LARAWAY'S STORE AT GLENWOOD

The following article is taken from a write-up of Iowa by E. L. McNulty and Alfred J. Russell, of Chicago:

The jewelry store of W. F. Laraway in Glenwood is considered headquarters by those who know and appreciate high-grade and desirable goods in the line of watches, diamonds, silver ware, hand-painted China, optical goods, pianos, organs, and sewing machines.

Mr. W. F. Laraway was the first watchmaker to locate between Council Bluffs and Des Moines, and established his present business in 1868. He is a practical watchmaker and jeweler and a graduate optician, and during his long business career has built up a large trade which not only extends all over southwestern Iowa but to all parts of the country.

For more than eleven years he has been ably assisted by his son Seth E. Laraway, who has received instruction from his father, both as a watchmaker, jeweler and optician, and which with hard study and a long and extensive experience makes him an expert at the business. So well has he applied himself that for the past few years he has had entire control of the business, which has grown extensively under his management. The store is fully equipped with all the necessary tools and machinery, such as power lathes, etc., for the manufacture of jewelry, rings, etc. If one desires they can take their old gold to Laraway's store and have it manufactured into rings, pins or any jewelry they desire. They mount diamonds and precious stones. In fact there is nothing in the manufacturing jewelry line or repair work that can not be done by this firm. Their stock of watches, diamonds and solid silverware is equal in quality, variety and extent to those carried in any of the larger cities, and the people of this vicinity are to be congratulated upon having such a display of high-grade goods and such competent manufacturing jewelers and watchmakers and expert opticians at their door. They have a special dark room for the fitting of glasses, which is one of the finest in the state. It is fitted with the latest and most modern machinery for examining and testing the eyes, and as opticians Mr. Laraway and his son have few equals. This work at present is carried on by Seth E. Laraway in the same successful manner and by the same scientific principles as used by his father. His extensive and practical experience together with careful study and special instruction, makes this the best place to have your eyes fitted. They grind their own lenses and do their own work.

Seth Laraway was a student at the best engraving school in this country and is a practical and expert engraver. They make a specialty of souvenir spoons and engrave special names on spoons to order. They handle a variety of pianos, including the Crown and the Baldwin. The Crown took the highest honor at the World's Fair at Chicago and the Baldwin at St. Louis. They have no agents and sell pianos direct from the store, saving their customers agents' commission and expenses. Mr. Laraway makes a specialty of high-grade watches, diamonds and fine jewelry, and nowhere can be found a nicer selection or variety of goods in this line. His store is nicely arranged, new and up-to-date, and as such a store would be a credit to any city, it should receive the hearty support of the surrounding country.

Would Facilitate Apple Exports. Harry M. Isaacs, managing director of the large fruit importing firm of M. Isaacs & Sons, of London, was in New York last week en route to Houston. Mr. Isaacs is here for the purpose of making personal investigations regarding the support that can be obtained for the maintenance of a new fruit steamer line between Boston and London. The firm has the establishment of such a line under contemplation, and has had considerable correspondence regarding the proposition with representatives in the United States and Canada, which has been very favorable, but before definitely settling the matter Mr. Isaacs decided to visit this country in person.

In an interview with a Fruit Trade Journal representative Mr. Isaacs stated that the prime object of the proposed new service was to facilitate the exportation of apples. "There has been some dissatisfaction experienced in the past by the apple shippers, especially from Boston," said Mr. Isaacs, "and I believe it is partially due to the manner in which the fruit has been handled. The large steamers unload the apples, legally in London, but really several miles from the final destination. This makes it necessary to rehandle it, causing loss and delay.

The new steamer service we contemplate would go right to London Bridge and alongside the fruit warehouses. The advantage is obvious, as, in addition to the time saved, the fruit would not have to be re-handled. It is now proposed to establish a fortnightly service between Boston and London and Hull, the ship going first to London, then to Hull, and returning to Boston in ballast. The ships will make the trip from Boston to London in from ten to twelve days. They will have a capacity of from 15,000 to 20,000 barrels of apples, but it is not the intention to load them much over half full, as the object is primarily to expedite the movement of fruit and to place it on the other side in good shape.

"Of course we do not expect to lose money on the ships, and it is with a view of ascertaining, as definitely as possible, the revenue that we may expect that I am now looking over the situation."

The service, if established, will be the first of its kind between the United States and Europe, though there was a similar service a number of years ago from London to Nova Scotia. It is expected that the new service would be largely patronized by Canadian shippers as well as by those of the United States.

O. R. & N. and S. P. Books Tells About This Country.

If possible, the passenger department of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company and Southern Pacific (lines in Oregon) has surpassed itself in the 1906 issue of its new publication, Oregon, Washington and Idaho and their resources. The purpose of the publication is to attract homeseekers and investors to the Pacific Northwest and this publication is undoubtedly the best messenger that could be sent by residents of Oregon, Washington and Idaho to their friends in the East and Middle West.

Beautiful half tones, printed on superb book paper, make the publication, which contains 88 pages and a map of the sections, a work of art, but far superior to the typographical make-up is the contents of the book. Under many heads covering practically all the resources of the states are short, pithy stories of what has been accomplished, not what might be done, but actual facts and figures accompanied by names and addresses of well known farmers, who are daily laying aside an income that would be a fortune to an Eastern agriculturalist. Wm. Murray, general passenger agent of the O. R. & N. Co., and S. P. lines in Oregon has favored the editor with a copy of this publication and informed him that readers of this paper by sending the names and addresses of friends in the East and four cents in postage for each address may have the book promptly mailed to the address given.
