

ROYAL Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Healthful cream of tartar, derived solely from grapes, refined to absolute purity, is the active principle of every pound of Royal Baking Powder.

Hence it is that Royal Baking Powder renders the food remarkable both for its fine flavor and healthfulness.

No alum, no phosphate—which are the principal elements of the so-called cheap baking powders—and which are derived from bones, rock and sulphuric acid.

PERMANENT EXHIBIT AT THE DALLES

The Business Men's association of The Dalles unhesitatingly made a move in the right direction when they established a permanent exhibit of Wasco county products in their rooms in the Vogt block. A few days ago Mr. James de Conlay, Jr., an Australian press correspondent, stopped over in The Dalles on a trip around the world, and being shown the exhibits, expressed the greatest surprise that we had fruit, melons, vegetables, etc., in exhibit, raised in and around The Dalles, which he said were as fine specimens as he had ever seen.

A few days ago C. L. Schmidt, secretary of the association, made it known through the Chronicle that he was ready to receive fruit, vegetables, grain, etc., for the exhibit, to which our friends and neighbors nobly responded. Among the products received and on exhibition are:

Stalks of corn, 22 feet high, ears 12 inches long, 10 inches in circumference, by B. L. Collins; potatoes, wax beans and different species of grasses, D. P. Kelchom & Son; water melon and cassaba, A. Seehler; wheat, oats and grasses, J. L. Kelley; fine specimen of planned yellow pine lumber, Hansen & Thomsen; white and yellow corn in stalks, Mr. Roberts; wheat, oats, barley, corn, Paul Limroth; sample block of hops, Houser & Mertz; Tygh walrus, grapes, Mr. Parpin; six varieties of apples, Mrs. L. F. Sandoz; Mill Creek; eight varieties of apples, squashes, quinces, onions, peaches, Alfonso Sandoz; five plates Salway peaches, J. P. Thomsen; peaches, pears and prunes, John Parkin; pound pears, C. Moll; cherries, three different varieties, George Cooper; Crawford peaches, Mrs. Ida Ward; grapes, three varieties, A. Plank; water melon, Roy Cooper; burnt clay and mineral exhibit, F. C. Kitchley; peaches, three varieties, and grapes, George Bunn; telephone pears, A. V. Marsh; apricots, and Early Crawford peaches, R. P. Keys; green Glage L. Hoerling; Plums, Green All of which shows that the people of The Dalles and surrounding country are taking an interest in this undertaking.—Chronicle.

Fine Fruit to be Sold at Auction.

Sgobel & Day announce that on Tuesday next they will auction on the Erie pier a car of Conice pears in half boxes, packed by J. W. Parkin; Madras Oranges, same being duplicate of the car of this brand which they sold last year, and which made higher prices than any car of pears ever sold in the United States, leaving grossed $8,425. Mr. Parkin writes that this fruit is finer than it was a year ago. At the same time they will offer one car half boxes Winter Nellis, A. Black Fruit Co. brand, and one car Bourie D'Anjou pears from Mendocino, of the E. J. DeHart brand, said to be very handsome, and finer than a car of this same fruit which last season brought up to $5.37 1/2.—Fruit Trade Journal.

An Unusual Apple Situation.

The apple situation for the past two weeks has been unusual and anomalous. New York and other eastern markets showing an increase and unexpected strength, while Chicago and other western markets were weak almost to demoralization. This marked difference may continue a little while longer, as the east shows increasing firmness, especially for fancy table varieties. There is also an export demand for certain kinds of red fruit which are in limited supply this early in the season.

Present conditions, however, must not be taken as an indication of the situation which apple dealers will have to meet later in the season, for the reason that the sources of the present supply for the east afford about the usual quantity of fruit shipped at this season. The middle west, in which the large increase in production is to be found, does not produce early kinds, except Jonathans, only a limited quantity of which has reached eastern markets, and some of these have arrived weary and generally below expected condition, and it was found the fruit would not carry, and that much of it requires refrigeration. This could not be had at all times because of scarcity of ice. This check on shipments from the west coupled with the partial failure of the Hudson River crop which usually supplies the New York market at this time has kept the market here strong for a longer period than the shrewdest operators had expected. If we had received what ordinarily would have come to us from the west, New York would have had no such market. The effect of the enormous increase in the apple crop through out the country will not be felt in the east until the general movement of New Davis and other red varieties begins. These kinds will come in strong competition with the red varieties grown in the east, and the western stock ing of superlative quality this year, will have preference for export in the southern shipping trade. It is not likely that the great difference between the Chicago and New York markets will continue after next week. Prices here will probably grow gradually higher until something like a parity has been reached. Dealers here must not look for a long continuance of the present strong market.—Fruit Trade Journal.

Making Cider on the Farm.

It is essential in the making of good cider and cider vinegar that clean sound apples be used; rotten dirty apples, leaves, trash and grass will affect the flavor and quality unfavorably. Small apples are all right if matured, and the dropped ones can be utilized, but care should be taken in sorting them. The juice of early apples is deficient in saccharine matter, and will not make cider that will keep, or vinegar of the necessary strength. But it can be mixed with that from late apples for vinegar.

Cleanliness is an important feature in all processes of cider and vinegar making, and care should be taken to keep all utensils clean and in good condition. Cider and vinegar should not be allowed to stand in metal vessels. All barrels and kegs should be thoroughly cleaned as soon as emptied. A small chain is very convenient for this purpose, putting it in the barrel with a pail or two of water and shaking thoroughly so as to reach all parts.

If barrels are to be used immediately they should be placed with the bung holes down, so that they may drain out thoroughly dry, or they may become musty, and a musty barrel will soon spoil its contents.—Apple Specialist.

An Awful Cough Cured.

"Two years ago our little girl had a touch of pneumonia, which left her with an awful cough. She had spells of coughing, just like one with the whooping cough and some thought she would not get well at all. We got a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy which, acted like a charm. She stopped coughing and got stout and fat," writes Mrs. Ora Bussard, Brubaker, Ill. This remedy for sale by Kier & Cass.

Your Health

Is your best asset. Proper health is most essential to your happiness and welfare.

Pure air is an absolute necessity, and no effort should be spared to keep it so in every house.

When open-flame illuminants rob the air of oxygen and turn it into carbonic acid gas, pure air is an impossibility.

Air poisoned by the flame of a gas jet, or that of an oil lamp is unfit for breathing purposes and exercises a decidedly injurious effect upon the occupant of the room.

Electric Light burning in an air-tight bulb leaves the air of the room pure and fresh, and furnishes a better, brighter and safer light than any other medium.

We furnish the current and a phone message or postal from you will bring our representative.
