

HOOD RIVER GLACIER
Issued every Thursday by ARTHUR D. MOSE, Publisher.
Terms of subscription—$1.50 a year when paid
in advance.
THURSDAY, AUGUST 16, 1906.

The completion of the new irrigating ditch will assure the development of nearly 4,000 acres of land on the west side of the valley, and the money needed to complete the ditch should be voted without question.

Sunday afternoon there will be a partial eclipse of the sun which will be visible in Washington, Oregon and Idaho, and in portions of Montana at sunset. Only a small portion of the northern edge of the sun will be obscured.

A movement is on foot to provide a pension to W. H. Laidlaw, the "human shield" who saved the life of Russell Sage fifteen years ago. He is a helpless cripple, and by his act added fifteen years of life and thereby many millions to the Wall street pawnbroker, yet Sage did nothing but leave him a comparatively small legacy. The heirs will ask the widow for an appropriation sufficient to make Laidlaw comfortable for life.

The forest fires that are now doing so much damage in this state and in Washington emphasize the need of greater precaution against the yearly occurrence of these disasters. It is said that the damage already done in Oregon exceeds the loss at San Francisco by the earthquake and fire, yet but little has been made about it. The rapid depletion of our forests from all sources is causing apprehension, and the end of the vast tracts of timber is already in sight. Better precautions and better protection is needed to make the timber last as long as possible.

The opening of the wagon road to Lost Lake will be the means of making it one of the attractions of Hood River's many places for tourists. The lake is a fine body of water nestled among the mountains, with the finest scenery of the Cascade surrounding it. The water is warm for bathing, the beaches fine, and in addition to good fishing, combines the attractions of a lake resort. Pleasure boats could be put on the lake, permanent cabins built, and would be the means of bringing hundreds of tourists into the valley to spend a few days or weeks. The Mount Hood railroad runs half way to the lake, and the other half will be a grand scenic ride, most of the way in the shade of the forest, with glimpses of mountain and stream constantly changing to add to the pleasures of the trip.

Yakima Indian Lands to Be Sold.
The unaltered tribal lands of the Yakima Indian reservation are to be thrown open to settlement under the Jones bill as soon as the surveys are completed and the land classified and appraised. The United States allotting agent, W. E. Casson, is now on the reservation and will join Superintendent Jay Lynch on a tour of investigation. The commission, composed of himself, Mr. Lynch, T. A. Noble, of the reclamation service, and Engineer W. H. Reisman, will on August 23 meet and then adopt a report which will be forwarded to the department for approval. The land is now being surveyed. There are 600,000 acres of land, which will be appraised and sold at from 25 cents to $5 per acre. It is most valuable for grazing and timber, none of it coming under any of the government or Indian irrigation ditches. The land is the unallotted lands of the Indians.

Burned Engines Repaired.
Engineer Pete Thelen of the La Grande-Umatilla passenger division of the O. R. & N., passed down the line this morning to bring engine 106, which was damaged in the Umatilla roundhouse fire a month ago, to La Grande to be placed in the passenger service again.
All the engines which were burned at that time are now ready for service, including the following numbers: 190, 191, 44, 194, 197. Some slight repairs will yet be made to the 192, the last one to be taken to Alhina. Engines 190, 191 and 192 will be returned to the La Grande-Umatilla passenger runs.—East Oregonian.

Completing Signal System.
The block signal system between Huntington and Baker City on the O. R. & N. is now complete and in working order.
The gap between Baker City and La Grande, a distance of 52 miles, will now be closed with all possible speed when the entire system from Pendleton east to Huntington will be supplied with the signals.
A large crew of men is at work at Haines now, working westward on the system and it is hoped to finish the work between that place and La Grande within the next six weeks.—East Oregonian.

Fish Trap Destroyed.
John Atkinson, the local game and fish warden, destroyed the famous trap on the upper Deschutes river west of Round last week. Man, assisted by nature, had contrived a trap at the foot of a fall where annually a large number of fish were captured. Mr. Atkinson destroyed the elks at the top of the falls and enlarged it somewhat so that it carries a greater volume of water, which will furnish an easier ascent to the fish.—Bulletin.

Why Worry Apples.
Prof. Ball says that the cost of properly spraying and handling a tree eight or ten years old should not exceed 21 cents unless it be an old, long-neglected tree, when it may be as high as 33 cents. The cost need not be greater than 3 cents per bushel of apples, and the value of the crop may be increased from 25 cents to 2 per bushel. With the facts before us, why continue to grow worry apples? asks the Deseret Farmer.

Born.
To Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Martin, Thursday, August 9, a boy.

If your house office or furniture needs repair, call up Dodge Bros. & Reid, phone 651.

BURGLARY AT CRAM'S STORE

Monday night some one entered Cram's store and fitted himself out with new wearing apparel and silently departed, leaving but a solitary sock as an acknowledgment of his visit.
The burglar entered the building by prying of the iron fire door in the rear, smashing out a pane of glass in the inside door, and then reaching through and releasing the catch. He then mounted the basement stairs and broke through the door, which is fastened by a small catch. An investigation showed that a suit of clothes, two pairs of shoes, a hat, tie and socks were missing. His selection was one that would be made by a gentleman of taste. The goods in the store were not disarranged, and the robber appeared to know just where to look for the goods, and evidently did not take much time. He then departed the way he had come, and the theft was not discovered until the store was opened in the morning.

A sock that had been worn but a few days was found on the floor, and indicated that it had been exchanged for new ones, and then dropped in making the exit. The circumstances surrounding the affair indicate that it was not a common hobby the burglar did the job, but some one familiar with the premises, and not engaged in doing common labor.

Death of Oliver Cromwell Hartness.
"Uncle Oliver" Hartness was found dead in his bed by his son, S. E. Hartness, at the residence of the latter, Thursday evening, August 9, 1906. There was no one home at the time, all of the family except S. E. and his father being out at the ranch of Earl Hartness, in West Crapper. Father and son had been sleeping in the house, but took their meals out.

"Uncle Oliver" had his dinner as usual at eleven o'clock, when he found his father dead in bed. He immediately summoned a physician, who was of the opinion that life had been extinct for two or three hours. Old age and heart failure are given as the cause of death. He had been as well as usual, and there was no intimation of anything particularly the matter for some time past. The deceased was subject to dizzy spells occasionally, when over exerted, but they have not been of very recent occurrence.

Short services were held at the house Friday afternoon, Rev. Sprecher officiating, and the body was taken to Dayton, Ohio, that evening, for burial next day. The remains being accompanied by his son, S. E. Hartness.

Oliver Cromwell Hartness was born October 1, 1819, in Ohio, and was the son of Jacob and Sophia Hartness, both of Maryland. When a young boy he moved with his parents to Indiana, where he resided until the death of his wife 13 years ago, residing on a farm near Dayton for nearly 50 years. He was married to Miss Sarah Clark, January 8, 1844. Of this union there were six children, of whom three are living and three dead. The children who survive are Samuel E. Hartness, of Hood River, Dr. William Hartness, of Frankfort, Ind., and Mrs. Martha Strother, of Nowata, Ind. Ter. He was an earnest and faithful member of the United Brethren church, and among his greatest pleasures was to be doing something in the interest of the church. He was naturally of an active and industrious disposition, and to keep engaged at some kind of work, did considerable work around the church building, even to hard labor that he would not consider a hard task for a much younger man. He was fond of riding the bicycle, and often made quite long trips on the wheel.

Mr. Hartness was an enthusiastic worker in the cause of temperance, and considered it his duty to do nothing undone that would be for the good of the cause.
After the death of his wife 13 years ago, he came to Hood River to visit his son, and never returned until last week, when he made a trip back to the old home and spent several months with relatives and old friends.
"Uncle Oliver," as he was familiarly known here, was well known in Hood River, and held in high esteem. He was unusually active, both in mind and body, for one of his advanced years, and his sudden death was a great surprise and shock to the family as well as his friends. But his life was finished, and he has gone to his reward for a long, useful and well spent life.

Death of Little Frampton Brosius.
At five o'clock yesterday morning, Little Frampton, the three-year-old boy of Dr. and Mrs. F. C. Brosius, died of convulsions, caused by acute bowel trouble. He was taken ill last Friday night, so that the doctor delayed his trip to American Lake, but was so well improved that he thought it safe to leave, but was wired on Tuesday to return. He reached here yesterday forenoon. The funeral will be held either Saturday or Sunday, from the residence, after the arrival of relatives from the east. The family have the sympathy of the community in their bereavement.

One Fare For Irrigation Congress.
The O. R. & N. and Oregon Short Line will assist in arousing interest in the National Irrigation congress to be held in Boise September 3 to 8, by carrying a one fare round trip rate to delegates and visitors to the congress. A large number of interested irrigators, aside from the regular delegates, expect to attend the congress. All the leading public men of the western states will be present as well as irrigation experts, foreign irrigationists, government officials, reclamation officials, and many prominent men from all parts of the United States.

The program of five days promises to be highly entertaining. It will include an address by Vice President Fairbanks, Secretary Wilson of the agricultural department and several leading journalists of the west.
An extensive agricultural and horticultural display will be seen and the rivalry between Idaho, Colorado and Utah for the sugar beet and fruit sale cups will be sharp. Boise is preparing an entertainment for 2,000 visitors. The irrigation crops of Idaho will be seen in their highest period of fruitage.

Notice to Contractors.
For the construction of a bridge across the West Fork of Hood River near the Punch Bowl, the stringers and abutments to be constructed of the standing timber in the vicinity. Work must be commenced within ten days of date. Plans and specifications furnished and bids received by J. H. Shoemaker, Secretary of Hood River Irrigation District.

Work for Children.
"Not many towns of the same size as Hood River," said James J. Hogan, of Chicago, to a correspondent of the Milwaukee Sentinel. "I recently returned from my first visit to the city, and it was a revelation."
"The school children all wear green buttons, and after I had seen several hundred of these about the streets I asked a merchant what they signified. He said that the children had all been banded into a society to keep the city neat and clean. Each child who joins is given a button, and from then on it is his duty to keep the streets and yards cleared of the little bits of paper and other waste material which present such an unsightly appearance."
"The youngsters have entered thoroughly into the spirit of the thing. They have collected more than $100 by popular subscription, and with this money they are planning to purchase paper boxes to be put on the different street corners."

Fire at Cascade Locks.
People coming up from Cascade Locks tell of a fire there which destroyed the house of A. L. Mattoon. The campers there are particularly sorry for the Mattoon family, who have been working hard during the year to improve their place and were ready to have it painted. Now nothing remains but smouldering ruins. The fire caught from the stove pipe.—Chronicle.
