PIONEER PREDICTS NO MORE HIGH WATER

The fact that there has been no high water in the Columbia river now for two seasons is causing pioneer residents who have been familiar with stages of water in the river for many years to re-examine.

"The weather ain't what it used to be an' the seasons is changin'," they say.

"Why," said one old fellow, "this is the first time in 30 years to my knowledge that the boats have not been able to land for two years in succession right over there," pointing to a spot about 100 yards from the Mount Hood hotel.

While not taking the pessimistic view of the pioneer above quoted in regard to the future of high water to come for the past two seasons, many persons who have resided along the Columbia for a goodly portion of their lives, substantiate his statement and say that they have never known high water to tail for two years in succession.

Oregon's First Fair.

A bit of interesting history in connection with the early days of Salem was brought to light yesterday in the office of F. W. Durbin, a secretary of the Oregon state board of agriculture, says the Salem Statesman.

While making an examination of the contents of an old chest which comprises a part of the paraphernalia of that office, the assistant secretary, F. A. Welch, discovered an old book which had been used for the keeping of the records of the Marion County Agricultural Society of Salem, O. T., which was organized during the year 1854, while Oregon was still a territory.

The first step toward the formation of that society was taken on the 9th day of April that year, when a meeting of the "farmers of Marion county" was held at the court house to perfect arrangements for the complete organization of an agricultural association.

The minutes of the meeting show that Governor John R. Davis was chosen temporary chairman and J. G. Wilson secretary pro tem. On motion of J. C. Geer, jr., a committee of six was appointed to draft a constitution and by laws for the "government of an agricultural association."

No records of the awards and the business of the first fair is to be found in the book, and the next minutes are those of the regular annual meeting of the society which was held on Monday, April 9, 1855.

A Big Missouri Apple County.

A statement of the apple growing industry in the vicinity of Carrollton, Mo., which is located on the Santa Fe line about sixty miles east of Kansas City, was issued this week by the freight department of the Santa Fe Railroad company. From figures compiled by agents of this company the crop of apples around Carrollton promises to amount to 51,000 barrels. Carrollton is on the main line of the Santa Fe running from Kansas City to Chicago, which will enable people who handle the apples to secure best-class transportation facilities. The Santa Fe's circular is as follows:

"The present outlook points to the largest yield and best quality of apples the territory tributary to Carrollton Mo., has ever known. A personal visit to the orchard disclosed almost no wormy fruit and scarcely a bluish spot of any character. Unless the unexpected happens, the percentage of bluish spots will run exceedingly high and the statement of old orchardists of thirty years' experience, that this is the finest crop Carroll county ever had, will be fully substantiated. The growers already have about 50 per cent of the barrel stock necessary to care for the crop on hand and they intend bringing the supply up to the full amount required before harvest."

Spray To A Man.
County Fruit Inspector Ingram returned Saturday from a business trip to the White Salmon neighborhood. In an interview Mr. Ingram states that the White Salmon fruit raisers are in the prime of the arsenate of lead spray. Their returns from their worst orchards, so far, is about 85 per cent clean fruit. Everybody is spraying this week for the second crop of codling moth. They, to a man, are dropping everything else to do their spraying on time and count on big returns this year. A great many say that they would not go back into the old way and raise wormy fruit. They think that the satisfaction of just looking at their fine apples pay for all work and expense, and their fruit is all profit. The tomato crop is almost a failure. The first crop of blossoms were blighted with cold and the third blossoms were blighted with heat. So all that they can count upon is the second bloom.—Klekitt Agr. Culturist.

Rev. R. H. Barnes Will Resign.
Rev. R. H. Barnes, pastor of St. Mark's Episcopal church, Sunday made the announcement of his resignation which he desires to take place on August 27. The announcement was made from the pulpit at the Sunday morning service and was a surprise to his congregation, who were not aware of his intention to leave Hood River. Mr. Barnes, who came to this city last fall, has filled the position as pastor of St. Mark's church most acceptably and much regret is expressed at his decision to leave the parish being in ill health when he came he has not found the climate here very beneficial to his ailment. His intention as to the future location is not at present known.

O. R. & N. Settles For a Death.
B. J. Lilly, administrator of the estate of John B. Lilly, deceased, has filed a petition for an order to settle with the O. R. & N. company upon payment by the company of $2,100 to the estate of the deceased. John B. Lilly, who was employed on a work train, was killed in an accident near Westheby a few months ago. The railroad company disclaims liability for the young man's death, but according to the petition of the administrator the company is willing to pay the amount above named for full settlement and release from further claims from the estate.—La Grande Chronicle.
