PREDICTS RECORD APPLE CROP

HOOD RIVER'S BEST IN THE WORLD

This Is the Opinion of George Rae, the New York Apple Expert.

George Rae, of Rae & Hatfield, the New York apple dealers, arrived in Portland last week, and came up to Hood River Monday to be present at the opening of the bids for the 1906 crop of Hood River apples, controlled by the Hood River Apple Growers' Union. In an interview in the Oregonian, Mr. Rae said:

The fruit crop of the United States of 1906 will probably be the largest in the history of the country. But in spite of the enormous output, there will be a market for the products and it is probable that good prices will prevail.

This is the opinion of George Rae, of New York, member of the firm of Rae & Hatfield, one of the largest commission houses in the country, who is a guest at the Hotel Portland.

Since February Mr. Rae has traveled more than 60,000 miles, abroad and in this country, especially for the purpose of studying fruit conditions.

Not only is the United States particularly prosperous with its fruit crop, but the whole of North America where fruit is raised is enjoying the same results. And according to Mr. Rae, Europe will have much larger fruit than ordinarily. But he does not believe this will affect the fruit market of this country in any way. Abroad they have not the cold storage facilities which are used here on a scale, and as a result the European fruits will have been harvested and consumed almost at the time our crop is at its best.

At the convention of the International Associational of Fruit Shippers, held several weeks ago at Niagara, reports from all over the United States were compared and it was estimated that there would be 72,000,000 barrels of apples put on the markets this fall. During the year 1886, the greatest fruit year in the history of the country, the apple crop amounted to 740,000,000 barrels.

The reports at the Niagara convention are conservative, and it is the general opinion of the fruitmen of this country that more fruit will be grown, picked, shipped and put on the market of the world and eaten than has ever before been known.

With the large fruit output every where there has been an increase in the demand which, it is figured, will keep up the price to such an extent that the growers, commission men and retail dealers will all profit accordingly. More fruit is being eaten in this country, as well as in the foreign countries, than ever before.

Germany will take much of the fruit from the United States this year, notwithstanding that last spring a law was passed putting a duty on all such products from this country. And the whole of Europe will import proportionately.

This increased demand for America's fruits abroad is largely due to the fact that the people, as in this country, have been flocking to the cities and are leaving the farms and the orchards neglected. Consequently, there has been a shortage of men to till the soil and attend the trees in the different European countries and a falling off of the fruit yields is the result.

The enormous fruit crop of the United States this year can best be estimated by taking the apple as an example. Last season the orchards of this country produced 20,000,000 barrels, while this season the products will be much more than doubled. All other fruits will bear proportionately. Last year the average price per barrel was $3.50, while this season her price will probably be about $1 less.

"Fruit-eating is no longer a luxury, as it was considered some years ago. It is now a necessity." Mr. Rae said last evening. "The great development of the industry, the scientific ways in which fruit is raised and the tremendous crops which are put on the market have all helped the people to realize and appreciate the benefits derived from eating fruit. It is not only a healthful food in every way, but is reasonable in price, easily obtainable and to be found on the markets of our cities at all seasons of the year.

"The fruit crops of the country this year are simply gigantic. I never saw anything like it. I have traveled from one end of the United States to the other, made two trips to the Pacific coast, visited the Hudson river country this summer, and am utterly astonished at the great possibilities of this year's harvest. And not alone is the fruit growth to be one of the largest seasons on record, but all other crops are equally large, especially cereals.

"Nature has been more than kind to the people this year. But with all this fruit we expect to find a market for every bit of it. That which will not be consumed at home will be shipped abroad. My firm will do one of the largest exporting businesses this year in its history. The country is prosperous in every way and altogether I am sure that this year will be one of the greatest in the fruit line ever experienced.

"The greatest fruit in this country more especially the apple, is grown west of the Mississippi. There is no question about this. I threw a bombshell into the convention at Niagara, made up largely of Eastern fruitgrowers, when in an address I told them that the apples raised east of the Mississippi valley were not fit to be put into boxes."

Mr. Rae was questioned as to what he thought of the fruit, particularly the apples, of this state.

"Oregon raises the greatest Newtons and Spitzenberg apples in the world," he said. "Washington raises these same products, but on an average they are not as good as those of Oregon. The Newtowns and the Spitzenbergs from Washington are, as a rule, larger than those from here, and consequently they will not keep as well. This is an important item in the fruit business.

Last season the firm of Rae & Hatfield handled the entire output of apples from the Hood River district controlled by the Apple Growers' Union. Mr. Rae is of the opinion that the fruit grown in the vicinity of Hood River is the greatest in the world. He has no hesitancy whatever in making this statement.

Mr. Rae's travels since February collecting data concerning the fruit industry amount to considerably more than if he had twice encircled the globe. He has been traveling almost continually, and in addition to the different countries of Europe which he visited has been in nearly every fruit-raising section of any consequence in the United States.

Mr. Rae claims the distinction of having been the first man to introduce the Western apple into the markets of the East. This was twenty years ago. At that time he was employed by Porter Bros., of Chicago.

Several years ago this firm failed and he was appointed receiver. Ultimately he organized the firm of Rae & Hatfield and took up the former company's business in New York.

Mr. Rae is one of the best informed men in the world on the question of fruit. He is a close observer, and the minutest details of fruit affairs are noted by him and assist materially in to making him the successful business man that he is today.

He will remain in Portland in Portland several days. From here he will return to New York, with the hope of being able to take a rest after completing one of the longest tours on record where a man has traveled exclusively for the purpose of studying fruit conditions.

Market Mosier Prune Crop.

Pete Henningsen was in Hood River Saturday for prune pickers and packers. He intends to manage the shipping of prunes for other parties at the Mosier drier this year, and needs about fifteen more hands. Help is scarcer than ever before this year, and he hopes to get some from Hood River.

"There will be about twelve cars of prunes from Mosier this year," said Mr. Henningsen, "and I have already contracted for seven cars. The crop is very good this year. We were not hurt much by the freeze, although I undestand the crop around The Dalles is badly injured. I intend to pack them in crates and ship green this year, and will probably not put any in the drier. There is more money shipping them out green, and besides the quailty is above the average. They are of large size and should sell readily on the eastern markets.

"I believe there is as much money to be made on prunes in Mosier as in apples, and for myself, prefer the prunes to the apples. They bear full every year, and require very little work. There is no spraying, pruning or thinning of the fruit. The only work required is cultivation of the orchard and picking the fruit. The crop can be turned into cash as soon as gathered, and that ends the matter until the next season.

"I estimate that the Mosier orchards will average ten tons of prunes to the acre, which will bring $20 a ton at the drier, or $17 on the trees. The bulk of this is profit to the grower. There were a few years when prunes were very low and growers were disspondent, but the average has been good, and I would prefer 40 acres of bearing prunes to 40 acres of apples."

Germany Wants Our Apples.

New York, August 22.—There has been considerable talk about high duty on American fruit going to Germany, and a misunderstanding of the situation seems to prevail in some quarters. The duty is not prohibitory. On the other hand Germany wants our fruit.

Speaking of the prospects for American apples in Germany this coming season, P. W. Duncan, apple exporter, and agent of Trimm & Gerstenkorn, of Hamburg, the largest fruit salesmen in Germany, says: "Notwithstanding the fact that Germany this season has a fair crop of fruit, there will be a large demand for American apples. During seven years, from 1896 to 1902-03, Hamburg took 492,591 barrels of American apples, while in three years, 1903-4 to 1905-6, Hamburg took 622,175 barels, when Germany in 1903-4, had one of the largest crops of apples ever grown. Hamburg will pay more for a first class barrel of apples than any other foreign market in the world, and this season we have just the quality of fruit the Germans want."

As to the duty of 50 cents per barrel, Mr. Duncan says he does not think this will affect the business in the least, as the duty of $1.65 on Canadian apples, shuts out a very large Canadian export to Germany, which, as a result, will make the demand for American apples all the greater.

Board of Equalization.

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Equalization of Wasco county, Oregon, will meet at the court house in Dalles City on the last Monday in August, 1906, and remain in session one week, for the purpose of examining and equalizing the assessment roll for the year 1906, as by law provided. All persons desiring to appear before said Board will please take notice.

Dated at Dalles City, Oregon, this 31st day of July, 1906.
A. G. STOCKSDILL, Assessor.

There is nothing so pleasant as that bright, cheerful, at-peace-with-the-world feeling when you sit down to your breakfast. There is nothing so conducive to good work and good results. The healthy man with a healthy mind and body is a better fellow, a better workman, a better citizen than the man or woman who is handicapped by some disability, however slight. A slight disorder of the stomach will derange your body, your thoughts and your disposition. Get away from the moribidness and the blues. Keep your stomach in tune and both your brain and body will respond. Little indiscretions of overeating can be easily corrected and you will be surprised to see how much better man you are. BIG PRICES FOR WINTER APPLES

GREAT CROP DOES NOT AFFECT US

Average Price This Year May Be Higher Than Last—Union's Sales Are Very Satisfactory.

The superiority of the Hood River apple over that of other fruit has been fully demonstrated by the sales of Hood River fruit which have taken place here in the last few days. While buyers who have been here to bid on Hood River fruit have bought fine quality Ben Davis apples in Missouri which they say can be delivered in Europe this year for $2 a barrel—a three bushel barrel at that—Hood River fruit has sold for more than that for box fruit containing one bushel. Buyers who have traveled the country over from coast to coast estimate the crop this year at 72,000,000 barrels as against 25,000,000 last year. Larger they say than the famous crop of 1886, which year previous to this one broke all records for apples. Still they have come west for apples and have paid for them prices that exceeded the expectations of the most sanguine.

While it cannot be learned exactly what was paid for the crop of apples disposed of by the Apple Growers' Union Monday, those in a position to know say that it will average higher than last year which was the highest known in the history of apple growing in Hood River. Purchases made by buyers independent of the union in the last few days brought the top notch price of $3 per box for Spitzenbergs and $2.25 for Newtowns and it is said that the union has received a higher price than this for these varieties of apples. The union's fruit was bought by the firm of E. P. Loomis & Co., who were the highest bidders, winning out over Rae & Hatfield, who last year handled the product of the union. The purchase of the Loomis company will include about 65 cars of 40,000 boxes and is the largest purchase of apples ever made by one firm at Hood River. This does not include the entire product of the Apple Growers' Union, but when it is known that the entire production of the valley last year was only 60,000 boxes, it will readily be seen how much more fruit will be shipped from Hood River this year than last and how much greater the returns will be to growers. In fact it is estimated at double or about 120,000 boxes for all varieties.

Without the increase in price which growers are said to have received this year, and taking the average price per box for lastyear's fruit the apple crop of Hood River should be worth $100,000 more than it was then.

Any increase added to this will make the figures run up very rapidly and show a marked increase in the valley's revenue.

While the officers of the union will not at present make any statement as to the exact prices received they say that the sale has been a most satisfactory one, but that for business reasons they do not care to announce them as yet, but will do so later.

The bidders will not make any statement in regard to their bids as some of the unsuccessful ones are still in the market for some of the Hood River fruit and naturally consider it bad business policy to make known the amount of their bids when they are still trying to purchase from independent growers. It can be stated however, on the authority of one of Hood River's most astute apple men that when the price is known it will be the most conclusive evidence of the superiority of Hood River apples that has ever been given and settles, he says, for all time the question as to the future of Hood River apples.

Eats Its Stepmother.

The ichneumon fly is very small, but is capable of compassing the destruction of many a caterpillar, though not one-thousandth part of the size of a single victim. This fly perches on the back of the grub, pierces its skin with a sharp hollow needle where with it is furnished, and the force of the stab projects an egg under the skin into the flesh.

As each wound is made the caterpillar shows a certain amount of uneasiness, but does not intermit its eating. The eggs of the ichneumon are speedily hatched within the body of the grub, and they devour the fatty portions of the caterpillar, shrewdly leaving the vital organs untouched. When the time arrives for the caterpillar to change into chrysalis the ichneumon grubs eat their way out of their foster mother and at once spin for themselves a number of yellow cocoons, among which the dying caterpillar is often hopelessly entanged and where it expires.

Because They Are the Best.

"Better Fruit" is an excellent publication by Mr. Shepard and Mr. Franz, at Hood River, and no doubt its readers will be pleased to learn from it how to grow better fruit. But what Mr. Shepard should tell them is how he makes the Hood River apples sell for 10 cents apiece in New York and for 15 cents in Europe, with mighty few for sale at any price near home. The Oregon orchardist knows how to grow and spray, but he's a weak brother at the commercial end.—Oregonian.
