LABOR AND THE REPUBLICAN PARTY

We come now to the question of labor says Wm. H. Taft in his speech of acceptance. One important phase of the policies of the present administration has been an anxiety to secure for the wage earner an equality of opportunity and such positive statutory protection as shall place him on a level in dealing with his employer. The Republican party has passed an employers' liability act for interstate railroads, and has established an eight hour law for government employes and on government construction. The essence of the reform effected by the former is the abolition of the fellow-servant rule, and the introduction of the comparative negligence theory by which an employe injured in the service of his employer does not lose all of his right because of slight negligence on his part. Then there is the act providing for compensation for injury to government employes, together with the various statutes requiring safety appliances upon interstate commerce railroads for the protection of their employes, and limiting the hours of their employment. These are all instances of the desire of the Republican party to do justice to the wage earner. Doubtless a more comprehensive measure for compensation of government employes will be adopted in the future; the principle in such cases has been recognized, and in the necessarily somewhat slow course of legislation will be more fully embodied in definite statutes.

The interests of the employer and the employe never differ except when it comes to a division of the joint profit of labor and capital into dividends and wages. This must be a constant source of periodical discussion between the employer and employe, as indeed are the other terms of the employment. To give to employes their proper position in such a controversy, to enable them to maintain themselves against employers having great capital, they may well unite, because in union there is strength and without it each individual laborer and employe would be helpless. The promotion of industrial peace through the instrumentality of the trade agreement is often one of the results of such union when intelligently conducted.

There is a large body of laborers, however, skilled and unskilled, who are not organized into unions. Their rights before the law are exactly the same as those of the union men, and are to be protected with the same care and watchfulness.

OPPOSED TO CLASS LEGISLATION

In accepting the nomination for Vice-President on the Republican ticket, James S. Sherman defined the position of the Republican party strongly in regard to class legislation. He said: "I emphasize as my party's creed and my faith that in legislation and administration favor should be extended to no class, no sect, no race, no section as opposed to another. To foster class hatred, to foster discontent, is un-American and un-American. Our party stands on the declaration that all men are created with equal rights and it will have no part in the enactment or execution of any law that does not apply alike to all good American citizens; whatever their calling or wherever they live. It will allow no man in our land to have advantage in law over any other man. It offers no safeguard to capital that is not guaranteed to labor; no protection to the workman that is not insured to his employer. It would offer to each and to both in pursuit of health and happiness and prosperity every possible advantage."

Prof. Langerock, a noted Socialist worker made an eloquent and interesting address on that subject at Odd Fellows' Hall Tuesday evening. The principles of Socialism as outlined by the speaker contained many truths that the thinking man may do well to ponder on. The theory of social equality which he advocated was couched in lucid, moderate, language, and if it were possible to put it in practice would undoubtedly make the world a much better place to live in and solve many of the social problems which are today confronting the civilized world. To the great masses however many of the professor's ideas go over their heads and they catch only the superficial and dangerous ones. When we shall have possibly changed human nature the world will be prepared for the doctrine of Socialism, but we fear that time will never come.

A report comes to us as we go to press that our good friend M. M. Hill has received a hunch that augurs Bryan's election beyond the possibility of defeat. The omen of victory consists in a well defined "E. 1908" which that well known orchardist has discovered on the skin of a number of his celebrated Spitzenberg apples. Mr. Hill is unable to account for the presence of the mystic characters on the fruit of discord, other than that they are the advance announcement that victory will perch on the banner of the celebrated Nebraskan. As a more probable theory we offer the suggestion that they are a cabalistic message to the members of Democracy in Hood River valley not to become disheartened and change their vote before election day.

Want Fruit Displayed at Seattle.

A meeting will be held in the Commercial Club rooms at 2 o'clock this afternoon, which will be addressed by W. H. Wehrung, and M. W. Widom, President and Secretary of the Oregon Commission for the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition for the purpose of interesting Hood River apple growers and business men in placing a permanent exhibit of fruit at the exposition at Seattle. Realizing that the fruit display at the Lewis & Clark fair did Oregon an immense amount of good, the officers of the Oregon Commission and those of the local fruit fair association are anxious that Hood River be well represented. It is hoped that the meeting will be well attended and that it is decided to place a good display at the exposition from here.

$34,000 FOR FORTY ACRES.

Friday one of the biggest land deals ever consummated a Hood River tract was sold today through the agency of J. H. Heilbroner & Co., when they sold 40 acres of young orchard to W. B. Dieker and P. W. Peck, of Minneapolis, for $34,000.

The property was owned by Bart Van Horn, a wealthy orchardist and big apple grower of New York, and was sold approximately for $300 an acre. For trees that are not in bearing this is the highest price ever paid for orchard land here. The purchaser will divide it into 20-acre tracts and come here to reside.

Another large sale which took place through the same company Friday was the transfer of 20 acres, eight in bearing trees, belonging to S. P. Ralph to J. C. Saultwell, of Campbell, Sandford & Henley, a large local concern of Portland, for $13,000.

In the latter sale Mr. Ralph reserves the crop which will amount to several thousand dollars. Messrs. Van Horn & Co. are the owners of the Company and H. F. Davidson are the largest owners of orchard land in trees in the valley, their holdings amounting to between 400 and 500 acres.

Completing the East Side Bridge

The big job which the contractor for the approaches for the new bridge put into the hill opposite the entrance to the bridge on the east side was made successfully Wednesday morning. The only damage done was the destruction of one telephone pole. The amount of dirt removed is more than sufficient to make the hill and with the exception of the time it will require to be down the old bridge the road will not be closed. By driving around the hill and coming to the landing Hood River vehicles coming from or going to the city can reach it over the old bridge which will be left until Monday morning, when the work of removing it will be commenced. It will then be necessary to close the bridge in order to measure of the material in the approaches of the old structure in those for the new and traffic will probably be interrupted Monday and Tuesday.

The Columbia Bridge Company which had the contract for building the bridge completed it Wednesday and shipped their outfit to Granton Pass where they have a contract to throw a long span across the Rogue River.

Good Roads Legislation Committee Meets.

A. I. Mason, who is a member of the legislative committee of the State from Astoria, attended an interesting meeting at Portland last week of the committee of the various organizations who are preparing good roads legislation to be placed before the state lawmakers at the next session of the legislature. So far no definite action has been taken, but in the informal discussion which took place it developed that a majority were in favor of a bill that would contain some of the features of the Johnson bill which was introduced in the last legislature and also some of the provisions of the measure which is being advocated by the State Good Roads Association. Contrary to expectations the bonding feature of the latter measure did not meet with much approval as was anticipated. It is expected, however, to stimulate the matter down to definite form at a meeting which will take place in Portland in the early part of November and concentrate on some measure that will be satisfactory to all the interests at stake.

"Don Fulano," the Wonderful Horse

The wonderful little horse, "Don Fulano," was being advertised by the Vogt theater last night with his knowledge of figures and his ability to discern colors. Numerous horses, whose owners have claimed almost human intelligence, have been exhibited and have failed to wonder, but "Don Fulano" has them all beaten to a standstill. He does not do tricks that have been drilled into him, he uses his brains. Some might think that everything had been prearranged to suit the act which the horse gave, but such is not the case as "Don Fulano," seems to have a thorough knowledge of numbers from one to nine and he easily matched the colors which were displayed. He held the act for the first time, but his trainer's overcoat, which he put it on and lighted matches and distinguished them at a word from Dr. Ellis.

One of the feats performed last night was having one of the spectators draw a large figure on a piece of paper and showing it to "Don Fulano," who immediately picked the figure represented with out a word being spoken.

"Don Fulano," will be at the opera house this week including Sunday night. On Saturday afternoon a special matinee will be given for ladies and children and Dr. Ellis will at the same time give a free lecture on the best friend of man, the horse, and also as to the care and treatment of dumb animals.

Meeting of the Y

The Y. W. C. E. U. met at the home of Reverend Corman upon the evening of October 24. A very encouraging report from the delegates sent to the convention was listened to which stated that the Hood River Y was known throughout the state and was the only one represented in Oregon.

Voted the Money

The election held by the Hood River Irrigation District Saturday, to provide funds to pay off several thousand dollars of current indebtedness resulted in voting the money. The proposition is to levy a 13 mill tax on property under the ditch for this purpose.

Box of Spitz Go to Ireland

Hood River apples for Ireland is the latest. While the famous Hood River fruit has been sent to most all other parts of the civilized world, so far the shipment of a box to that country Saturday by E. B. Long is the first that has been reported. The fruit was sent to Mrs. A. Fulton, of London, England, and was ordered by Dr. A. C. Patton, of Portland, the former being his mother. The box sent were Spitzenberg and with the express charges will cost the sender in the neighborhood of $7.00.

Had Pleasant Visit at Astoria

In order to be present at the constitution of Astoria's new Commandery of Knights Templar, which took place last Friday, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Laraway and Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Moe went there last week. The party left here Thursday morning. A grand sword bearer to the State Commandery, Mr. Laraway was an active participant in the ceremonies. The name of the new commandery is St. Albans Commandery, No. 11, Knights Templar, and the ceremonies were very impressive.

Friday afternoon the visitors were the guests of Collector of Customs McGregor who took them to the Columbia jetty on the revenue cutter and from there they took a five mile ride on an inspection train on the jetty out to sea. The experience is said by the members of the party to have been a very novel and interesting one. Friday evening a big fish banquet was served that included about everything that swims in the Columbia river or the Pacific Ocean, and the visitors speak in the highest terms of their fine entertainment during their stay in the Salmon city.

HOOD RIVER BEATS GOLDENDALE 7 to 0

The Hood River High School football team went to Goldendale Friday where they crossed swords with the Goldendale High School eleven on the gridiron and defeated them to the tune of 7 to 0. The local boys played a fine game and showed much improvement since their last game. Under the competent coaching of J. Van Niece Bandy the team this year is fast developing into a strong amateur junior eleven and is putting up an article of football that deserves the support of all interested in this fine sport.

The Goldendale game was played before a large attendance and in face of considerable interference and belligerence on the part of many of the spectators. The twenty minute halves were played, the first half being a hotly contested struggle, which was characterized by strong steady playing on both sides with the advantage slightly in favor of Hood River who scored two points.

In the second half Hood River showed its supremacy by scoring a touch down on two runs of thirty yards each by Baker and Bell and preventing its opponents from getting over the line with the ball. The score 7 to 0 was caused by the local boys failing to kick goal.

Umpire and referee were J. Van Niece Bandy for Hood River and Prof. McKnight for Goldendale, who alternated.

Oregon's New Election Law

It is unlawful on election day— To hire vehicles to haul voters to and from the polls; To hire any one to work at the polls, except to challenge persons not qualified to vote; To wear any political badge or insignia at the polls; To distribute cards or campaign literature at the polls; or to work at the polls in any way to influence voters.

Do anything to influence voters. Under the terms of Oregon's new corrupt practice act, passed by the people in June, the Presidential election November 3 will be just a plain election, without any frills—nothing but the polls, the election board and the voters. The time-honored game of political workers handing out cards which the voter has always to read, is now illegal.

The reluctant voter who has waited for his party's enthusiasts to hunt him out and take him to the polls in carriage or hack must walk, pay car fare, or stay away. No person is permitted to use any effort, at the polls or away from them, on election day to influence the vote of any one. Some sections of the corrupt practices act relating to election day follow:

"It shall be unlawful for any person to pay another for any loss or damage due to attendance at the polls, or in registering, or for the expense of the transportation to or from the polls."

"No person shall pay for personal service to be performed on the day of any election, for any purpose connected therewith, except for the hiring of persons whose sole duty is to act as challengers, and watch the count of official ballots."

"No person shall buy, sell, give or provide any political badge, button or other insignia to be worn at or about the polls on the day of any election, and no such political badge, button or other insignia shall be worn at or about the polls on any election day."

"It shall be unlawful for any person at any place on the day of any election to ask, solicit or in any manner try to induce or persuade any voter on such election day to vote for or refrain from voting for any candidate or the candidates or ticket of any political party or organization."

The last section above quoted would prohibit the banners, heretofore common, bearing the legend, "Vote the Straight Republican Ticket." In fact, this section prohibits all political activities on election day which would in any manner tend to influence a voter as to how he should vote.
