N. J. Levison, editor of the Sunday Oregonian, came up on No. 2 Saturday to stay over Sunday with his family at White Salmon. They are summering at the Jewett place.

Miss Adele Goff returned from the university at Eugene last Friday, accompanied by Miss Sue Hayes, of Baker City, who will make a short visit before going on to her home.

Mrs. Ewing, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. C. E. Warren, while the latter has been staying in Hood River with her husband during the berry season, returned to Portland Friday.

The telephone company on Friday finished its private line of the Mt. Hood railroad company from their general office to Dea, and the telephone will be used for the present, at least, instead of telegraph.

Mrs. Sleeth, state organizer for the W. C. T. U., will be in Hood River July 5 and 6 and address the local organization. One evening will be devoted to a lecture and the following evening will be a program and the reciting of original poems by Mrs. Sleeth.

Services every Sunday in the Unitarian church at 11 a. m., J. A. Heldridge, minister. Topics for next Sunday: "How shall we interpret Truth?" Truth is one, universal and eternal, but how shall we know what is truth? All are welcome.

A rattlesnake with seven rattles was killed near the Catholic church last Thursday, the first rattler seen in the city limits in two or three years. They are being gradually exterminated, and it is very seldom that one is now seen in the valley.

Mrs. McRea, a writer for the Oregonian, who has a ranch in the Oregon district, near the Jordan ranch, was in Hood River the first of the week, looking after her interests. She will do some improving on the place this season and expects to set out several acres of apples in the fall.

Dr. Alex. McKenzie, of Portland, returned Tuesday from the meeting of the American Medical Association in Boston, and had a short visit with Dr. Watt at the depot while No. 1 remained.

E. C. Eldridge has resigned his position as cashier at the Hood River station, and left Saturday with Mrs. Eldridge for Wisconsin, where he will resume his old position with the Northwestern line. His place was filled here by Alex. Jones, who comes here from Spokane. Mr. Jones learned railroading in England, and comes here well recommended.

Mrs. K. S. Walton fell from a chair in the woods at her home yesterday afternoon, striking the back of her head on a chunk of wood. She called feebly for help, and Mrs. Ganger, who lives next door, went to her assistance. Marshall Ganger was also at home, and summoned a physician. She held profusely and was badly shaken up, but apparently not seriously hurt.

Gold & Mears were awarded the contract to put in a system of water works at Wallowa Thursday, to cost $10,025. It is to be a gravity system taking the water out of a stream near by three miles from the town and bringing it in through pipes to the city, where it will be distributed over the city by regular pipes. They were the lowest bidders, underbidding Portland parties by $375.

J. R. Nunemaker, of Heppner, has taken the option of Mr. Zwick on the Woodworth home farm, which was recently sold, and will complete the deal and become the owner of that fine property. Mr. Nunemaker liked the place so much that Mr. Zwick surrendered the place to his friend, and will look for another good place in the valley that will make him a nice home.

S. E. Bartness says that he has at last persuaded the Odd Fellows to extend the concrete walk down past his building for the use of his part of the street while their building was being constructed. What bothers Sam now is whether or not he will have to pay for the walk himself after it is done. The new walk will be a fine improvement to that part of the block and it is up to the council to pass an ordinance requiring cement walks to be built in the business district whenever a new walk is laid. They are the cheapest in the end, besides being fireproof and a great help in the looks of the town.

Superintendent West, of the Mt. Hood Railroad, left a surveying outfit in the Mt. Hood hotel one day last week while he was out of the city. A few days later a stranger told the clerk that Mr. West had sent for it and said he had come to take it away. Not suspecting anything wrong, the outfit was delivered. When Mr. West came back and inquired for the things, he found out what had happened. There is no clue to the thief, nor does anyone remember seeing a stranger leave town with a surveyor's outfit. Sheriff Sexton investigated the case while here Tuesday, but there are no developments as yet.

Samuel C. Dorsey, of Baker City, stopped off on his way home from Portland over Sunday to visit the family of R. P. Orr.

This week saw a general breaking up of the strawberry camps, and the conversion of pastboard into coin has made business good with our merchants. Cherry picking is on but the crop is light and the fruit will all be gathered by the first of the week.

The ladies of the Unitarian church will have choice home cooking on sale Saturday, June 30, from 10 o'clock until sold out, in the window of Wood & Smith Bros. grocery store. This will be a good opportunity to get good things to eat for Sunday.

The ladies of the Congregational church have just closed a contract with the Midland company, of Des Moines, Iowa, for a strictly high class musical and lecture course. A series of five numbers are secured, which will be worth a great deal to every one.

Jasper Wickham presented the Glacier with a box of berries from his ranch in the Crapper district, which he says is the kind they "quit picking on." The last of the pick is usually small and of poor quality. These were three and a half tier, and as fine as we have seen this season. If these are a specimen of the last pick in Crapper, we have a curiosity to know what the first of the crop was like.
