The California judge who decided that pedestrians need not dodge autos must have a friend or two in the undertaking business.

We are indebted to Clyde B. Atchison, railroad commissioner, for a copy of the first annual report of the Railroad Commission of Oregon.

Wouldn't it be a joke if the Democrats carried the legislature and they were obliged to send Fulton or Calkins to the United States Senate on Statement No. 1?

Klamath Falls and Astoria are the latest Oregon cities that have determined to have floats in the great parade, "The Spirit of the Golden West," which takes place in Portland on Tuesday evening, June 2d, of "Rose Festival" week.

Judge Calkins spoke at the opera house Friday evening in the interest of his candidacy for the United States senate, and makes Statement No. 1 a strong point of his argument.

Senator Fulton is back from Washington defending himself from the dirty attacks of one Henny, who has practically laid down, evidently not being able to prove his slanderous assertions.

Mr. Fulton has a strong support throughout the state, and, while not coming out flat for Statement No. 1, has stated that he believes in the election of United States senators by a direct vote of the people.

There is nothing in his platform to indicate any unfavorable attitude to Statement No. 1, but rather a conservative than a radical view of the question.

We have it on good authority that A. C. Staten has withdrawn from the race for state senate, in the interest of harmony, and that Nic Sinnott, of The Dalles, has taken Statement No. 1.

This leaves the situation much clearer, there being only H. L. Kuck and Mr. Sinnott as candidates, and Hood River out of the state senatorial fight. The Dalles is entitled to the senator, and they concede that Hood River should have a representative, which is only fair.

From the first it has been the wish of a majority here that we should not ask much in the way of offices on account of the Dalles consenting to division of the county by the initiative, and we are glad that such will be the case.

There is still doubt in the minds of many Republicans as to the wisdom of Statement No. 1. While the theory of the question is good there is the possibility of its practical operation bringing about results that will not be satisfactory to the Republican voters.

Yet the majority are in favor of the election of United States senators by a direct vote of the people, as in the case of congressmen, taking it out of the hands of the state legislature entirely. That cannot be done until the constitution of the United States is amended.

The movement was popular two years ago and while many of its supporters at that time are found this year who are not now in favor of it, yet it is still a popular movement.

Outside of the political bosses there is a general feeling that we need a change from the old methods, but want a somewhat modified substitute for Statement No. 1. We believe there is little danger of Gov. Chamberlain receiving a majority of votes for United States senator at the June election.

While he is a popular man in the state, yet George Chamberlain for governor and George Chamberlain for United States senator are two different persons. There are not many who believe in Republican principles who would care to send a Democrat to the United States senate.

A Democrat governor as a balance wheel in a Republican state board of control might be in the interest of good government, but as a law maker on political questions at Washington is in an entirely different position.

We believe that the thinking Republicans look at it in that light and will vote accordingly. The opposition to Statement No. 1 is principally on these grounds. They fear that it will result in sending to the United States senate a Democrat to represent a state which is overwhelmingly Republican.

Such a result is a remote possibility. While our preference is for a modified statement, yet under existing conditions we believe Statement No. 1 can be endorsed with safety.

COUNTRY EDITORS NOT GRATERS The average country newspaper has a pretty hard row to hoe, but he is generally honest, hardworking and painstaking. He gives a great deal more than he receives, and to be accused of graft because he insists that candidates for office pay for their announcements in his paper, is more than even his patient soul can bear.

The Maple Falls Leader pays its respects to a paper that maligned the country press as follows: "The Perkins addendum down in Bellingham says the country paper that can't live without charging for candidate announcements should get off the earth and stop business. That paper calls it graft. Show us a Perkins monstrosity that does not live on brazen graft and we will show you a blue blackbird. The head, hips and feet of this hybrid is on his roost in Tacoma and unless he crows it dare to ruffle a pin feather. His charity reaches the depth of a man's pocket, and when that is empty charity ceases to be a virtue."

There are ten lively weekly newspapers scattered around Whatcom county, and the fact that they are keeping as silent as the grave respecting the various candidates for office, leads us to believe that they have "framed up" and will insist upon their rights. Frank Bixby, who is a candidate for county attorney, is the only man who has received favorable mention, or any kind of mention, through the columns of the country press.

Our friends in the outlands cannot plead ignorance of the desire upon the part of many patriots to sacrifice themselves on the altar of public office. The city papers have printed a list of candidates long enough to reach from here to Seattle, so the country press must be aware of the ambitions of these individuals. The omission is therefore premeditated and intentional.

The country editors are clearly within their rights in this regard. Some of these candidates are imbued with an unselfish desire to serve the dear people for the dear people's sake. He knows to a dot the amount of emolument that goes with the office to which he aspires, and that emolument is the moving spring in his ambition to hold office.

That being the case the country editors are quite right in demanding that they be paid for making the announcements of these office-seekers.

However, the wielders of the quill need have no fears. They will get theirs in due season. With the direct primary law in force, no candidate for a county office will get within megaphone distance of the court house without the publicity which the country papers can give.

The surest way for a candidate to get the frappe shoulder from the rural press and public is to depend upon the city papers alone for his boosting. Being wise, the candidate will in due season drop into the country newspaper office and leave a paid announcement. The editor may be trusted to see that it is really paid as well as so marked.

Enlarge Vinegar Works. J. E. Brink, of St. Johns, who is well known here, was in the city the first of the week in company with C. A. Monroe and L. P. Branstetter, of Ferndale, Cal., and are looking over the field with the idea of moving their bottling and canning factory to Hood River, and will consolidate with the Hood River Older Vinegar Co., if additional stock can be secured here.

The gentlemen appeared before the Commercial Club Tuesday evening and had a sample of the champagne made by Mr. Money, of Ferndale, in California, and it was an excellent article. They have made arrangements with Mr. Calkins to possess the factory and add the bottling and canning machinery to the already complete plant provided $5,000 additional is secured in cash for a working capital.

President Jayne appointed E. O. Blanchard and Truman Butler a committee to investigate the matter and report.

The proposition is a good one and will be an additional benefit to the valley, as it would absorb more of the waste product of the valley, besides adding to the capacity of the vineyard works. It is only a short time until the rapid increase in fruit in the valley will require a canning factory to take care of the culls and surplus surplus stock, the over ripe berries, etc., and consolidation of the plants would be a good solution of the problem.

NEW WEDDING GIFTS. Cut Glass Chosen in Preference to Silver. Silverware of the intimate sort is not now sent to a bride by any but the nearest relatives, and no plated ware is permissible, says an exchange.

Given for toilet sets ivory with monograms in gold and silver is in vogue, and desk sets and tableware are shown in exquisitely tinted and patterned copper and rare china.

Antiques of all sorts are very fashionable now as jewelry. Silver chains and necklaces and turquoise and pearl ornaments are being chosen as wedding gifts.

Pictures and statuary are not as popular as once, for people are desirous to desire their own taste in their homes rather than that of their friends.

Nothing is more popular than the hand embroidered dollies in sets, combined with lace and often done in orange blossoms for brides.

There is such a rage for sport in these days that it would be odd if it were not reflected in the wedding gifts. Silver and gold mounted poker sets, dainty smoking sets and all known implements for after dinner service at table are among the charming novelties.

Candlesticks are popular also, some of them with the antique pendants which are becoming so fashionable for bodices and dressing tables.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. have made arrangements to dedicate the new fountain today in a manner appropriate to the occasion. The school children will march down at 3:30. Rev. W. G. Gilmore will offer the invocation. Mrs. O. B. Bartley will make the presentation address, followed by a speech of acceptance by Mayor Blowers. The Hood River Older Vinegar Co. sent a sample of vinegar to Ellsworth Hanna to be tested in the work done by his class at the Corvallis Agricultural College, and a report received states that it was the best sample of vinegar ever analyzed in that college.

This is a compliment to Hood River and the vinegar company in particular, and is but an additional proof of the superiority of Hood River apples.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES. To remove rust on copper rub the article with liquid ammonia.

Never put salt into soup when cooking it until it is skimmed, as salt prevents the scum from rising.

Wash the silver in the water in which potatoes have been boiled if you would have it beautifully bright and clean.

When your piano keys become yellow they can be restored to their former whiteness by rubbing them with turpentine.

The best housekeeper is the one who passes less time in making things clean and more thought in keeping them clean as she goes.

Keep camphor in cupboards where clothes are stored, for not only will it keep away moths, but also mice, which dislike it exceedingly.

Paraffin sput on a stone floor may be removed by rubbing with brick over the mark and letting it stay till next day, then wash in the usual way and the floor will be perfectly clean.

Paint can be removed from glass by rubbing it with hot, strong vinegar. Stains on the hands can be removed by acetic acid or salt of lemon, and ink marks will soon yield to pumice stone.

APPLYING LACE. A Neat Finish For Dainty Linen Handkerchiefs.

There is a most delightful and very little known stitch by which lace is applied to a fine fabric, such as a handkerchief.

It is known as incrustation and may be used for both insertions and edges. It is made as follows: Lay the lace over the fabric on the edge to the depth of half an inch or so.

Baste it straight to a thread a little distance from the edge of the lace and take a stitch backward in the thread.

Draw the thread tight and put the needle in the fabric in the same hole in which it was first inserted and bring it out through the fabric and the extreme edge of the lace.

Draw the thread through the entire length. Take a back stitch through the lace edge and the fabric and bring it out in the hole which was pierced by the previous stitch.

Repeat this until the lace is fastened to the fabric. On the back it will appear like a herringbone stitch.

Drawing the thread tight in this way and making practically a stitch and a half each time, the lace is finished with a pretty open edge which looks like hemstitching.

Now cut away the linen from under the lace to within an eighth of an inch from the edge. This raw edge does not make the work weak, and it launders beautifully.

Frenchwomen are not in the least bit afraid of a raw edge on the wrong side, and very often they avoid in this way what might be called sewing a thing to death—sewing which takes away much grace.

Genuineness Gives Power. There is nothing which will add so much to one's power as the consciousness of being absolutely sincere, genuine.
