district, which is much short of the usual output; quality injured by summer drought; many few smaller for market. Inspectors appointed for Douglas and Jackson counties; good work done.

E. H. Weber, fourth district, embracing Central Eastern Oregon—Largest fruit haul this year, but at better prices than usual; growers will plant many trees of all sorts, but mostly prunes and cherries; arsenate of lead spraying shows splendid results. In fight against codlin moth, prevent agent of wormy apples reduced to only 1 per cent.
Judd Gear, fifth district, embracing Eastern Oregon—Light crops generally. Prunes about one-third. No variety yielded full crop. In some localities growers did well with prunes. Driest season ever known. Apples did well in well-cared-for orchards. Cherries, one-third of a crop. Peas crop good. Fruit inspectors appointed from Union and Umatilla Counties.

Announcement was made of nine prizes to be given at the January State Horticultural society for the best apple exhibits. They are hands some copper cups and are offered by the following business houses:
Glafke & Co., Northern Spies; Mark Levy, Lady apples; Pearson & Page, Baldwin; Bell & Co., Yellow Newtown; Dryer & O'Malley, Winesap; Price & Son, Jonathan; McEwen & McKlosky, Spitzenbergs; Charles Levy, Arkansas Blacks. A handsome silver-plated cup is offered by James H. Field for the best commercial exhibit of five varieties, exhibitor's choice.

COMPLETE SURVEY FOR NEW DITCH

The permanent survey of the big ditch in the Hood River Irrigation district has been completed. W. T. Eddy and his men coming out Sunday. Grade stakes have been set and the cross sectioning completed. Everything is in readiness, says Mr. Shoemaker for the contractors to begin construction work as soon as the contract is let.
E. C. Sherrieb and party will go along the course of the proposed ditch next week, and tie up the canal to the government corners, for the purpose of reserving rights of way. The board of directors does not expect to encounter any delay in right of way matters.

The board is worried somewhat because of the long delay incident to the great amount of "red tape" attached to methods of procedure in the sale of bonds and calling for bids. Between Dead point and Green point there will be more fluming than was at first expected.
As soon as possible, an examination of the ditch will be made north of Ditch creek down through the Jordan and Jordan section, and also the country from the head of the Dry yellow above Ditch creek, to ascertain the feasibility of taking water for this section from the ditch of the Supply Co. if necessary.

PACKING APPLES FOR NEW YORK

The warehouse of the Davidson Fruit Co. presented a lively appearance yesterday afternoon, with a force of 12 or more apple packers wrapping and polishing the handsome red Spitzenbergs, as they were packed in boxes and made ready for shipment to that great world up market, the city of New York.
Mr. Davidson is putting up an especially fine pack. The apples are highly colored, and will doubtless bring a record price when placed on the table in the East. Some particularly fine Spitzenbergs came from the farm of Leslie Butler, formerly the property of Joseph Wilson. Some of these Spitz are three-tier fruit. The farmers throughout the valley are busy gathering their apples. There were heavy rains all last week, but with the frost mornings coming on, the fruit is coloring up rapidly.

W. J. Baker reports the following sales: Mrs. VanDusen to C. F. Walo, house and lot; C. F. Walo to A. J. Flood, house and lot.
Buy a season ticket for the coming lecture course and help to establish a permanent means of pleasure and profit.
Scott and William Edwards of Oregon City stopped off for a few days in our city while enroute to the Dalles, where they expect to secure employment. They are recent arrivals from Pennsylvania, and are much in love with our western country.

Mr. Johnson Planning Trip East.
W. V. Johnson, who sold his East Side farm last week for $6000, is planning an enjoyable trip East. At Dan by, Mont., he will spend some time with J. B. Overturn and others of his old-time friends and neighbors. Mr. Overturn is a brother-in-law of Mr. Johnson, who deeply regrets that his wife is not alive and able to take his eastern trip, in which he is anticipating so much pleasure. "My success in life," remarked Mr. Johnson, "I attribute to my devoted wife who was always willing to leave a comfortable home and help me to seek our fortune in new and sparsely settled sections of this great West."

When in Portland last week Mr. Johnson secured several real estate investments in St. John. He is now looking for a visit from his brother, D. M. Johnson of Elmore, Iowa whom he has not seen for 30 years.
Preempt Decisions.
The secret of getting through work in method. Order, it has been said, is God's first law. Let it be yours. Do not let your work accumulate upon your hands. It is not work that kills, but arrears of work. Work put off is work put on with heavy interest. "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." It becomes intolerable if it be laid upon tomorrow.

If I may recommend you three rules for saving time and economizing strength they shall be these: Answer letters, keep appointments, make up your mind. In the affairs of this life a prompt decision is often more important than a right decision. One man makes up his mind and acts, it may be wrongly, but if so he finds out his mistake, corrects and retrieves it before another man has acted at all. It is possible to waste a great amount of time by thinking, and still more by talking over actions. First thoughts are sometimes wiser than second and generally wiser than third.—Contentary Review.

The British Empire.
The British empire occupies about one-fifth of the surface of the habitable globe and consists of the United Kingdom, with its attendant islands, and about forty-three dependencies under separate and independent governments varying in size from Canada, which is thirty times the size of the United Kingdom, to Gibraltar, the area of which is two square miles. Thus the area of the British empire is ninety-eight times that of the United Kingdom, while the area of the self-governing colonies alone is nearly sixty times as large as that of the mother country.—Lord Thing in Nineteenth Century.
Adversity is the only balance to weigh friends.—Plutarch.

One of Vallandigham's Replies.
Tom Carter used to tell a story that illustrated the methods of Vallandigham as a political orator. The Ohio Democrat was making a speech in an Illinois town during one of the campaigns. Carter was a boy and went to hear him. In the midst of the oration some one got up and asked:
"Where was Vallandigham during the war?"
"My friend," said the orator, "you have a perfect right to ask that question, and I shall answer it at the proper time. Next winter I will come to Illinois, and you and I will choose a day when the thermometer is at zero and the wind is blowing the snow across the fields. We will go far out upon the prairie, and there I will tell you where Vallandigham was during the war. It will be more pertinent and timely on such an occasion than now and will have as much significance to the winds of winter as to this campaign."
Carter said Vallandigham was not again interrupted.—Washington Post.

Volunteers.
A story which is told of a small boy who declared that he would be neither soldier nor sailor lest he should be killed or drowned, but would be a volunteer like his father, is rather severe on the citizen soldier. "Twas ever thus, Pitt, provoked by the conditions imposed by volunteers when Napoleon was expected to help up in England with an army at his back, made a marginal note upon the memorial in which they addressed him, 'These volunteers are not to be sent out of the country except in the case of actual invasion.' But the boy in no more embarrassing position than that in which the Duke of Wellington found himself at the instance of a child by whom he was gravely saluted, 'There's a fine little fellow!' said the duke, patting the child on the head. 'I'll give you a commission in the guards as soon as you're old enough.' His little admirer looked up reproachfully and in tears exclaimed, 'But, please, Mr. Duke, I see a little dirt!'—St. James Gazette.

Two Views of Sport.
Sport comes in as a sort of safety valve, as plenty of riding and walking minimizes the effect of too luxurious living, always supposing that the latter has not already had the effect of getting a disinclination for anything approaching strong exercise, a fate not at all unlikely to overtake those who are too capon lined.—London Field.
We are growing accustomed to being called a nation of shopkeepers, and we seem to be going the right way toward securing the still less enviable title of a nation of game players. Let us remember while there is yet time that an empire almost as great tottered to its fall when the citizens of the mother city grew too serious over their amusements.—Blackwood's Magazine.

A Magpie's Conscience.
Why does the magpie construct a dome of twigs over its nest? Most readers will say as a shelter, but it does not in the least answer to such a description. The twigs are only a net-work through which rain may pour and cold winds penetrate. May it not be the case that the magpie is conscious of its own sins, and a guilty mind, apprehensive of reprisals, cautions the bird to build this over its nest? The magpie is an egg stealer and makes use of its depredations on the contents of other nests, to protect those of its own.—Country Gentleman.
