Death of Mrs. Elvira A. Brock. V. C. Brock was called to Wasco Thursday on account of the sudden death of his mother, which occurred early Thursday morning. J. E. Nichols also accompanied Mr. Brock and took charge of the funeral arrangements. The funeral was held Saturday, all the children being present except two, who could not be reached on account of absence from home. Elvira A. Brock, daughter of Mani weather and Charrisa Brown, was born in Illinois, March 16, 1831, and crossed the plains to Oregon in 1852, settling with her father's family near Eugene in Lane county. She was married to Ruseel W. Brock in September of 1854 and removed to Linn county, where she lived for many years, afterwards removing to Corvallis. In 1881 she with her husband and family, moved to Wasco, in Sherman county where she died August 30, 1906, leaving five sons and one daughter, her husband having died May 30, 1901. The surviving children are: George A. Brock, Dallas, Ore.; J. L. Brock, Morea, Ore.; V. C. Brock, Hood River, Ore.; R. W. Brock, Tolo, Idaho; C. M. Brock, Colfax, Wash.; Mrs. Mary E. Hicks, Wasco, Ore.

GRAND DISPLAY OF AUTUMN FASHIONS THE NEW CREATIONS IN AUTUMN CLOTHING HATS, SHOES, ETC., FOR MEN

Japan Wins Another Victory. A lively scrap took place on the corner of Oak and First streets last Friday in which two natives of the Sunflower kingdom sustained the reputation of their country for pugnacity and staying qualities. In passing the Japs became involved in a war of words with two white brethren, words and fists were mixed up in a cloud of dust which, when it subsided, disclosed the fact that Japan had won another victory. The little brown men, as Kipling calls them, were about to follow up their triumph with further punishment but were prevented from doing so by bystanders who declared a treaty of peace.

Now ready for you to examine at your leisure VOGT BROS. LEADING CLOTHIERS

PROMINENT ENGINEER GOES INSANE HERE

W. H. Maxwell, a well-known engineer of Portland, who had been at the Mt. Hood hotel at Hood River for the past week, became suddenly insane Saturday night and it was found necessary to place him under restraint. Maxwell was formerly associated with Oskar Huber, who was director of the Lewis & Clark fall, under the firm name of Maxwell & Huber, and is a member of the Commercial and other clubs in Portland.

A Wise Cougar.

A cougar quite bold and grisely and old sat picking its teeth one day On the edge of a wood very near to Mt. Hood, While its cubs were indulging in play.

As an engineer civil, the cause of this drivel, Happened to come that way, And while looking around for a hill or a mound,

To set up his instrument on, Heard the whining and howling from the little cubs' jaws, And straightway developed a frown.

"Ha, ha, what is this?" the engineer rissed, As he tramped and pawed up the brush; When out on a bound, scarce touching the ground,

The cougar came on in a rush, He jumped on the engineer's back, Until passing quite near, with a huge lunge from fear,

He jumped on a backsettee, Upth's he went, both weary and bent, And managed to get on a limb, While below on the earth sat the cougar with mirth.

Most narrowly eying up him, Then out of the timber came Jim, Tom and Dick and Lincher,

To see of what their boss had become, One look suited all, for loudly they howled, "Let's r'n like a son of a gun."

So miles they r'au'ed, never stopping 'till dawn, And securing both guns and some help, They returned to the spot where the engineer sat,

Treed up by the merciless whelp, But hearing them near the animal leered, And taking one look at "His Nibs,"

Remarked with a sigh, while sayi' a good-bye, "I think he's most tough in the ribs."

This tale has a moral, both verbal and oral, And one which should make us all think, For to leisure or pleasure, or taking land measure,

We should always take care what we drink. Society Note.

The news that Buster Kay made his debut in society last week has caused, it is said, a most noticeable flutter in the ranks of the socially select.

As Buster has passed the age of frivolousness and in fact may be said to be in the evening of life his desire for things social is looked upon somewhat askance by his friends.

In the late years of his long life he has devoted much of his time to philosophy and to some extent to the study of the social career has caused much comment.

His entrance into the social realm has therefore, created quite a sensation not only on account of his conduct, but more especially because of his most pronounced fastidiousness, as he wore red pants, a yellow vest, black coat and had his usual appendage decorated with pink bows.

A LETTER I wish to say to all our old friends and customers who for so many years came to our shop for their meats, that it is useless for me to introduce Wood Bros., our successors, as their 18 years in the butcher business in Wasco county has made them so widely known that an introduction is unnecessary. Being honest, capable business men, they have the means and ability to run a business as it should be run, and in a way that will be a credit to our city. I expect to stay with the new firm for awhile, and will be glad to see you all at the old stand. I will guarantee that you will get just as much meat for your money, just as courteous treatment and just as prompt service as can be had in the city. We will have a full line of everything good to eat for the Spring trade. Respectfully yours, E. S. MAYES. Dealer in S. J. FRANK Harness & Saddles All Repairing Promptly Attended to HOOD RIVER OREGON

In these days of rush and hurry courtesy is often forgotten. In the mad pell mell rush of our life little things are done which offend that we rather they remained undone. A hastily eaten meal and its resultant headache may cause us social or financial loss. The wise man or woman is the one who recognizes little ills of this sort by a little dose of Kodol for Dyspepsia. It digests what you eat and puts your stomach back into shape. Sold by Williams Pharmacy.
