New Remedy for Snake Bites.

H. G. Colton came up from Portland Saturday on a flying visit to the ranch near his home. While at the ranch a fine Scotch collie pup died.

It was a registered dog, costing him $25 dollars, and was being trained to work around the farm. He expressed the loss of the dog very acutely, so he sold the lot from the preceding lot for that conversation with Mr. Thomas F. Sargent, who has the Barrett ranch, that gentleman spoke of a very effective remedy for snake bites. Mr. Sargent spent some time in America, where he was interested in a rubber plantation. Snakes in that country are many and very poisonous. Men were frequently bitten, and it was necessary that prompt action be taken

WHITE SALMON FORGING AHEAD

Capital Invests in Buildings

Higen Awakes From Its Long Sleep and Will Compete With More Modern Town for Share of Business.

The Glacier may look a trip to White Salmon last week and while he had been told of the various attractions of the place by residents there he allowed a grain of salt for the enthusiasm which every one has should have for his old home town. The ferryman told his passengers as they mounted the steps to turn and look back recessionly, and they would be well repaid, and they were.

No more convincing proof of the beauty and prosperity of the Hood River valley, with the city nestled in the hillsides, can be found than the view afforded the sightseer from the steps leading to White Salmon. These steps, by the way, are not for the aged and infirm, but for those strong of heart and firm of limb. Once at the top, however, the tired feeling attendant on the long climb is forgotten in the admiration of the beautiful panorama of the home dotted valley spread out before the eye with the majestic peak, snow covered Mt. Hood, in the distance. As far as the very base of the mountain can be seen, evidences of thrift and progress, all of which has been accomplished in but a few years. From here can be seen also almost every town in the city of Hood River with its sprinkling of green lawns and shade trees.

However, to return to White Salmon, we find that the energetic residents of that town have been doing little Hood Riverites have been busy. On all sides can be seen evidences of progress and push. New buildings, either completed or in course of erection, can be seen in every direction. Some of them are residences and others business places, while the amount of new building is such that it is evident that capital has investigated and found an opening for the future investment. Stages roll by with fair women and members of the society as passengers on pleasure excursions. Fine boats, Red Steeple men, boats all showing strange bargains and opportunities in the fast growing town, using as their argument value at present compared with those a year ago.

The problem of a good water supply, which has been a serious one for White Salmon, it is said, will soon be solved by bringing water into the town from Big Buck Creek. A company which has been organized and incorporated has filed an application with the directors of the railroad for water from this stream to supply all purposes, both for irrigation and household use. The water comes from the glaciers of Mt. Adams and is clean and sweet at all seasons of the year.

While the water project is a very popular one with White Salmonites the one that interests them most is its dear to the heart of every rancher where that business is necessary. The market their products is the electric road. While some fear that the road will not build the majority, pinning their faith to the influence which the north bank road will have on future industrial development on that side of the river, are arguing. The promoters of the road say it will be built and they ought to know.

One question which is causing a good deal of attention among the farming citizens is whether the coming of the railroad will cause the town to grow in the direction of Higen, or whether it will spread back up the valley. It is said by those interested that the natural place for the town to develop is up the valley, where the topography of the country is better adapted to building purposes. The nucleus of a town already growing and prosperous, it is thought by the land wise, will check any growth in the direction of the railroad. The opponents of this idea point to the fact that urban growth is natural in the direction of the railroad station and argue that the land from Higen to the present town is really in easier one than that from the present town to the same place. Ranchers back in the valley, it is said, would rather go to Higen than to the White Salmon boat landing. To this argument the adherents of the present town reply that there is no necessity for many of the residents going to either the boat landing or the station, as goods of all kinds are hauled up from there and that it is not likely that they will drive a mile and a half each way simply for the purpose of seeing the station.

All, however, admit that the town site at Higen is an admirable one. Topographically it is perfect. There are said to be about 1,000 acres there available for lots and that the bulk of the property have already been acquired by several large real estate firms who have offered to purchase large tracts at a good figure, with the intention of laying out streets and selling the lots from the preceding lot. For these offers have not with refusal as the owners are not inclined to turn over their property to speculators.

There is, nevertheless, a very little awaking in the town. While at the ranch many a pioneer in this country first set foot and which many years ago was known as White Salmon before its more modern and busky rival usurped the name.

NEW TELEPHONE LINE COMPLETED.

The new telephone line of the Mt. Hood Company was completed last week and as soon as an exchange is established at Mt. Hood the company will be ready for business. The new line connects with the Pacific States Company at Hood River opposite Fletcher's store and the Mt. Hood Company has made arrangements with the Pacific States to use its exchange service in this city.

The new company will be able to serve as many subscribers as wish to connect. As an inducement to those who wish to take advantage of the convenience of their line the new company offers to build one-quarter mile of line from the main line free, the other three-quarters the expense of the remaining distance. This concession will include most of the residents along the line and the company is expected to open for business with a good list of subscribers.

NEW BOATS FOR WHITE SALMON FERRY.

Piereson & Dean, the White Salmon ferryman, will soon increase their fleet of boats with the addition of two launches, one 25 feet long and the other 30 feet long. The former will be placed in commission in a few days but the larger boat will not be ready for use until the early part of September. When it arrives the ferry company will have six boats at their command and will be prepared to take parties to meet any point on the river between the Locks and The Dalles. The largest of the craft will seat 40 passengers and has a cabin finished with oak and all conveniences for a day's cruising. Parties wishing to take a day's outing on the river will be accommodated and the demand which the ferryman have had so frequently this summer for transportation to points on the north bank will be amply met.

SEES BIG BLAST OF NORTH BANK.

B. A. Gifford went down the river on the north bank opposite Mosier Monday evening to secure a picture of the monstrous blast set off at that place. A thousand bags of giant powder were set off at once and a mountain blown into the Columbia river. Mr. Gifford in describing it said that he saw the greatest light he ever witnessed. The blast occurred at 6:15 p. m., and the noise was little more than a rumble. The mountain of rock struck the river, the water was thrown up in all directions, and weeds and willows from the bottom were soon noticed floating on the surface of the stream.—Optimist.

IS SAVING NEBASKA.

A letter from Ezra Meeker to a Dalles friend was dated at Guernsey, Wyo., July 15, and tells of his progress in marking the old Oregon trail. That point, he says is 1240 miles from The Dalles and 500 miles to Omaha. The trip is nearing its close and the old gentleman expresses himself as pleased with the result. Eighteen monuments have been erected, the high water mark being reached last week at Casper where a 800 monument was erected to be placed in a drinking fountain will be placed in connection with it.

WILL MAKE DENATURIZED ALCOHOL.

Within the next six months distilleries are to be installed at the sugar plant in Utah and Idaho, according to the Salt Lake Herald, for the manufacture of denaturized alcohol. General Manager Thomas R. Cutler, of the Utah Sugar company, said last night that investigations were being carried on along this line to obtain the alcohol from molasses, the mercantile alcohol produced in the manufacture of beet sugar. From this product, which contains a large percentage of sugar, quantities of alcohol can be produced at low cost. The removal of the government tax on denaturized alcohol has opened up large possibilities in the manufacture for the arts and a substitute for gasoline for motive power.—Gem State Rural.

TO BRIDGE THE COLUMBIA.

A movement has been started by local business men, backed by prominent politicians in the Yakima valley, to secure an appropriation for a wagon bridge across the Columbia here, each way simply for the purpose of seeing the station.

All, however, admit that the town site at Higen is an admirable one. Topographically it is perfect. There are said to be about 1,000 acres there available for lots and that the bulk of the property have already been acquired by several large real estate firms who have offered to purchase large tracts at a good figure, with the intention of laying out streets and selling the lots from the preceding lot. For these offers have not with refusal as the owners are not inclined to turn over their property to speculators.

FALL APPLES FOR EUROPE

NEW DEPARTURE FOR HOOD RIVER

Hood River Apple Growers' Union Extend the Field for Market-Field Apples.

Negotiations were closed between a large eastern commission firm and the Hood River Apple Growers' Union for a large shipment of early fall apples which will be sent to England. This shipment will consist of eight cars of apples and marks a new era in the history of apple shipments from the far west, as heretofore the market for early apples has been supplied from the eastern states. The fruit will be shipped some time between the last of August and September 10th and will be rushed through by express fast service. When asked for information on this new venture of the apple business Manager Sheppard, of the Fruit Growers' Union, said:

"These apples will consist of the varieties known as Wealthies, Kings and Greensteins, and are early fall apples, which have heretofore been considered too perishable to be sent abroad. We have been induced to try this experiment of shipping early apples to England by eastern apple dealers who are familiar with the Hood River product and its excellent keeping qualities who think the shipment can be accomplished successfully.

"The demand for early apples abroad has in former years been supplied from the orchards in New York, New England and Eastern Canada. The fruit from these sections has not the keeping qualities of the Hood River apple and is far inferior in every way to the fancy western apples. Shipments of early eastern apples to England and other points across the Atlantic have not been altogether successful during the past few years, and as there is an excellent market for them there, apple dealers have been looking elsewhere to supply the demand. This shipment will, of course, be somewhat in the nature of an experiment, but we think by exercising extra care and picking the apples slightly earlier than usual they will arrive in first-class condition.

"If we can market these early apples on the continent successfully we will at once create a demand for them that we now have for our Newtowns, Spitzenbergs and other high grade but later apples. Greensteins, Kings and Wealthies do not, of course, bring the price that the latter and longer keeping varieties, and heretofore they have been sold mostly to the local trade. We have, however, secured a very good price for this shipment and an agreement that we shall receive all profits above a certain amount of commission.

"Our efforts to market our Newtowns in Europe, in the face of the competition from the Hudson River valley having been unsuccessful, we now hope to meet with the same success in this new venture. If we do we will have placed the apple business in Hood River valley on a more profitable basis than it ever was and will have created a market for Hood River fruit that will be practically unailing."

Other apple men say that these early fall apples from here are even earlier than those from the far eastern states and can be marketed in advance of them and command better prices. They say also that in view of the fact that reports from the various other apple growing sections in the United States are to the effect that there will be a large apple crop this year, the demand for western apples so early in the season proves their superiority.

A Working Bee.

One of the greatest (if not the greatest event) of the season was the gathering of the school parents and friends of East Barrett Monday, July 30th, the occasion being a working bee, for the purpose of cleaning off the grounds preparatory for the erection of the new school house on the Ferguson land, recently purchased by the school board.

Time and space will not permit the mention of all names present, but from 7 o'clock in the morning until 5 in the evening, men were busily engaged in the work, grubbing, blasting being the order of the day.

At 11 o'clock the women and children (not kids) began to pour into those woods loaded with baskets, buckets, pans, boxes, cans and various other articles, too numerous to mention, filled with all kinds of good things, and the way those boards for that was the table) they never groaned, but just kept bending lower and lower each moment. Like the rainbows, until the joyful cry of dinner was heard responding in the air, when 18 men, 15 children and a dozen (not old ladies) but any old number, knelt and partook of that meal, the boards fell straight to the ground.

After dinner came the boys with their sleds—yes, sleds in July (don't you see the snow on the mountains) escorting the ladies home, for all must be off early to finish the washing up and the grubbing, the men, hoping the ladies might return with supper and thus end the first plume of the Eastern Barretts.

One Who Was There.

There is nothing so pleasant as that bright, cheerful, at-peace-with-the-world feeling when you sit down to your breakfast. There is nothing so conducive to good work and good results. The healthy man with a healthy mind and body is a better fellow, a better workman, a better citizen than the man or woman who is handicapped by some disability, however slight. A slight disorder of the stomach will derange your body, your thoughts and your disposition. Get away from the morbidity and the blues. Keep your stomach in tune and both your brain and body will respond. Little indiscretions of over-eating can be easily corrected and you will be surprised to see how much better man you are. Try a little Kodol For Dyspepsia after your meals. Sold by Williams' Pharmacy.

WILL MAKE DENATURIZED ALCOHOL.

Within the next six months distilleries are to be installed at the sugar plant in Utah and Idaho, according to the Salt Lake Herald, for the manufacture of denaturized alcohol. General Manager Thomas R. Cutler, of the Utah Sugar company, said last night that investigations were being carried on along this line to obtain the alcohol from molasses, the mercantile alcohol produced in the manufacture of beet sugar. From this product, which contains a large percentage of sugar, quantities of alcohol can be produced at low cost. The removal of the government tax on denaturized alcohol has opened up large possibilities in the manufacture for the arts and a substitute for gasoline for motive power.—Gem State Rural.

TO BRIDGE THE COLUMBIA.

A movement has been started by local business men, backed by prominent politicians in the Yakima valley, to secure an appropriation for a wagon bridge across the Columbia here, each way simply for the purpose of seeing the station.

All, however, admit that the town site at Higen is an admirable one. Topographically it is perfect. There are said to be about 1,000 acres there available for lots and that the bulk of the property have already been acquired by several large real estate firms who have offered to purchase large tracts at a good figure, with the intention of laying out streets and selling the lots from the preceding lot. For these offers have not with refusal as the owners are not inclined to turn over their property to speculators.

There is, nevertheless, a very little awaking in the town. While at the ranch many a pioneer in this country first set foot and which many years ago was known as White Salmon before its more modern and busky rival usurped the name.
