The Hood River Apple Growers Union put the price of ice down to where everybody can use ice. Orders are coming in freely, and it is evident the people intend to stand by the concern that has helped them to cheaper rates.
Three hundred Hood River fruit growers own the ice business of the Hood River Apple Growers Union. Every sale of ice the Union makes helps each of these three hundred fruit growers, and they all trade in town. The Union established low prices on ice.
All those who can sing, or will try, are requested to meet at the M. E. Church at 8 p. m. on Friday evening. This is for the purpose of practicing on the patriotic hymns which will be sung on the Fifth. Two years ago a fine chorus was had. Let us do as well this year.
Mrs. L. M. Noblet, of the Paris Fair, received word from Husum Friday, that her little girl, who is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, was taken very ill, and she left at once for that city. Word was received from her to the effect that her daughter was much better and that she would return home about Friday.
J. H. Gerdes, proprietor of the Gerdes Lodging House, near the O. R. & N. depot has an ad in this issue and will interest any one who is looking for a good bed at reasonable rates. Mr. Gerdes is one of the pioneers of Hood River and is well known throughout the valley. He first came to this valley in 1875 and lived here for seven years, running a meat market, and since 1889 has conducted the lodging house. He can accommodate over fifty people, and his house is fitted up with the usual electric lights, etc., of all first class places.

ITS EXCEPTIONAL ATTRACTIONS
As a mountain summer resort this house with its extensive natural grounds, fronting the Columbia River, is positively unsurpassed. The health-giving breath of pine and fir, the songs of birds, the proximity of mountain and river, the pleasant mingling of shade and sun, the shelter from high winds which here fret merely the tops of the forest trees, the clean freshness only possible apart from towns and traffic, the quiet of the back country within the limits of a town of 3,000, and but a mile from its railway station—here is a combination of advantages hard to beat.
Add to all these a comfortable modern house, with plumbing and electric lights, with a wide veranda, spacious drawingroom, clean and airy bedrooms with beds equal to those of first class hotels, and finally a cuisine and table combining the abundance and variety of country fare with the really skilled cookery that is at once wholesome and appetizing.
This is the Country Club Inn, on Hood River, Oregon, now open for the season under new management.
Water supply from a mountain spring. Views superb and extensive, including Mt. Adams' snowy peak and the River itself.
Ideal place for children.
Unexcelled for convalescents.
Perfect for all who love the countryside and its invigorating joys.
RATES:
Transients, $2.00 a Day.
Adults, $10.00 a Week.
Children under 12, $5.00 a Week.
