Mr. Miles has had vast experience in logging and general sawmill business, and says the plant at Dees is much in advance of anything of its kind in the northwest.

Considerable complaint is being made of parties stealing roses and other flowers from the yards of residences in town. As a rule the thieves are not content to take just a few flowers, but will cut a large branch containing the finest flowers on the bush, thereby causing considerable damage to the bush, as well as the loss of the flowers. In some cases Mr. Hood lily will be cut off nearly to the ground, ruining the plant for the season. With flowers so plentiful, it seems nothing less than a malicious destruction of personal property. If the parties are caught, they will be made to suffer the consequences.
