THE ROCK CRUSHER.

The recent defeat of the project to buy a rock crusher should not be looked upon as final in this matter. The making and maintaining of good roads in the valley is one of the most important exigencies that now confront the residents of this community. To make good roads requires a solid foundation and there is nothing that is better for this purpose, as has been demonstrated wherever it has been used, than crushed rock. While the expense of purchasing a crusher may seem large in comparison with the present methods of making roads, in the end it is most economical. For the foundation once made a highway of this kind requires very little work to keep it in good condition and last for all time.

The purpose of the gentlemen who agitated the question of purchasing a rock crusher in District No. 3 was not to saddle the entire cost of the apparatus on the taxpayers of that district, as many of its residents supposed, but simply to make a start toward purchasing it, and then have the other districts in the valley pay their proportion toward its expense for the privilege of having the use of it. Many of the residents in the other sections of the valley have been heard to express themselves as in favor of this plan, and there is no doubt but that a machine of this character will be purchased in the near future.

Good roads here would mean much for both town and country. The benefit to those living here already is easily discernible. To the stranger coming here to invest his money it would prove one of the strongest arguments that any community can put forth.

It is to be hoped, therefore, that whatever opposition there is to this project will be held in abeyance, and that a plan will be evolved which will result in the purchase of a rock crusher for the town and valley before the present year has run its course.

The direct primary law will become operative at the June elections and in order to bring the privileges of this law to a successful issue it will be necessary to secure a large registration prior to the primaries which will be held April 20th. The election of U.S. Senators by direct vote is a question which is being more or less agitated in every state in the union. The present system of selecting incumbents for this most important office has become obsolete and vicious. The choice of the voter is miscarried by a legislator who, once in office, disregards the voice of the people and responds to the crack of the bosses' whip. Oregon has taken the initiative in trying to obtain for her citizens a law which will be more representative of their wishes. It is up to the people to take advantage of its privileges. Great endings very frequently have small beginnings and progress is imitative. If you would help build a system that has become obnoxious, register and record your choice for Senator at the primary election.

Too often merchants are satisfied to allow customers to take goods from their places of business without the slightest understanding as to when they are to be paid for. The Oregon Tradesman publishes a pertinent editorial on this fact and says:

"In their anxiety to gain trade, too many merchants have impressed customers with the idea that the principal thing to do is to take the goods, and that paying for them is a secondary matter altogether. This is not the case. The customer should not carry away an impression that he can pay when he gets ready, in the dim and undefined future. You need not tell him to his face, but have it posted in your store, or printed on your checks, or somewhere or in some way convey the impression that there is a day for payment and that you expect your money at a certain time. If he wants more time, let him understand that he must ask for it and make a definite arrangement with you. This thing of having an understanding with your customers is worth dollars to you."

IDAHO'S GOVERNOR KILLED BY DYNAMITE

Frank Steuneger, former governor of Idaho, was killed at 4:40 o'clock last Saturday evening at his home in the suburbs of Caldwell. A dynamite bomb was placed at the front gate of his residence and exploded, blowing him off his feet and killing him. He was 62 years of age. The cause of the explosion is not known, but it is charged to some member of the famous "inner circle" of the Coeur d'Alene dynamiters, whom he prosecuted so relentlessly in 1899, when governor.

Governor Steuneger is in communication with the authorities of that county and is preparing to put the full support of the state behind the officials in running down the perpetrators of the crime. Rewards aggregating $18,000 have been offered by Shoshone county and the State of Idaho and a number of suspects have been arrested. One of them it is said was a prisoner in the famous "bull pen" during the labor troubles in the Coeur d'Alene country, and is known to have been hanging around Caldwell for some time.

Although five men are in custody suspected of the crime and it is expected that evidence will be developed in a day or two that will lead to the arrest of the perpetrator of this dastardly crime.

HOOD RIVERITES MAKE SPEECHES

We publish below two addresses that were delivered at the convention of the Northwestern Fruit Growers at Lewiston, Idaho, by E. H. Shepard and J. L. Carter. Mr. Shepard's address is entitled "Hood River Methods," and Mr. Carter spoke on "Spraying." Both these subjects will be interesting to fruit growers, both far and near, and we regret that we were not able to obtain the addresses to be made by E. L. Smith and A. I. Mason in time for this issue.

The addresses are as follows:

Hood River Methods.
By E. H. Shepard.

At our last convention in Boise, I heard two Idaho fruit growers discussing Hood River. One said to the other, "Hood River grows fine fruit, but it is not because their apples are better than ours that they get such wonderful fancy prices, but because they are such d—n blowers."

I will not waste time in the usual peroration full of platitudes about not being able to make a speech of long length to prepare one, for a Hood River man is "semper paratus" to talk, but merely say your indulgence if I seemingly blurt occasionally from the subject to hint about Hood River, for that is one of the methods that assisted in making Hood River famous. And when I do I will grant you the privilege of taking all I say "cum grano salis."

I will now endeavor to explain in a systematic way the methods employed for Hood River such fancy prices as $2.10 to $2.50 for Newtowns and $2.50 to $3.00 for Spitzbergs, f. o. b., and have been granted prize given by the Louisiana exposition to a single county in the United States for green fruit.

One of the fundamental principles of the rapid progress of America has been specialization, and it is an old law of political economy that not only the individual but the locality and the community should devote its time to a specialty. If it expects to achieve the greatest success either in the financial world of wealth, or in the more laudable and crowning glory of fame and honor.

Hood River fruit growers are specialists to the extreme limit. We grow practically nothing but fruit, and of that but two kinds, apples and strawberries; the apples are practically limited to two varieties—Newtowns and Spitzbergs—and the strawberries to one—Clark's Seedling.

I beg of you, gentlemen, not to expect too much in the way of information on the subject of methods, for we are but mortals and much more of our success is due to the supreme gift of soil and climate than to our methods. No matter how high class the workmanship may be you "cannot make a silk purse out of a sow's ear."

We had the good luck to discover the opportunity God gave us, and the energy, perseverance and progressiveness to accomplish the rest. The Lord favored Hood River with a soil full of potash, phosphates and other minerals necessary to produce high quality fruit of good size, fine color, excellent flavor and No. 1 shipping qualities; an ideal climate for perfect development—warm days and cool nights; the ever shining sun kissing our fruit by day, giving it color, while Mt. Hood and Mt. Adams, 11,000 feet high with ever covered snow capped peaks, cool our atmosphere at night.

I will now tell you as best I can how we have done our part. By investigation some years ago we ascertained that Spitzbergs and Newtowns were not only high quality fruit, but always in demand. We found by experiment that they grew to perfection in Hood River and its climate. We observed that these two varieties could be grown successfully in few districts and these comparatively small. We then decided to plant and grow them, and have been continuing to do so ever since.

The point I wish to bring out here for the benefit of every one is that each individual, each locality, is particularly adapted to some one thing, to do that one thing well and better than any one else will surely bring success and a rich harvest. To illustrate, Los Angeles and vicinity is famous for oranges and lemons; Fresno for grapes; Vacaville for apples; Sacramento River for peaches. In Colorado, Grand Junction and Paoma are celebrated for Apples, Rocky Ford for cantaloupes. Parts of Missouri beat the world on our old friend, Ben Davis, and by the way, don't forget it is a grand state and supplies the government with more and better mules than any other state in the Union. These mules beat the world for mules. I know this because a few of them crossed the plains and stopped off at Hood River and went into growing fruit, and let me tell you, gentlemen, that a Missouri mule fruit grower will all night long think up something to kick about to the manager of a fruit union.

FALLS 40 FEET INTO WELL AND LIVES

A six-year-old son of Eli Robinson, who lives out on the Belmont road, had a narrow escape from being drowned in a well Monday. Mr. Robinson was finishing up the curbing of a well that had been recently dug in his place, and the little fellow, in company with his sister, was playing near it. His father was using a dumb bell to pick up the curb and bring it to him. The dumb bell was lying near the well curb and the youngster, in picking it up, instead of walking toward his father, stepped backward and fell into the well, which is forty feet deep.

The horrified father descended into the well by a rude ladder that had been used in the construction of it, expecting to find the boy clinging to the railing, however, he found that the youngster had struck on a plank that was floating in it and was calling lustily to be taken out.

Fearing that he might have sustained internal injuries, Dr. Brown was summoned and made an examination, but found that beyond a few bruises the lad was unharmed and that there was no water in his lungs. His escape from death or serious injury is considered miraculous.
