BUSINESS MEN ENTERTAIN—FIRST BANQUET OF ASSOCIATION. Odd Fellows Hall Saturday Evening. Scene of Banquet and Good Speaking.

The Business Men's Association gave their first annual banquet at the Odd Fellows Hall Saturday evening and invited guests to the number of 100, but owing to inability to attend only about 75 were in attendance.

The spread was prepared by the ladies of the Christian church and two long tables in the commodious hall were filled with good things to eat and nicely decorated, as was the hall itself. Music was furnished by Beatty's orchestra.

H. C. Smith, president of the association, acted as toastmaster and although it was his first experience in that capacity he did the honors in a way to reflect credit upon himself and the association. He said in part: "The Portland Grocers Association was organized about a year ago and the Hood River Association was organized soon after. The benefits are derived in many ways. We find we can do business in harmony and we find it a great deal to handle our credit business and save a large percentage of loss. The merchants of the state are forming these associations and coming into the state organization. Many think the work of the association covers only the retail grocers, but many lines of business are represented and any man doing a credit business can get benefits from the association."

E. L. Smith responded to the toast, "Hood River, Past and Present." Mr. Smith said: "It is thirty-two years tomorrow since I landed here with my traps on the sand bar on the banks of the Columbia. I was met with teams by the two or three pioneers who had preceded me to the valley. Peter Hinrichs and M. Peeler had wagons. Spring flowers were in bloom and the children were delighted with them and the country. I bought three-quarters of a section on the first morning, where we made our home, and afterwards donated a piece of land for the Franklin school house. There was a large orchard in place, the trees planted twenty feet apart. There was a nursery near by and I contracted trees of the proprietor to set out more ground and also to fill in vacant spaces. In order to find places to set all the trees I had bought he put them in between the old trees, until the orchard resembled a nursery row. I soon made up my mind that this was to be a valley of almost limitless wealth and predicted that the land would be divided into small tracts, which has come to pass. The present townsite was then a cow pasture, dotted with fine oak trees. Dr. Robinson said on a visit to Hood River that while Virginia was the pioneer in the fruit business in the United States she must now learn from Oregon how to grow fruit. Our apple orchards have taken the highest position where fruit is bought or sold. As we are first in fruit we are first in other things. We are first in school work. Old man Coe's dream was to have a magnificent school placed on the point overlooking the city. A prominent attorney has said that Hood River was the ideal place for highest education. Parents would send their children to school here. We must also have good roads. No country can succeed without good roads. It is estimated that this year's apple crop will make 14,000 wagon loads, which will have to be hauled to town over our roads. It would take 100 teams four months to bring them in. We need a trolley road to help move our crops."

Truman Butler was the next speaker and called upon the assembly in good humor by telling a story of a boy and the torn pants. Mr. Butler said that the association was doing good work and there was much yet to be done. He thought they should get together often. The Portland association gets together once a month. The banquets are a good thing, but they should be charged for and not have the expense borne by the association.

Hon. A. A. Jayne was called and said that it was fortunate that the gathering for the reason that he could neither drink coffee nor smoke. "I was impressed with the remarks of the toastmaster," said Mr. Jayne. "The objects of the association are good, the chief end being to keep out bad debtors. I think that depends much upon the point of view. Now we all realize we are down in the big book and some of us would open that book with a good deal of trepidation. I think that another factor should be added to the work of this association. Business men should take more interest in politics. Now is a good time. This is the budding time of year when men's minds turn to thoughts of office. It would not be out of the way to talk politics. The politician in the past had a genius for intrigue. He had peculiar qualities for knowing about his neighbors. He had nothing else to do. It is the tendency among business men to turn politics over to the professional politicians and give them the management of the campaign. Just now there is a wave of reform sweeping over the country—a moral reform; a political reform. It is the duty of the business men to pay some attention to politics. We are all interested in good men in office, good policies. Think of these things and devote some time to politics. The grange and the church are into politics and why not?"

E. Brayford, the Rockford merchant, spoke on the text, "Pull Together." He pointed out the advantages of pulling together and acting as a unit in good business methods, working for the best interests of the community. "Let us pull together and cut the wires, and we will accomplish the object we have in view. Most of you know what I mean when I say cut the wires. Let us pull together."

H. E. Davidson said he was used to attending farmers' banquets, but a business men's banquet was a new thing in Hood River. He thought the idea of limiting credit was a good thing, although it might be the means of driving lawyers into politics. He thought the merchants could do much good to themselves and the public when they consider their own good. The banquet deserved a high compliment and it ought to be continued. Much good would come of getting together.

F. A. Cram was introduced by the toastmaster as one who was progressive, optimistic and always up to date. Mr. Cram said that it was remarkable that we find here a representative of every business in the community. We are young and optimistic. We have people here who are unusual as customers. They are more patriotic than the people in other cities and towns of the country. We have many assurances of this fact. The younger element in business here should join in making Hood River a central business point. Let us take the city business and have a large, outlying district, from Stevenson to The Dalles and extending south to Mt. Hood and north to Mt. Adams. All this is tributary to Hood River. Every man in business can draw and maintain business to their advantage. Hood goods can be sold to honest men at low prices. Let us get in close touch with ourselves and each other."

Mr. Cram then read an agreement signed by practically every business man in the city to discontinue the "Payable States" phone March 1. "I think is a proposition we should get together on and stick together on. What we want is the best. The new system is so far superior to the other that it is unworthy to be mentioned in the same breath. Let us build up the Home phone. We are all interested. It is of great benefit to the new company to have all the assistance possible."

E. H. Hartwig said that the toastmaster in introducing Mr. Jayne said that he represented the element to oil the wheels of business. "The proposition is to be congratulated if that and is attained. There is another phase. The object of the association is to reduce losses, to stop leaks. The question is how much we can save. If you sell goods on credit and do not collect, those who pay must suffer. It is a good thing to establish a limited credit and do a cash business as much as possible. The wage earner should get in the habit of saving a part of his wages. I recall the advice given to young men by an eminent man, who said, 'get your name on the tax roll. If you cannot do that, get insurance; get a wife.' The demand for credit is growing less. We have passed through the hard times. People should get out of the habit of living beyond their means. Before making sale houses will give you credit they will investigate your resources and your ability to pay. The merchant has the right to know the ability of his customer to pay when he makes for credit. Honest men can get credit. If we can not make money we will be satisfied to furnish oil to make the wheels go smooth."

Dr. W. S. Nichols said that he appreciated what it is to be in business and the people were one accord. One who does a strict business can sell goods. There is no need to cut prices.

The excellent banquet was prepared and served by the ladies of the Christian church, who led the grand march as the guests entered the hall. Each of the ladies who waited on the table had a large letter fastened to her waist and after the guests were seated they marched to the head of the tables and they spelled "Hood River Business Men." Then they marched to the foot of the tables and the letters spelled "February 29, 1908." It was a very pretty maneuver and was greeted with enthusiasm by the guests.

Woman's Club Reception.—Every woman of Hood River and Hood River Valley is cordially invited to be present at a public reception given by the Woman's Club of Hood River, Thursday, March 5, at 2:30 to 5:30 p. m., at the Odd Fellows hall.

Mrs. Sarah A. Evans, president of Oregon Federation of Woman's Clubs, Mrs. Frederic Eggert, president of Woman's Club of Portland, Mrs. Grace Watt Rose, Mrs. Robert Lutke and several other women of Portland, who are prominent in club work in the state will be in attendance and present the value of club organization to each individual, her home, town and valley. Light refreshments will be served.

Irrigation vs. Frost.—The discussion of the efficacy of tarps in the orchards during the month following the development of fruit buds and during which time frost may yet come to nip the fruit, has elicited a statement from a lady orchardist in the vicinity of this city concerning her experiment with water and its results two years ago, when a good many fruit buds suffered from the late frosts; so she turned the water into the irrigating ditches coursing through her tract, except a few in one corner of the tract, which could not be conveniently reached at that time. She kept the ditches well filled at night.

The result was that in that portion of the orchard which she could not irrigate the frost killed the buds, the trees bearing no fruit last year. That portion of the orchard in which the water flowed at night was wholly unharmed by the frost. This convinced her that to irrigate the orchard during the period of danger from frost will prevent damage from that cause. It is a cheaper and simpler method than the tarps or any other system so far published. A trial will cost little, if anything, and will do no harm.

Recovered from Smallpox.—Miss Bessie Mulholland, little daughter of Mrs. F. S. Schmidt, has recovered from an attack of smallpox and the quarantine, which has kept Bessie and her mother in close quarters since the arrival from Hood River, was raised Tuesday.—Haines Record.

Best Healer in the World.—Rev. F. Starbird, of East Raymond, Maine, says: "I have used Bucklen's Arnica Salve for several years on my old army wound, and other obstinate sores, and find it the best healer in the world. I use it too with great success in my veterinary business." Price 25c at Clark's N. Clarke's Drug Store.

MEETING OF COMMON COUNCIL—TO GRADE WEST STATE STREET.

Proposition of Putting in Fire Hydrants Discussed and Finally Rejected.

After the reading of the minutes C. H. Vaughan was given permission to make repairs to this house in accordance with the fire ordinance.

A communication was received from the Commercial Club stating that if the city would install an apparatus connecting the exchange with the fire bell, they would ring it upon any call from a phone in the city. They also said they would turn a switch to light a red light to call the night watchman, upon request, if same were installed by the city. The Electric Light Co. will furnish free power, it is said, for this purpose, and the same was referred to the committee of fire and water.

A petition was received from the Electric Light and Water Co., proposing to install hydrants in accordance with the recommendations of the Board of Fire Underwriters, at $3 per month per hydrant, provided a contract was made for not less than five years.

The communication from the Board of Fire Underwriters, in effect that the present reservoir be augmented by another with a capacity of not less than 200,000 gallons, connected with the present one by a six inch main; an eight inch main be run from the present reservoir entering the city system on Park, near State or Oak streets; that the eight inch main now on Oak be replaced by a ten inch main; that all laterals be at least six inch, and four if circulating. About 25 hydrants are required. The fire department equipment must consist of three hose carts, carrying 750 feet of hose each, with 350 feet of hose in reserve, making 2600 feet in all; one chemical engine; hook and ladder truck and volunteer fire department consisting of three companies of fifteen men each. If these things were complied with the board would recommend a reduction of 10 per cent on property covered by this protection.

The matter received considerable discussion. All the members of the council were of the opinion that it was worthy of considerable thought. Objection had been made to tax the entire city for fire protection for a limited district, but it was not clear that arrangements could be made to tax only the district protected to pay for the improvement. It was shown that the reduction would pay the cost of the improvements, but it would fall largely on the business section. A vote was taken on the proposition it was rejected.

G. J. Gessling petitioned the council for lights to be placed on every corner of Pine street and the matter was referred to the health committee.

Ordinance No. 148, giving the Farmers' Irrigating Co. permission to lay water pipes on the hill, passed its second reading.

Ordinance No. 149, ordering the grading of State street west of Ninth, passed its first reading and was referred to the street committee.

The salary of the night watchman was raised to $60 a month.

A communication was received from the attorneys of Mr. Smith in regard to what action was being taken by the council in regard to settling the dispute as to his property line and the recorder was instructed to write them to the effect that the city preferred to have the matter settled definitely in the court, but would be favorable to a friendly suit.

The sewer committee was authorized to employ help in making the assessment for sewer district number nine.

The recorder was instructed to advertise for bids for grading Pine street, as soon as the specifications were prepared by the city engineer.

The following bills were allowed and ordered paid: Ramona Hotel, boarding prisoners, $1.75.

W. G. Aldred, team work, $23. News-Letter, publishing, $10. Glacier, publishing and printing charter and ordinances, $187.50. O. R. & N. Co., for sewer crossing right of way for 1908, $1.20. Fred Howe, team work, $2. P. M. Hall-Lewis, surveying, $12. Electric Light Co., lights for February, $50.75.

Transat Co., team work, $68.50. A. J. Derby, balance for revising ordinances, $15. T. W. Delaney, meals for prisoners, $2.

Earl Young, labor, $6.80. W. H. Root, labor, $6.80. A. Samuels, labor, $1. Hubbard Taylor, labor, $2. M. H. Johnson, labor, $1. Gilbert Edgington, labor, $11. J. J. Luckey, repairs, $1.20. Robt. Lewis, watchman, $50. W. Ganger, marshal, $75.

Rosenkranz-Elchorn.—The following clipping from the Springfield, Ill., State Journal is sent to the Glacier by a friend: "Mr. Karl Rosenkranz, of Underwood, Wash., and Miss Katherine Elchorn, of Pana, were married at 8 o'clock Saturday night, February 22, at the German Evangelical parsonage, the pastor of the church officiating. The groom is a prominent young man of the west and the bride is well known in Pana and Springfield. The couple will live at Underwood, Wash."

New Depot at Stevenson.—The tracklayers have finished their work in town and everything is in readiness for the depot builders. The connecting rail was laid about 5 o'clock p. m. Saturday at Sheridan's Point, the ceremony of driving the golden spike coming later. Yesterday the steam shovel, dirt cars and donkey engines were loaded on flat cars and will be moved on to other railroad work. Stevenson people will have regular trains before they hardly realize it and their steamboating will be too slow for us.
