HAVE COMMENCED WORK FOR FAIR

MONEY IS SUBSCRIBED LIBERALLY

Streets Being Put In Shape and Committee Urges That Residents Help by Decorating Their Homes.

The work of getting things in condition for the fruit fair is steadily progressing and the committees appointed for the various purposes in connection with the exhibition are meeting with success. The committee appointed to solicit subscriptions to insure the expense of giving the fair are finding merchants and business men read, and willing to subscribe and a great deal of interest is being manifested everywhere in the city and valley in the coming exhibit.

Workmen have been engaged for the past few days in putting the streets in a better condition and in removing trees that were unsightly or an obstruction to traffic. The executive committee of the fair association is anxious that every effort be made to have the city put on a gala appearance during the days of the exhibition and suggest that houses be decorated with bunting and the streets lined with small fir trees. They would like to have every business place and house show some indication that the fair is being held at Hood River so that visitors here at that time will go away with a pleasant impression of the great interest taken here in the growing of fruit.

The exhibition building will be so much larger this year than ever before that it will allow of a display of 40 boxes of fruit and do away with most of the plate exhibits, which it has heretofore been necessary to make owing to lack of room.

This feature it is thought will make the fair far more attractive and better than it has ever been and give a far better idea of the fine quality and quantity of the fruit.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the fair association held Monday, $400 was alotted for necessary expenditures in connection with it as follows:

Committee on premiums—$100.
Decoration of buildings—$50.
Hood River band, day and evening for three days—$125.
Transportation—$50.
Employes and night watchman about building—$35.
Entertainment committee—$100.
Incidental expenses—$50.

Mr. Emery, of the Hood River Cider and Vinegar factory, has informed the committee that if the growers will furnish apples the cider company will provide cider for patrons of the fair, free of charge and they ask growers to see that the apples are forthcoming.

White Salmon and Mosier are preparing fine displays for the fair and the former will hold an exhibit of its products at that place October 6th, after which it will bring it to Hood River to be placed on exhibition.

The committee on transportation report that they have already received assurances from the O. R. & N. of a reduced fare from points along its line as far east as Pendleton and west to Portland. It has also signified its willingness to make a cheap rate in conjunction with the Southern Pacific from Willamette points as far away as Salem. The committee is now making an effort to have the railroad company sell tickets to passengers going through Hood River during the days of the fair on the local with the privilege of stopping over here until the departure of No. 2. This will give intending visitors about an hour in which to view the exhibit without placing them at any inconvenience. They can step off the train almost into the door of the fair building and stay until they hear the approach of the train. The railroad company is not ready just at present to announce the rate for the fair, but it is expected that it will do so in a few days. It is hoped that it will also be possible to secure a special rate from Portland and return for one day that will be so reasonable as to attract many who would not otherwise come and that railroad company will make it an excursion affair.

The call for the meeting of the State Irrigation association which takes place on the first two days of the fair has been issued and a programme provided for the occasion. The meeting will be held at the Opera House October 11th and 12th and is expected to be well attended. The building will be decorated and put in shape for the irrigationists and they will be entertained at the hotels and homes of residents who are in a position to have guests.

New Method of Packing Apples.

Manager Shepard has issued instructions to apple growers and packers this week in which he explains a new method that is being put in operation which he thinks will prove the best that has yet been devised. The instructions are as follows:

All apples will be wrapped this year, boxes lined, layer paper between layers and on top and bottom. Printed wrappers will be used on top and bottom layers, plain paper for the middle layers; therefore, order half printed wrappers and half plain wrappers. Using printed wrappers this year will only add three-fourths of a cent per box.

The crop packs out in general one-half in Oregon boxes and one-half in California boxes. We would suggest in a general way ordering half of each size, and paper the same way.

Mr. George I. Sargent, late from California, who has charge of a four hundred acre orchard there, I using the system of sorting apples adopted in California canneries. Briefly, he cuts three circular holes in a board, 2¾ inches, 3 inches, and 3¼ inches in diameter, which he hangs up in front of the sorter. This being just in front of the eye and within reach of hand, enables the wiper, when wiping and sorting, to quickly see or determine the size of the apple, and it is accordingly placed in a 3, 3½, 4 or 4½ tier box. It is just as quick to place each apple in the proper box as it is to put them all in one box. All apples less than 2 inch hole go in 4½ and 5 tier boxes:

The great advantage of this system is that your packers can pack directly from the box, or if placed on packing table you avoid having all sizes on at once, which means, as you know, a whole lot of pawing over and bruising more or less, which must necessarily affect the value of apples in the market. The less bruising we have the more out apples will bring, consequently the more buyers will be willing to pay us in future.

Mr. Sargent says it costs no more to sort in this way than when putting all sizes in one box.

The crew of four now packing say it is the slickest and best system they ever saw. They packed out two hundred and eighty boxes the first day.

We would like to see the growers try this, because we believe it will enablee us to pack the crop a great deal easier and quicker. And we believe this system will eliminate so much unnecessary bruising caused by pawing over a lot of different sized apples that our crop handled by this system will bring us more money.

If you do not thoroughly understand it, call at the office for explanation.

Growers are requested to wipe their apples and put nothing on the packing table but what is absolutely A-1 stock. Above all things, be sure and cull out all apples showing scale or fungus, for the reason that either one of these diseases would cause a car to be rejected or turned down by an inspector quicker than anything else.

Fancy prices have been realized this year and we must "make good" by putting up fancy apples. This will insure us fancy prices next year. We must maintain our reputation. If we do not we can not expect high prices.

Fortunes In Dairying.

That the cow is the best of moneymakers for the farmer is the assertion of R. C. Eldridge, of Independence, owner of creameries at Independence, Dayton, Jefferson, Eugene and Junction City, and one of the largest buyers of cream in the Willamette valley.

"A large part of the prosperity of the Willamette valley has come from milch cows. Dairying beats wheat raising out of sight. And three or four years of dairying on wheat land will double the wheat growing capacities of the soil. A number of farmers in Polk are raising more than 30 bushels of wheat to an acre on such land, which never 4 years ago would not produce more than 12 or 15 bushels.

"A farmer with, say 50 cows, although that's a pretty large herd, and with hogs and chickens as accessories, can make money more than do many of the country banks—that is, if he uses brains as well as hands. It's a bonanza for him, sure enough. Farmers are fast coming into realization of this; in fact, many of them realize it already. Dairy products can always find a market without bunting for it, at high prices. But dairying requires constant and close attention every day in the year, and for this reason some farmers are unwilling to take up with it.

"Dairying has enabled many a farmer to clear himself of debt and store up a bank account. One man of my acquaintance, who, six years ago, owned 30 acres of land and was in debt, by going into the dairying business paid his debt, bought 70 acres more for $3,850, and has paid $2,500 of this price already. The other day he sold 14 6-months-old hogs for $217. Another farmer, with 14 acres, last January sold $133 worth of eggs and $57 worth of butter fat. He has 600 chickens and half a dozen cows. Another, who, four years ago, had to borrow money to buy a cow, now has money to lend, and I know of his having loaned $500.—Telergram.

Indian Baby Born In Hop Yard.

Conrad Krebs advertises marriages, dances, wrestling matches, boxing contests, etc., as attractions for his hop yard, but George Rose is the only one that can pull off Indian births. The first birth for the season occurred at just 4 o'clock yesterday morning. It was baby boy, born to the wife of Tom Jackson. Tom Jackson is the cuss Indian at the Rose yard and is extremely proud of his new boy. He is undecided whether to name the young pride of the hop yard in honor of George Rose or Frank Flukes, Mr. Rose's manager. As the youngster is considered the Rose and Sunflower of the yard, it is will likely have the namesake.—West Side Enterprise.

Will Meet at The Dalles.

The Oregon Wool Growers' association, which held its annual meeting this year at Condon, decided upon The Dalles as the place for its next annual meeting, which will be held on the second Tuesday of November 1907.

The Wool Growers' association met at The Dalles eight years ago and conducted one of the most successful meetings it has ever known.

Starving to Death

Because her stomach was so weakened by useless dragging that she could not eat, Mrs. Mary H. Walters, of St. Clair street, Columbus, Ohio, was literally starving to death. She writes: My stomach was so weak from useless drugs that I could not eat, and my nerves so weakened that I could not sleep; and not before I was given up to die was I induced to try Electric Bitters with the wonderful result that improvement began at once, and a complete cure followed." Best health tonic on earth. 50c. Guaranteed by Chas. N. Clarke, druggist.

A bath cleanses the skin and rids the pores of refuse. A bath makes for better fellowship and citizenship. Not only should the outside of the body be cleansed, but occasional use of a laxative or cathartic opens the bowels and clears the system of effete matter. Best for this are DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Pleasant little pills that do not gripe or sicken. Sold by Williams Pharmacy.

GOOD TIDINGS TRAVELED FAR

LOOMIS' MESSAGE FROM NEW YORK

Tells About His Trip to Hood River and of Fine Apples and Scientific Methods of Growing Them.

R. P. Loomis, who returned to New York recently, after having been at Hood River and other places where apples are grown, in the interest of the firm of E. P. Loomis & Co., with whom he is connected in an interview in the Fruit Trade Journal and Produce Record, says some very nice things about Hood River and its apples. The interview is as follows:

The crop of fancy Spitzenbergs and Newtowns generally through Washington and Oregon, will be not larger than it was last year. There is a considerable crop of Ben Davis the bulk of which will be sold on western markets, and some contracts have already been made for shipments to go to China and Japan. They will probably be bought around 40 cents a box.

There are certian sections in both Oregon and Washington where the heat has been very intense, all the way from 105 to 108 degrees Fahr. In these sections also there has been shortge of water. These conditions will make the stock from those sections of very short keeping quality, and if anything, undersized. There are occasionlly in Oregon and Washington some particulary favored valleys, watered by mountain streams, where the fruit has developed wonderfully and the pack out of such valleys will be more fancy than ever. Of these most favored localities, the Hood River valley has enjoyed the most favorable conditions. Situated on the slopes of Mount Hood, and watered by the constant streams that flow from that perpetually snow covered mountain, the orchards of the Hood River valley have all the water they need and also enjoy the care and cultivation of the most expert apple growers it has ever been my pleasure to meet.

There you have 150 to 200 growers who are among the most intelligent, well posted, hardest working growers of apples in this country today. They have made a study of the culture of apples for the last fifteen to twenty years, and the little valley of Hood River today, without doubt, grows the fanciest apples that are grown in the world. The life of their apples, on account of the fine climate, perfect cultivation, thinning, spraying and pruning, is longer than the same varieties from any other sections by three to four months, and on account of their perfect quality, large size and color, the Hood River apples will always stand on their own merits and be bought at prices dependent on the quantity and quality of their crop and other similar crops in Oregon and Washington, rather than on the size of the apple crop generally through the United States.

The Hood River Apple Growers' union, which today controls 90 per cent of the entire output of the valley, is one of the strongest and ablest bodies of men that we have ever done business with. Their board of directors are authorities on the growing, packing and shipping of fruit, and are as fair minded, straight business man as one would ever wish to meet. They realize that the reputation they enjoy all over this country and also England for the highest quality of Spitzenbergs and Newtowns has been obtained, first, by the care and energy on the part of their members in the cultivation of their orchrds and in the growing of perfect fruit; and, second,—and what is just as important—by the perfect grading and packing of their fruit. They have done away with packing by the individual growers, and all apples marketed by the union must be packed by the union's packers according to rigid rules, the grading being made as to size and color and freedom from worms and other blemishes. They have such a complete system of picking, packing, grading and shipping that a box of their fruit, on which is their label and the contents of which is wrapped in their printed wrappers, is a practicall guaranty to contain perfect fruit from top to bottom of the box.

The value of the union to the growers of Hood River cannot be exaggerated. Without the union the packing of each different orchard would differ as their owners differ. Competition between them would set in, and as no grower likes to sell his fruit for less than his neighbor gets, a buyer would have to have the price of the whole governed by the value of the poorest orchard and grade and pack From my own stand point as a buyer, I believe that I could buy cheaper if each individual grower had the selling of his own crop. When, however, I appreciate the value of having one perfect pack, such as only a union managed properly could put out, I believe that the higher price which the union is able to get by their combination, is more than offset by the extra quality. Cestrinly too much credit cannot be given to the union for their influence in encouraging the perfect growing Spitzenbergs and Newtowns. The indirect influence of the union's work is seen in the very high prices of real estate and orchard land throughout the Hood River valley, many orchards being worth today from $1,000 to $1,500 an acre.

Both the board of directors of the Hood River Apple Growers' union and the members appreciate thoroughly that they must maintain the high standard of packing: that their boxes must be true to count and be tight packed, and that the color and quality generally must be superior to any other apple section in order to maintain the high prices which they are enjoying.

On account of the high reputation of the quality of the apples shipped by the Hood River Apple Growers' union, there has been some attempt in the past to put on boxes of apples grown in other sections of Oregon a label which is intended to suggest that the apples were grown in the Hood River valley.

The varieties grown by the union are Spitzenbergs, Arkansas Blacks, Newtowns, Red Cheeks and Ortleys.
