WHAT OREGON EXPECTS FROM THE LEGISLATURE

If Oregon should be searched from one end to the other, not one taxpayer could be found who would be for other than a business session of the legislature, says the Oregon Journal.

The state needs road legislation. It wants a better distribution of the tax burdens. It wants water power legislation. It wants irrigation legislation.

Never in the history of the state did such weighty and pressing problems of legislation appear for solution.

The independence party vote in Pennsylvania was only 1,057 but it is not expected that Mr. Hearst will ask for a recount.

J. Pierpont Morgan expects pie for inebriation, and yet some people claim that the rich don't have any good times.

The fear is expressed that Congress will have no time to be economical this year.

Candidates for the Annapolis Club are never kept long on the waiting list.

If Senator Platt is really writing a book, we suggest that he tell all he knows and issue the volume on the Fourth of July.

Some statesmen would be willing to pay a substantial sum to anybody who will steal the branding iron that Mr. Roosevelt brought with him from his western ranch.

"How long, O Theodore, how long?" asks the Ohio State Journal. About 3 words, more or less.

Admiral Evans doesn't want anybody to make him a present of a house and lot, and he doesn't want to be president, either.

King Victor Emanuel has raised the salaries of all the royal employees. Victor is a knight after the common people's own heart.

An Indian woman whose maiden name was Partridge has had husband named Robin, Sparrow and Quayle, says the Birmingham Age Herald.

The time to strike effective blows for woman's suffrage is when woman holds the future voter across her knees.

The superheated energy generated in the Panama controversy is sufficient if properly utilized to dig several canals.

The California man who can't help laughing when an earthquake comes along, should move to Washington, where he can giggle all the time.

"What is rapid transit?" asks a New York newspaper. Anything fast or a cash boy, we think.

In her charitable giving Mrs. Russell Sage has reached the "you raise an equal amount" stage. Too bad.

Ex-Senator Spooner intimates that we have too many oratorical statesmen. That will be less evident after March 4.

Mr. Taft is sure of tariff revision in good faith. Does this mean an increase to the Ohio potters who are already protected 60 per cent?

Mr. Rockefeller gave a waiter a 5-cent tip, and advised him to put the money in the savings bank. But we'll bet he bought an automobile, instead.

Captain Richmond Pearson Holton is plaintiff in a $20,000 libel suit against one of his campaign detractors. The captain ought to be a better loser than that.

Now that there is an attempt to have all manufactured imitations properly labeled, why not also attach 'em to men and women?

But the President is not likely to meet any breed of monkeys in the dark continents that he has not at ready met in America.

Imagine your mother, wife, your daughter, your sister or your sweet heart a ranting suffragette.

"Real cuisine"—that is one of the positions occupied by eminent editors, says Mr. Roosevelt.

If the Sherman Anti-Trust law is so mischievous a measure that it business principles, and will work a miracle in their favor. They go upon the theory "A fool for lock." This is why speculation in this nature is fallen into evil ways, and why a gold mine so often proves a gold brick.

The public has itself to blame. Mines, oil wells, rubber plantations, can be made sources of profit, and are made sources of profit; but they should not be played as one plays a slot machine—Edwin L. Sabiu, in January Lippincott's.

Sense and Nonsense Adjourning comes easier to Congress than rolling off a log.

"The art of explaining the unexplainable" will have become a science with trust magnates by the time the courts are through with Rockefeller, Archibald, etc.

Vice-President Fairbanks is to "practice law" after he has through with his present job. Maybe Senator Foraker can throw a few odd jobs his way.

With all the generals in office and the army installed in the customs house, Haiti is again at home to the dogs of peace.

The Christmas tree not only defecates the hills, as Dr. MacArthur says, but think what it does to father's purse.

About the time American troops have evacuated Cuba, another revolution will be due, with annexation following.

Mr. Roosevelt knows how to talk to his fellow editors.

How is it that Mr. Fairbanks is so coldly indifferent to the assault on C. Dean Smith, editor of the Indianapolis news?

Taft is now directing his weight to the sundering of the solid South.

The President-elect's heart is "way down south in Dixie," sure enough.

Jesse Imbler. Jesse Imbler a well known and respected resident of Hood River, died at the home of Albert E. Imbler near Talent, Ore., December 17, 1908, and was buried in the Ashland Cemetery.

On Christmas Eve at 8 o'clock, a wedding took place at the United Brethren parsonage when Harriet P. Morby and Walter J. Peck were joined in wedlock by Rev. C. W. Corman.

Mr. Imbler had been an active worker in the Christian church for over 40 years his present membership being with the Valley Christian church of Hood River. He was conscious to the last and his loved ones a fond farewell with the hope of meeting them again. Among his last words were "The Lord is my Shepherd, I shall not want."

Mr. Imbler was born in the state of Kentucky, May 26, 1842 and moved with his parents to Iowa in 1845 and crossed the plains to Oregon in 1853, settling near Eugene. He resided there until after the Rogue River Indian war in which he was a volunteer although but a lad of fourteen. From Eugene he moved to Dufer where he was married to Miss Esther Masiker, Jan. 4, 1868. After living here a few years he moved to Grande Ronde valley where he lived for 33 years. Since 1897 he has resided at Hood River.

Mrs. R. L. Austin. Mrs. R. L. Austin died Wednesday afternoon, December 30, and funeral services will be held from Nichol's chapel Friday morning at 11 o'clock.

Showmaker-Miller. A wedding occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Malloy Sunday at 10 o'clock, when their daughter, Miss Viola Miller, was united in marriage to H. L. Showmaker, son of B. F. Showmaker, Rev. White of the Pine Grove M. E. church reading the ceremony.

Only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were present. Mr. and Mrs. Showmaker left for White Bird, Idaho, where Mr. Showmaker has property interests, but will return later and make their home at Hood River.

Coons-Cunningham. Miss Letha Cunningham and P. H. Coons were married Christmas Day at the home of W. S. Nichol to whom the former is related. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Nathan Evans, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of this city in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends of the contracting parties. After the ceremony an elaborate wedding dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Coons will reside at Hood River.

The large reception parlor was completely festooned with ivy. The bride and groom stood under a wedding bell made of mistletoe during the ceremony. Bouquets of pink carnations were distributed in every corner of the room. In the dining room where the wedding breakfast was served, after the ceremony, the decorations were also of pink and a large bouquet of pink carnations was tastefully displayed on the dining table.

Miss Mildred Cooper, a sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, while the groom was attended by Kenneth Cooper, the bride's brother. The ring bearer was little Katherine Bayley, the bride's niece. Miss D. V. Poling sang, "I Love You Truly," immediately preceding the ceremony and the bridal couple entered to the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin" played by Mrs. Kenneth Cooper. The bride was given away by her father.

Miss Cooper was very prettily gowned in white messaline satin, and carried an arm bouquet of bride roses. Miss Mildred Cooper, the bridesmaid, wore pale yellow net trimmed with satin bands.

The bride and groom departed on the 2:15 train for Portland.

Those attending the ceremony were R. D. Cooper of Independence, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Cooper of Albany, J. E. Cooper of Albany, Mr. and Mrs.

Yonpsey-Nichols. Jas. A. Yonpsey and Miss May Nichols were married on Christmas Day at the M. E. parsonage at Pine Grove by Rev. H. S. White. Mrs. Yonpsey came to Hood River recently having formerly resided at Columbus, Ohio.

Jackson-Gierking. Miss Mary C. Gierking and David M. Jackson, son of Capt. Jackson were married at the former's home Thursday December 24th by Rev. H. S. White of the Pine Grove M. E. church. The ceremony took place in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends.

Peck-Morby. On Christmas Eve at 8 o'clock, a wedding took place at the United Brethren parsonage when Harriet P. Morby and Walter J. Peck were joined in wedlock by Rev. C. W. Corman.

Alexander-Prather. A very pretty home wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. T. Prather at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon when their daughter Miss Grace Frances was united in marriage with Robert Ross Alexander of Troy, Wash.

The bride was very beautifully decorated for the occasion with Oregon grape, cut flowers and potted plants and the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. W. C. Gilmore, took place in the presence of about thirty relatives and intimate friends of the bride and groom.

The bridal party approached the spot where they were to be married to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march played by Miss. F. E. Johnson and was unattended.

The bride was beautifully gowned in a dress of white Landseown silk and carried a bridal bouquet of white carnations and the groom was suitably attired for the occasion.

Thomas-Cooper. A pretty wedding took place at high noon Tuesday, December 23, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Cooper in this city, when their daughter, Nancy Paralee was united in marriage to Charles L. Thomas, of Mount Hood, Oregon. The Rev. D. V. Poling, pastor of the Congregational church, officiated.

This is the culmination of a romance begun at Mount Hood, in the upper Hood River valley, when Miss Cooper, who was one of the best known teachers in The Dalles public schools, took up her duties as principal of the Mount Hood school.

The wedding was attended by relatives and friends living in this city and in different parts of the state. The residence of Mr. Cooper, situated on a commanding site overlooking the Columbia river and The Dalles, on Cass and Fulton streets was very tastefully decorated for the occasion, the prevailing color being pink.

The large reception parlor was completely festooned with ivy. The bride and groom stood under a wedding bell made of mistletoe during the ceremony. Bouquets of pink carnations were distributed in every corner of the room. In the dining room where the wedding breakfast was served, after the ceremony, the decorations were also of pink and a large bouquet of pink carnations was tastefully displayed on the dining table.

Miss Mildred Cooper, a sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, while the groom was attended by Kenneth Cooper, the bride's brother. The ring bearer was little Katherine Bayley, the bride's niece. Miss D. V. Poling sang, "I Love You Truly," immediately preceding the ceremony and the bridal couple entered to the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin" played by Mrs. Kenneth Cooper. The bride was given away by her father.

Miss Cooper was very prettily gowned in white messaline satin, and carried an arm bouquet of bride roses. Miss Mildred Cooper, the bridesmaid, wore pale yellow net trimmed with satin bands.

The bride and groom departed on the 2:15 train for Portland.

Those attending the ceremony were R. D. Cooper of Independence, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Cooper of Albany, J. E. Cooper of Albany, Mr. and Mrs.

M. H. Craft of Movier, Mrs. J. S. Fish of Pendleton, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Northrup of Portland, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Cooper of Fairbanks, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Bayley and family, Mrs. Sallina Pirman, Miss Minnie Moberg, Mrs. Kate Roche, Dr. Minnie Birdee, Miss Lydia Bottmiller, Mrs. Huntington and Mrs. D. M. Hoyler.

The groom is a prominent fruit grower of the upper Hood River valley, where Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, after their wedding trip, will take up their residence.—Dalles Chronicle.

Fourteen Years For Ruff. The groom is a prominent fruit grower of the upper Hood River valley, where Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, after their wedding trip, will take up their residence.—Dalles Chronicle.

Fourteen years was the sentence handed out to Abe Ruff, the San Francisco grafter yesterday by Judge Wm. P. Lator. Ruff's case has been fought in the courts for over a year. The sentence given Ruff was the maximum penalty and when it was pronounced he took it quietly.

During the day a legal battle took place between the convicted man's attorneys and the attorneys for the state, in an effort to delay the pronouncing of sentence but Judge Lator set all technicalities aside. It is said by Ruff's attorneys that they will appeal the case.

Dining-Call Sleigh Bell. Instead of the Japanese gongs, which have so long been popular, a fad just now is to use a string of half a dozen or so old-fashioned sleigh bells," says Woman's Home Companion for January.

"Polished, and hung in the dining room or hall, these afford a quaint ornament and a pleasant way of summoning the family to meals. A string of them would make a very attractive Christmas gift and would not be expensive."

Mrs. E. D. Johnson. The many friends and acquaintances of Mrs. E. D. Johnson, formerly Miss Mabel Carter, sustained a grave shock Friday when they learned that she had died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Carter on Christmas Day. The cause of Mrs. Johnson's death was shock from fright due to being in a run away accident. Accompanied by her husband Mrs. Johnson came to Hood River Wednesday evening on the 7:10 train and was being driven to her parents home when the shock to which the team was attached loosened, allowing the sleigh to hit against the house and struck a bare spot causing it to slip so suddenly that the horses broke loose from the sleigh and continued their mad career home safely.

The sleigh was not returned and no one was apparently harmed. The shock and excitement however caused Mrs. Johnson to go into convulsions and although medical assistance was summoned immediately she failed to recover and passed away at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

The body was taken to Portland Friday afternoon and the funeral services held there.

Mrs. Johnson was well known here where she was highly esteemed and previous to her marriage was an instructor in education in Willamette University and Drury College, Missouri. In this direction she possessed rare talent and was also accomplished in other respects. Her husband was Dr. E. D. Johnson a well known surgeon of Portland.

Train Robbers Sentenced. Owen Jack Hayes, alias Jack Walton, who with his accomplice, William Burke, was arrested by the police on a charge of holding up the Chicago Express of the O. R. & N. December 17 and robbing the express car, Tuesday pleaded guilty when arraigned in Judge Gantenbein's court and was sentenced to 12 years in the Penitentiary. Burke, whose confession on December 21 implicated Hayes, was sentenced by Judge Gantenbein to four years. The third man concerned in the hold up, known as "the Swede," is still at large, but it is believed information has been obtained which will cause this man's apprehension with little difficulty.

Fifty or more homeless newboys were interviewed at a Christmas dinner provided by Attorney S. Snow Potts at a Stark street restaurant. It has been a custom for several years with Mr. Potts to provide the homeless newboys of the city with Christmas cheer. Friday's meal began at 12:15 o'clock when the members of the first division were received. At 1 o'clock the second division entered the restaurant the dinner began with a 11-filled bowl of clam chowder. Turkey with dressing and cranberry sauce followed. Potatoes, vegetables, celery, bread and butter were on the tables in abundance. Dessert consisted of pies and cakes. The two waitresses were in constant demand during the time occupied by the meal supplying the needs of the hungry little fellows.—Portland Journal.

President Roosevelt. "In these last days of President Roosevelt's administration it is a pleasure to think how often in these columns we have had the privilege of agreeing or disagreeing with him," writes the editor of Woman's Home Companion for January. "Mr. Roosevelt has made mistakes, as he would be the last to deny, but he has done the country no service which is not written on the statute books or on the records of his official achievements. He has promoted in the papers which the people read, and more important, in the minds of the people themselves, an active discussion of questions that had become self worn from neglect, and has given publicity to the Ten Commandments; he has refurbished the Beatitudes; for these things let us give him credit."

Rabbit Drive a Failure. The rabbit drive on Agency Plains on the 12th and 13th was a failure, according to the Madras Pioneer, which says:

The rabbit hunt which was held last Monday and Tuesday was not an entire success and for several reasons. One was that there were not enough people on hand to effectually corral the rabbits, probably not more than 100 persons all told turning out. It was thought by some that it was attempted to cover too much territory and that too long drives were made, giving the rabbits many opportunities to dodge back and escape through the line of drivers. Another reason was that a rabbit has some of the characteristics of a hog and sometimes absolutely refuses to be driven. On these occasions it is generally the signal for some of the drivers to get excited and throw stones, sticks, or lead so that the rabbits would become bewildered, with the result that some of them would dodge this way and that and eventually elude the line of drivers.

The rabbits also seemed to have a presentiment of the snow storm which reached this section Tuesday night and had congregated in places where they would be most sheltered from the elements, and from these recesses it was almost impossible to remove them any distance. Something like 300 rabbits are estimated to have been killed during the drives made on the two days. Several Indians came over from the reservation and helped with the drive, and a large percent of the rabbits slain were appropriated by them.

The rangers are not discouraged by the apparently small number of jackals killed at this drive, but will meet again December 28, near the John Trotter place in Sagerbrush Springs section. It is probable that with the experience gained at the last drive they will make a more wholesale slaughter of the rabbits than rewarded their efforts during the drive the first of the week.

Coyote War to Begin. January is to spell death to the coyotes in the state of Oregon, according to the plans which have been announced by Secretary Dan P. Smythe, of the State Sheep Commission and the State Woolgrowers Association. During the coming month the flock masters of the state are to wage a concerted and systematic warfare upon the greatest enemy the woolgrower has to contend with. Dogs, guns, traps and poison are all to be brought into requisition, and it is expected that the number of coyotes can be greatly reduced during the 31 days in the month which has been designated for slaughter.

The same plan was worked last January, and, according to reports received from all parts of the state, hundreds of the animals were slain. It was the success of the first effort which led the officers of the state association to repeat the experiment.—Heppner Gazette.
