SOLD FOR SEWER TAX
STORE BUILDING SELLS FOR $60
Sale of Delinquent Property Commenced August 10 and Continued Until Sold.
Last Friday morning at ten o'clock the property advertised to be sold for delinquent sewer assessment, was offered at auction to the highest bidder by Marshal Ganger. Not a great deal of interest was taken by the public, but a few bidders being present, and but a comparatively few bids to invest, owing to many not being certain as to the outcome.
Several whose property was advertised paid the assessments Friday morning before the sale, and a considerable sum was collected in this manner. At 10 o'clock the sale was commenced, C. U. Dapkin acting as clerk.
The first piece of property offered was the store building occupied by Booth's store and owned by J. H. Middleton. The first bid was $35 by C. A. Dano followed by $30 by J. J. Otton and was finally knocked down to W. E. Sheets for $60. Then followed sales as follows:
Lots 9 and 10, block 31, Hood River Park addition, sold to M. L. Howe, $21.50.
Lots 1 and 2, block 2, Idlewild addition, C. Dano $40.
Lots 1, 2, 3 and 4, block 5, Parkhurst addition, W. E. Sheets, $105.
Lot 3, block 1, Waucoma Park addition, A. W. Onthank, $10.
Lot 23, block 3, Stranahan's addition, J. H. Dulles, $30.
Lot 19, block 9, Hollis addition, W. E. Sheets, $20.
W. C. Middleton's tract, W. E. Sheets, $29.
South half of block 4, Riverview Park addition, J. J. Means, $20.
North half of block 4, Riverview Park addition, Charles Dano, $50.
Lot 2, block 5, Riverview Park addition, C. Dano, $10.
Lots 5, 6, block 3, Riverview Park addition, C. Dano, $35.
Lots 22, 24, 24, 26, 27, and 30, block 5, Riverview Park addition, C. A. Dano, $50.
Lots 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7, block 6, Riverview Park addition, F. B. Snyder, $30.
Lots 10, 11, 12 and 13, block 6, Riverview Park addition, F. B. Snyder, $25.
Lots 14 and 15, block 6, Riverview Park addition, J. J. Means, $20.
Lots 16, 17, 18, 19 and 20, block 6, Riverview Park addition, J. J. Means, $30.
At this time an adjournment was taken to Saturday morning at ten o'clock.
This comprised the sales of the first day. Marshal Ganger will adjourn the sale from day to day until all the following sales are made:
Lots 21, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, and 30, block 5, Riverview Park addition, John Muir, $50.85.
Body of Drowned Man Found Here.
The body of a man supposed to have been drowned was discovered near the hood landing last Thursday afternoon. It was lying on the beach where it had been washed by the waves and was found by the foreman of the O. R. & N. section gang.
City Marshal Ganger was notified and had the body brought to this city and placed in charge of Undertaker Bartness. The body was dressed in a coarse black shirt, overalls and loggers shoes and the contents of the pockets revealed nothing but a bandanna handkerchief and a vesting.
The corpse was examined by a physician who could find no evidence of injury sufficient to cause death and said he thought it had been in the water about ten days. The man was about 40 years of age, had dark hair, mustache and chin beard and was 5 feet, 9 inches in height.
The coroner, who was notified, refused to hold an inquest as there was no identification and the body was laid out last Friday evening. It is said that passengers on an up-river steamer several days ago reported seeing a man who was working on the North Bank road blown into the river by a blast and it is thought the body may have been his.
Advantages of Oregon.
If the people living in the far east only realized what they are missing by not residing in this part of the world the railroads would not be able to accommodate the travel coming this way. The idea seems to be prevalent in the east that Oregon is a cold, rainy state and a disagreeable place in which to live. The export train dispelled this idea to a certain extent, but it was principally the southern class that was able to enjoy the trip to the coast. The great mildness of the climate is the chief reason why the class is slow to believe the tales told them of Oregon's glorious climate and wonderful possibilities by the recent exposition visitors. Many also dislike to leave their friends and break the social ties at home. The idea of going so far away when they are not usually able to return if their loved ones are as represented keeps a large percentage away. Others believe in the old adage that a rolling stone gathers no moss, but fail to note the fact that a stone on a graveling side hill likewise accumulates none of the green. If they hear at a person "going west" and doing well they scribble it to luck, and claim that where one may succeed others are just as liable to fail.
But if they just know of the delightful, equitable climate, the good sunlight, the fine fruit, the beautiful scenery and the fertile soil we cannot help but think that they would cut all obstacles aside and make it the goal of their lives to reach Oregon. Go there you will and talk with whom you may in western Oregon and with one accord all will say they are more than glad to be here, and may well say they are only one thing to be sorry for—that is that they did not come years ago.
Where a sun stroke is something unknown, where snow is a luxury and zero weather unusual, where lightning never strikes and thunder is seldom heard, where the grass is green all year and roses bloom in December, where labor is never idle and with fruit the finest in the world we cannot help feel proud of our Oregon, and sorry for sun-sticken and frost-bitten eastern residents, who cannot or will not realize that Oregon is a country similar to what Moses led the children of Israel to—only better.

So if our eastern brethren are desirous of bettering their condition in life, if they want to go where opportunities abound on every side, not where it is a pleasure just to be alive, we advise them to come to Oregon.—St. Johns Review.

Will Cut Out Dalles Stopover.
Bigges will soon again be a place of importance. Wm. McMurray, general passenger agent for the O. R. & N., is now working out a schedule for the Bigges-Portland local to run to Arlington and there transfer passengers and express to the local for Portland. By this means all local O. R. & N. points will be given a quick service to Portland and return, regardless of the lateness of the through eastern trains. When this schedule is in effect passengers will not have a choice as now, of going to The Dalles and there waiting until ready to continue their trip.—Observer.

Will Form a Wheat Pool.
The farmers of Whitman county, Wash., are taking steps towards the forming of a wheat pool on similar lines to those associations formed in Umatilla and Wasco counties in this state. The only notable difference in the organization is that in Whitman the wheatgrowers advocate holding their wheat until the market advances to 70 cents a bushel. The farmers declare that their yield of grain is lower than last year and the sacks are four cents higher and threshing is not higher than at this time last year. In the meantime farmers from the other counties of the states will catch with great interest the result of the wheat pool. If the plan should result in any advance in the market price no doubt all counties in the states of Oregon and Washington will follow the methods adopted by the farmers of Umatilla, Wasco and Whitman.—Heppner Times.

Is Your Policy Good?
It is estimated that ten million dollars worth of fire insurance policies are held in the state of Oregon that is practically worthless. This is because of the large number of men, to the largest policy holders, and to others, yet Oregon's insurance commissioner is not reported to have done anything for protection of the prospective sufferers. Four of the large companies formerly doing business in the state, the Home Fire & Marine Insurance company, the Firemen's Fund Insurance company, the Traders' Insurance company and the Pacific Underwriters' company, became insolvent as a result of the San Francisco fire. Their Oregon policies at the date of the 1905 report of Commissioner Dunbar were materially above $10,000,000, and are probably higher at this time. Each of these four companies has $50,000 to deposit with the state officers to protect local policyholders, making a total of $200,000 as the maximum assets to cover more than $10,000,000 of possible liabilities. It appears that Dr. D. M. Brewer's successor has opportunity to do something in the line of duty and that the boasted virtue of our state insurance regulations will be put to the test.—Moro Observer.

Oil on Salem Streets.
Sprinkling the Salem streets with oil has actually begun, says the Salem Journal. Portions of Court street and Liberty street, in front of the property of Dr. J. H. Brewer, was covered to a coating of crude petroleum this morning.
So far, the indications are that it is a success.
The work attracted a great deal of interest and hundreds of citizens passed around that way to watch the men lay the dust and grease the road.
The experiment may solve the problem of Salem's dusty streets, and the success of this morning's effort will lead other property owners to adopt the same method.
The oil was spread by means of the water sprinkler, and did not spread as it will when a regular sprinkler is constructed for the experiment to be conducted around the center of the property tomorrow. The oil was forced directly onto the street by the sprinkler, and then the road was raked so as to spread the oil in better shape. The experiment was made on an area of 30x25 feet on one street 90 feet from the other.
Dr. Brewer has estimated that it would cost about $9 to thoroughly sprinkle the distance of one block, and that an application of three barrels of oil would do the work on the streets adjoining his property. Judge Scott, too, is optimistic at the interest manifested.
There is nothing so pleasant as that bright, cheerful, at-peace-with-the-world feeling when you sit down to your breakfast. There is nothing so conducive to good work and good results. The healthy man with a healthy mind and body is a better fellow, a better workman, a better citizen than the man or woman who is handicapped by some disability, however slight. A slight disorder of the stomach will derange your body, your thoughts and your disposition. Get away from the morbidness and the blues. Keep your stomach in tune and both your brain and body will respond. Little indiscretions of over-eating can be easily corrected and you will be surprised to see how much better you are. Try a little Kodol for Dyspepsia after your meals. Sold by Williams' Pharmacy.

Board of Equalization.
Notice is hereby given that the Board of Equalization of Wasco county, Oregon, will meet at the court house in Dalles City on the last Monday in August, 1906, and remain in session one week, for the purpose of examining and equalizing the assessment roll for the year 1906, as by law provided. Review of the Apple Situation by a Prominent Hood River Grower.
The following interview in the Portland Journal from O. L. Vanderbilt, is timely and reviews the apple situation:
From offers already received the impression prevails at Hood River that prices for Oregon apples this year will be about the same as last year, when the highest prices ever known were paid and the entire Hood River crop was shipped to Eastern and European markets. The crop in the valley this year is variously estimated from 100,000 to 130,000 boxes, nearly double the amount of last year's crop.
Already Eastern and European buyers have visited the valley. The Apple Growers' association applies this year will be about the same as last year, when the highest prices ever known were paid and the entire Hood River crop was shipped to Eastern and European markets. The crop in the valley this year is variously estimated from 100,000 to 130,000 boxes, nearly double the amount of last year's crop.
The association represents 90 per cent of the apple growers of the valley and numbers about 125 men. No grower is allowed, under the rigidly-enforced rules, to pack his own apples. This year for the first time the Hood River valley growers have sold his Gravenstein, Kings and Wealthies, early varieties, to the European market. Of these there will be seven carloads from this valley. Two cars are from Beulahland, the largest apple ranch in the valley. Oscar Vanderbilt, owner of Beulahland, who is in Portland today, said:
"Conditions in the valley at present are almost perfect for the apple harvest. The three early varieties now sold to Europe will be picked and shipped in about three weeks. Picking of other varieties will begin in October. This year is the third in which the association has followed the plan of selling the Hood River apple crop to the highest bidder. It has worked successfully and this year the growers will realize the benefits of both a large crop and a good price."
Mr. Vanderbilt said the increased acreage planted this year is not large, but a number of good sales have been made. Some of these are at prices that people might regard as fancy. But when compared with prices and earnings capacity of Colorado orchards and elsewhere, Hood River prices are still conservative. Colorado apple orchards bring from $1,000 to $3,000 per acre, while the Hood River prices do not range at half those figures, although the latter orchards are cultivated and harvested with power. In a number of Hood River orchards a single acre has been known to yield as much as $1,000 per acre.
Mr. Vanderbilt has purchased 30 acres known as the Vandalia orchard, now in full bearing, and added it to his Beulahland. This farm now consists of about 145 acres, and its bearing acreage is the largest in the valley. Last year the original farm yielded between 4,000 and 5,000 boxes. The ranch is cultivated to a high degree, bearing trees loaded with perfectly formed apples, the young trees trimmed and sprayed scrupulously. The land is cultivated and harvested, and not a weed to be seen between all the long rows of trees.
This year's crop of Beulahland is estimated at 14,000 boxes. The apples from this farm sold last year at $1.75 as the lowest and $3 the highest price per box. The prices are not large, but a number of good sales have been made. Some of these are at prices that people might regard as fancy.
