

Hood River Glacier

Issued Every Thursday by ARTHUR D. MOE, Publisher.

G. D. Woodworth, in a column article in the News, takes occasion to criticize the editorial in last week's Glacier on the bonding issue. Mr. Woodworth accuses us of turning down all propositions except the bonding issue. He says, "Any view not in accord with the ideas of the Glacier on the water question is a scheme against getting the money."

are now working to carry the election in favor of the bonds.

The utility of circular advertising as compared with newspaper advertising is proved in a dozen different ways, says the Findlay Obiter, Republican, but in none more forcibly than in the fact that Findlay firms that expend a part of their advertising money in this way are now and have been for more than a year sending circular announcements to persons who have been dead as long as that. A Findlay young woman whose husband has been dead for several years is constantly receiving advertising matter addressed to him, much of it at all read the newspapers. If they cannot read they are not likely to be valuable customers. The wise advertiser spends his money where it will do him the most good. He puts very little of it into circular letters, which annoy the housewife and are in about six cases out of ten consigned with out reading to the waste paper basket. Newspapers are read. The advertiser in reputable newspapers tells the reader what he (or, to be exact, she) wants in the shops, and she reads carefully by the information she receives. So does the merchant.

Oregon commercial men will be represented on a trade excursion to China next February. Coast cities have been invited by the Chinese Chamber of Commerce at Shanghai. Portland has decided to send representatives and it is expected that the visit will bring the Pacific Coast into closer touch with the Orient. This the second such jaunt across the Pacific for Coast Business men, Japan having been the host of a large party representing the Coast cities last fall.

An inspection of many large apple orchards in New York state, says the Produce News, shows that the June drop will be heavy, and many varieties will be short. It is the general opinion that the cold snap in the spring with the cold, damp spell which followed the blossoms did more damage than the estimates at that time showed. While it is too early to give any close figures on the apple crop, it is safe to say that it will fall far below expectations in the Hudson River Valley.

Howard Elliott, president of the Pacific Railway company, has accepted the presidency of the National Apple Show, which will award $5,000 in prizes and trophies at its second annual exhibition in Spokane the coming fall. He succeeds Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railway company, who was head of the organization last year.

The new directory of the "Home" Telephone Company is out. It was "made in Portland." Part of the money used to pay for the Portland product was obtained by home advertising, although the Business Men's Association had previously turned it down.

"It turns out at the close of the government's fiscal year that the government is $2,000,000 richer than it thought it was because it owes that much less than it was feared that it would. To a perfectly solvent government or individual subtraction in debt is wealth."

That fruit rather than wheat will some day be the chief product of the northwestern states is the opinion of Clarence E. Edwards, who had an article on "Special Crops of the Northwest" in the last issue of the Review. In the course of his paper Mr. Edwards had the following:

"In the district comprised in the territory where Washington, Idaho, Montana and Oregon join, taking in 150,000 square miles, the wheat crop for 1908 was valued at $45,000,000, and the fruit from the same district was estimated at $16,000,000. It is predicted that wheat production in this vast territory will decline from this time on while fruit production will increase until it overshadows cereals."

"What irrigation and fruit have done for the Great State of California they are doing for the Northwest, this being evidenced by the great rapidity of settlement noted in Oregon and Washington, where the population has more than doubled in the last eight years. With the increase in population, comes necessarily, not only a decrease in the wheat area, but also an increase in home consumption, thus lessening the supply furnished the outside world from the surplus."

"These are the conditions to be found today in the empire lying on the eastern coast of the United States, from British Columbia to Mexico. These conditions are changing what each passing year, and the day is not far distant when all the grain raised in all that vast territory will be consumed at home and the world will be called upon to supply a deficiency."

Values of Fruit Lands.

A Hood River fruit grower was offered $25,000 for his nine acre apple orchard, of which 3 1/2 acres are in bearing, the remainder planted to young trees, principally Newtowns. The offer was made after the discovery that the owner last year received $4,300 from the bearing trees.

In the Wenatchee (Wash.) district five acres of bearing orchard were sold for $12,500. Regarding this latter sale the Spokesman Review comments editorially as follows:

"Transfers of this character have led to a misapprehension in the minds of many regarding values of fruit lands. The fact sticks in the public mind that five acres of land have been sold at $2500 an acre, and when that price is quoted to eastern people or newcomers they are naturally amazed and some of them question the soundness of such investments."

"The truth is that a large part of these values is covered by improvements, water rights, and close location. It takes a lot of labor, intelligence, knowledge and money to bring an orchard on to complete bearing, and these all enter into the going value of producing orchard."

"Usually, too, the transfer of improved 5, 10 or 20 acre tracts carries buildings worth several thousand dollars, implements, spraying outfits and numerous incidental articles that go with a productive orchard."

"When all these facts are considered and it is taken into consideration that productive orchards at going values pay handsome profits on the investment it is seen that what at first glimpse might appear to be extravagant values are in fact reasonable, and it is only here and there that an occasional owner can be induced to part with his holdings."

J. Adelan Epping, Wm. Stewart, J. Culbertson, C. P. Ross and J. Conwell will leave in a few days on a fishing trip to Southwestern Oregon. Their destination is forty miles south of Bend. They will go from there in Mr. Epping's automobile. The fish will be shipped back by freight, if more than 2,000 are caught.

Why Discriminate. Editor Glacier—I understand that at the last meeting of the City Council there was a petition presented signed by several very distinguished parties asking that $10,000 be taken from the funds to be realized from the sale of bonds for purpose of installing a water system and given to the owners of the old system now in use.

That is good as far as it goes, but it would seem that the men who signed that petition were very selfish. They should have included the several systems that are in use. Mr. Hatcher has a water plant that covers a large district. Mr. Cass has another that supplies a goodly district, besides several smaller plants. If those plants are to be bought on their merits the writer fails to see why there should be discrimination.

It would seem that the people who signed that petition in their selfish zeal have forgotten that there are others. If the move is to reimburse for the loss of business, I find that the Apple Growers Union have built an ice plant and are operating it to the detriment of an older institution, causing them a loss of business. By all means have the bond increased to cover that as well. Do not discriminate. Be sure and vote the bonds, but do not attempt class legislation. Treat all alike. By that I mean the people who buy as well as the ones who sell water.

Yours for fair play, Water User. P. S.—Don't forget to boil the water.

New Shoe Factory. J. C. Johnson, proprietor of The Toggery, has put in some new machinery for the manufacture of shoes. Mr. Johnson spent a good many years in the business of shoe making and thoroughly understands the making of shoes to order. There are many who cannot find ready made shoes to fit, and he is now prepared to fill special orders of this kind.

A large sewing machine for sewing the uppers and doing fine stitching on ladies' shoes he brought from Chicago, and he has added a heavy stitche which will sew the heaviest sole on a logger's boot, as well as the ordinary, single or fine hand turned shoe. This is the only machine of its kind in this part of the country.

A finishing machine is equipped with several grinding or sand papering wheels, a ribbed wheel for finishing the heel, two polishers. With this machine a new heel can be put on a shoe in five minutes and finished in much better shape than can be done by hand in half an hour. Mr. Johnson will also do all kinds of shoe repairing.
