IN MEMORIA

Mrs. Tryphena Adella Moe passed to the Great Beyond at four o'clock p. m., on Sunday, May 16, 1909, at the home of her son, A. D. Moe, aged 65 years, 1 month and 19 days.

Tryphena Adella Moe was born at Auburn, N. Y., March 27, 1844. She was the eldest daughter of Chester and Margaret Cook, and came to Wisconsin with her parents when seven years old, the family settling with other early pioneers in Oak Grove township, Dodge County, Wisconsin.

She lived on the family homestead until her marriage to Abram D. Moe, November 10, 1861. With her husband she went to Green Lake county, Wisconsin, later moving to the village of Princeton, in the same county, where she resided during the war, and while her husband was fighting for his country in the War of the Rebellion. In 1865 at that place was born her eldest son, Arthur D. Moe. Shortly after the family moved to Frankville, Iowa, where they resided two years, returning to Lowell, Wis. After a residence at that place for seven years, they moved to Oak Grove, in the same county, living there for one year. In 1875 they moved to Beaver Dam, Wis., where in 1877 their second son, Harry G. Moe, was born, and where they made their home for nineteen years.

Falling health of both herself and husband caused them to go to South St. Paul, Minn., and take up their residence with their eldest son, Arthur G., and at that place December 28, 1901, occurred the death of her husband, Abram D. Moe. In the spring of 1902 she removed with her son to Grand Forks, N. D., where she resided eight months, and on account of the severe cold concluded not to try another winter in that climate and went to Dayton, Wash., where she resided with her youngest son, Harry G. The first of May, 1904, she joined Arthur and his family at Hood River, Oregon, where she has lived until she passed away Sunday afternoon.

The deceased was not of a robust nature and even in middle life falling strength warned her of the approach of disease and when she came to Minnesota fifteen years ago physicians gave her no hope of regaining her health. She soon embraced the Christian Science faith, and the influence of the healers of that faith, combined with her own efforts, gave her a new lease of life, and she made such improvement that it was hoped she was entirely healed. The last week of March of this year she began to fail, and in spite of every effort she gradually sank to rest.

In the death of our mother we have lost a loved one who has been ever solicitous for our welfare, whose first thought was for our happiness and prosperity, and whose memory will ever be cherished with a reverence that will always live. Yet we are consoled in part by the assurance that she has gone to her reward, and that her troubles are ended forever.

She leaves to mourn her loss, Arthur D. Moe, of Hood River, Ore., and Harry G. Moe, of Dayton, Wash., who were with her during her last hours; a brother, John Cook, of Neillville, Wis.; two sisters, Mrs. Alice Clason, of Park Rapids, Minn., and Miss Mary Cook, of Onalmon, Minn.

The funeral was held at the residence of her son Monday afternoon, Rev. W. C. Gilmore officiating, while the service was conducted under the auspices of the Canby W. R. C., of whom the deceased was a member, and held the office of chaplain. The remains were accompanied to St. Paul Monday evening by her son, Arthur D., and services will be conducted there this afternoon by the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of St. Paul, of which the deceased was a member, and the remains will be laid to rest by the side of the husband and father, in Oakland Cemetery, St. Paul.

The Second Eastern Oregon District Agricultural Society will hold its annual fair this year in The Dalles from October 5 to 9, inclusive, and will have, from all indications, one of the best exhibitions of agricultural products, fruits and display, that has been seen there, says the Chronicle.

Now that the great cities of the world are warring against the rat, it is interesting to note that a market has been created for his skin. In London alone, it is said, ratskins are bought to the value of $200,000 a year. They are used for bookbinding, photograph frames, purses, and the thumbs of ladies' gloves. In Denmark, so says a consular report, rat-catching has become a source of revenue for men otherwise unemployed, who derive from the business a revenue of 75 to 90 cents a day.

The exercises in connection with the closing of the school year commenced Sunday, and baccalaureate services were held Sunday at the M. E. Church, Rev. S. Evans preaching the baccalaureate sermon. The program ran as follows:

On Monday evening the junior class of the Hood River High School entertained the graduating class, at the Huggins' residence. The home lent itself charmingly to the purpose, and there were about forty present. The rooms were beautifully decorated in crimson and black, colors of the seniors, and purple and gold for the juniors.

The first part of the evening was spent in diving into the mysteries of "guessing games." Each one present was given a slip of paper whereon was written the name of some animal, which he or she was required to draw on a little blackboard. The results were beautifully anticipated all present.

Later, dainty refreshments were served and a merry time was had. School and college yells made the house ring, among them being a number given by some of the graduates who expect to enter the University of Oregon next fall.

Last evening the following interesting program was rendered:

Billy Sunday the evangelist, hit tonight a fruit farm at Hood River. His energies expended along horticultural lines will be more productive of eternal results than his present method of evangelization. He is along religious lines. This is not said in disparagement of real evangelistic work, the kind Sunday does not do. -Eugene Register.

The kind that Sunday does, however, appears to get him about $1,000 a week, and many communities are glad to avail themselves of the opportunity to obtain his services.

"Murphy" Story Kansas newspapers are "passing on" this story which is going the rounds, and the unanimous verdict is that it is good. It is to the effect that a freckle-faced girl stopped at the post office and yelled out: "Anything for the Murphys?" "No, there is not." "Anything for Jane Murphy?" "Nothing." "Anything for Ann Murphy?" "No." "Anything for Bob Murphy?" "No, not a bit." "Anything for Terry Murphy?" "No, nor for Pat Murphy, nor Dan Murphy, nor Pete Murphy, nor Paul Murphy, nor any Murphy—dead, living, born or unborn, native or foreign, civilized or uncivilized, savage or barbarous, male or female, black or white, franchised or unfranchised, naturalized or otherwise. No, there is positively nothing for any of the Murphys, either individually, jointly, severally, now and forever, one and inseparable!" The girl looked at the postmaster in astonishment, and said: "Please do not let it be if there is anything for Clarence Murphy." -Kansas City Journal.
