10 A. Kruse.

A recitation "After Death" was rendered by Mrs. Whitby, which was followed with a selection by the band. Miss Joy Mason delivered a beautiful recitation entitled "Old Glory."

The G. A. R. was represented by the Rev. C. H. McKee, pastor of the Baptist church, who delivered the following splendid address:

Worthy lecturer, comrades, ladies and gentlemen:—I deem myself greatily honored in being asked to address this united body of state grangers, members of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. In the few minutes alloted me I will attempt to present one thought to you. When the first gun was fired on Ft. Sumpter in 1861 I was a child six years of age. I well remember the sentiment of the northern states.

They rose up as one man and said:
"The union must not be severed. Union inseperable now and forever." All were ready to march to the scene of war. Husbands left their wives; lovers left sweethearts; mothers gave up their sons. Nothing was too good to sacrifice for our country.

My earliest remembrances of my STRAWRERDY RANGUET A FEAT

My earliest remembrances of my mother was her work in the soldiers' relief circle. My earliest remembrance of my father was his hiring of a sub-stitute for the war. He was examined by the army surgeon, but was not accepted because of some physical disability.

was obeyed. The great engines rocked the boat too and fro as though he was a living creature, making her final struggle for the maintainance of life. Volumes of fire and smoke belched from her trembling stack. By and by the passengers saw, from the trees on the shore, that the boat stood still. Then inch by inch she moved against Then inch by inch she moved against the current. The inches grew into feet, feet into yards and yards into rods and at last the great boat moved majestically up the stream, and the nultitude of eager men and women were saved. Victory! Saved by sac rifice of the furniture; saved because she was manned by a heroic crew.

Sentiment saved our country. You marched to the front a hundred thous and strong, determined to save our country at any cost. This was the sentiment of the country.

You drew your sword and shoulder-ed your musket. What did you mean?

You meant peace at any cost. Nothing was too good to sacrifice for your country's peace and welfare. Without this union we never could have been Americanism.

The picture rises before me and I see our country, the greatest in the history of nations, a blessing to the whole wide earth and the friend and defender of liberty.

When the war was over you seperated, some to the north, east, south and west. And by your heroic efforts you have made our country what it is you have made our country what it is today. You have filled all the official stations in the land from the hum-blisst station of trust to the presiden-cy of our land, and you have filled them with credit and honor. Out of all of our heroic achievements I am persuaded that you bring your greatest blessing to our nation in the establishment of a permanent national memorial day.

This manning I see angels locking national memorial day.

This morning I see angels looking over the battlements of Heaven. They looked down upon our eastern coast. They looked down upon our eastern tates, and saw the men, women and children rushing everywhere. They were laden with flowers. These angels called to the heavenly has tand raid, "Come and see, this is decoration day in the land of free America. Today is the day when the grandest nation in the universe—for this nation is a Christian nation because founded on Chrstian institutions—for today the whole nation draws near to God. All day this beauty of sentiment and de-day this beauty of sentiment and de-votion has been spreading north, south and westward over our fair land and now it has reached the coast.

Could anything be more beautiful?
The sentiment of love and loyalty for our country fills the land today.
Is not this the greatest blessing that you have given us? When you have commemorated your last memorial service, when the last veleran of the service, when the last veleran of the civil war has gone to his reward, the next memorial day the nation will assemble and say, "We will perpetuate memorial day forever." This will be the nation of a great and free people that will pay tribute to your memory as long as the ages roll. Our watch cry will be "our country, our flag, and our God."

Let me take time to give you the prophesy written in our grand old flag. The white denotes purity, the red denotes the price that we paid for liberty and the blue denotes the universality of peace. As a whole it is the insigna of God to declare to the nations of the earth that America was the founder of liberty, an I that she shall be the defender and protectorate of human rights and righteousness for his glory and his salvation, to all people. nations, kindred and tongues, and ultimately righteousness shall fill the hearts of men as the waters fill the deep. In and through Christ we shall conquer and for his name's sake we will persevere—Amen.

Following the address Comrade Eaton, who enlisted for the war at 42 years of age, and who is now 87, recited the following poem which is incribed in each of the 83 national cemeteries of the United States:
