One of the probable courses of ac-tion will be to prepare a memorial to congress showing that the present box in use in the northwest, which wa adopted several years ago as the stand-ard hox of the fruitgrowers' organization, contains 300 more cubic inche than the Winchester bushes, at pres ent accepted as the standard in the United States. It will also be shown that a change such as the one proposed will disorganize the present method of packing and shipping apples and place growers on the coast under unfair competition until an altogether new system could be inaugurated.

Apple growers also object to the massage of the bill in whole or in part, particularly a provision in it which states that boxes not conforming to the larger size stipulated in the Porter bill shall be marked "short box. This, they say, is placing an unfair restriction on the abpple products of northbwest t. It is also said that the apple box now in use contains over a bushel of apples that are all salable and as near perfect as it is possible to have them, and that dealers who are pushing the Porter bill are taking an unjust course to compel the grower to give them more fruit in order for the huyers to take profits which justly belong to the grower.
