HOOD RIVER OR CHICAGO—WHICH.

Every dollar spent in Hood River County is a Hood River County dollar. Don't forget it. Every dollar spent away is a dollar lost to Hood River County. Don't forget it. Hood River County dollars mean Hood River County prosperity. Don't forget it. Hood River County prosperity is OUR business. Don't forget it. The catalogue houses never returned a dollar to Hood River County. Don't forget it. A catalogue house never fixed a road or built a bridge in Hood River County. Don't forget it. A catalogue house never built a building or paid a cent of taxes in Hood River County. Don't forget it. Everybody knows who is building up Hood River County with Hood River County dollars, and also who is building up Chicago and New York with Hood River County dollars—it cannot be kept a secret. Don't forget it. No mail order house ever contributed one red cent toward the building and support of Hood River churches or school houses. No mail order house ever sold you a wagon or suit of clothes and spent every cent of its profits right in the community where you and your neighbors could get it all back again. No. The mail order house is after your money. Every dollar it gets its hands on will be jerked out of Hood River County forever. All the mail order houses in Christendom would not increase the value of your farm one cent. Wipe the little city of Hood River completely out of existence, (as some are trying to do) and fruit land in Hood River valley could be bought for considerably less than $1,500 an acre. Don't forget it.

BANNING THE APPLE-EATER.

We wish to warn the scientists that, notwithstanding the general benefits of their work, once in a while they go too far. Such is certainly the case in the recent pronouncement of Dr. Samuel Bailey, sometimes called the foremost physician of Iowa, with regard to the apple. He has put a ban on it.

If his words gain public credence, if the quality he has ascribed to the apple becomes fixed by experiment, the apple-eater, unless he confine himself to devouring it in private, will be exposing himself to a kind and quality of criticism that no man wishes to provoke.

Who, let us ask with hand on heart, wishes to eat an apple in private? It is one of its fine qualities that it can be bitten into with the limelight streaming on the operation, without loss of social dignity, or, alas, such was the ancient custom. The richest man in the town could walk down the street munching a one, red, juicy, fragrant apple—one of the kind that appeals to the nose, the eyes and the palate—and the only comment it would cause would be envy on the part of the less favored. For the matter of that, one of the richest men New York knew lunched on apples, though his taste was miserably rather than epicurean.

But, according to Dr. Bailey, apple eating will be fraught with social danger hereafter. He told the delegates attending the Iowa horticultural convention recently that apple-eating will not only abate the appetite for liquor but will cure any drunkard, provided the inebriate eats enough apples.

"As a rule," he continued, "the habitual user of alcoholic stimulants is rarely a lover or connoisseur of apples. There seems to be a peculiar combination in apples, possibly in the acid, that always or relieves so-called appetite for liquors."

"I am of the opinion that the keen appetite for tobacco is limited by the use of apples, and am convinced that any man who is a lover of whiskey and is in a condition when he thinks he must have a drink, even if he eats an apple, assuage his craving."

This is a terrible condition of affairs if a man not satisfied with one apple, as so many of us are constituted, eats two or three at a time and is betrayed by the cores, immediately the word goes around in that wonderful way which beats wireless telegraphy to a frazzle, that John Smith is a drunkard trying the selfsame. And if he is seen biting into only one apple, then he must be fighting the Demon Rum which is urging him to take just one drink. Either horn of the dilemma is sharp and long.—Bellingham Revue.

Weston has begun its fight for re-establishment of a normal school at that place and will initiate a measure looking to that end. Other parts of the state where normal heretofore existed will, no doubt, do likewise. Now what the people of this state ought to do in the face of this divided movement looking to restoring the old regime of four normal schools in Oregon is to inaugurate a one normal school movement and carry it through at the November election, at the same time voting down the other propositions. There is only one way to settle the normal school question and settle it right in this state, and that is to establish one first-class normal, and put ample appropriation behind it to make it the equal of any normal in the union in the work of equipping teachers for the best possible work in their chosen professions. Unless this is done we will be thrashing the normal school question over in each campaign, creating animosities and divisions that do not augur well for the state's best interests.

It is a question that could be settled for all time to come, settled wisely and well in the coming campaign. The people are ready for just such a movement as we suggest.—Eugene Register.

By a vote of 20 to 1 San Francisco decided to issue $15,000,000 in bonds to bring the city's water from the Hetch Hetchy Valley in the Sierras. At the same special election an issue of $25,000,000 to buy the plant of the Spring Valley Company was turned down.

Reports from Southern California are to the effect that the orange crop was damaged by frost to the extent of $1,000,000. Expert orchardists say that the unusual amount of snow here this year will result in a bumper crop of Hood River apples.

S. A. Pattison, publisher of the Central Point Herald, had the pleasure of being licked the other day by an ex-member of the town board, who did not like to have the truth published about him.

The last of this year's Hood River apple crop being on the way to New York, Oregonians must depend on Yamhill for their first-class fruit.—Oregonian.

LAWYERS OCCUPY METHODIST PULPIT

The first of the series of "Open Forum" discussions attracted a large audience at the Methodist church. Sunday evening Attorney Hartwig and Judge Derby were the speakers on the subject "Christianity from the Lawyer's Standpoint." Both of the speakers emphasized the fact that nearly all of the great lawyers had been followers of the Christian belief. Mr. Hartwig, who was the first speaker, spoke of the good influence which Christianity had over a lawyer in many temptations which beset him. In his remarks Judge Derby emphasized the close relationship of the law and the church especially in Equity. This he explained was due to the fact that the old English law was administered by the high officers of the church and it came to be interpreted according to the tenets of Christianity.

The "Open Forum" discussions will be continued for the next six weeks. Next Sunday evening the subject will be "Christianity and Civic Improvement." The speakers will be Revs. W. C. Gilmore and I. H. Ford, President Charles Hall and Secretary J. C. Skinner, of the Commercial Club, there will be music by the mandolin club and Mr. Skinner will sing. The mayor, city council, members of the Civic Improvement League and Woman's Club are especially invited to this meeting.

Two Tracts Sold in Upper Valley. The Apple Land & Orchard Company closed two large deals for orchard land last week, buying the 17 acre piece of A. A. Babcock and 72 acres from D. R. Cooper, both in the upper valley. The Babcock place has about 80 acres under cultivation a good portion of it being in orchard while the Cooper place has about 40 acres which has been devoted to apple and hay. It is the intention of the company to develop these places. The consideration in the transactions were not made public.

Big Ownership Map.

The Hood River Abstract Co., has published a new ownership map of the whole county on a large scale, which is the most complete Hood River valley map which has ever been put out. It is a blue print on white cloth, in eight sections, each of which is three feet square. Besides a map of the whole county each township or fraction of a township is shown on a convenient scale. All of the streams, railroads, irrigation ditches and roads are shown on the chart besides the names of the owners of each tract of land in the valley. The first shipment of the maps received Monday was exhausted that day but another bunch will be in this week. It is the intention of the company to keep its office copy of the map absolutely up to date by the daily entries of the real estate transfers until a new map will be published annually, bringing things up from now on.

Mrs. M. F. Shaw Dead.

Mrs. Elizabeth L. Wood Shaw wife of Dr. M. F. Shaw, died Friday morning at two o'clock at her home in this city. Although she was seriously ill but a few days, Mrs. Shaw had been in poor health for many years having suffered from neuritis. Mrs. Shaw was born in Metz, Ind., and was married in 1885. Dr. and Mrs. Shaw came to the Hood River valley about 12 years ago, having lived for a short time in eastern and southern Oregon before coming here. Mrs. Shaw was a member of the Congregational church. Besides her husband she is survived by her mother who lives in Angola, Ind., and a brother, Sol Wood, of Ft. Wayne, Ind. Short services were held at the residence Friday afternoon in the presence of a few friends. Rev. J. L. Hershner, former pastor of the deceased, preached and Mrs. F. E. Deem sang. Friday night the remains were taken to Angola, Ind., for burial. Dr. Shaw and Harry Wood, a nephew of the deceased, accompanied the body east.

University Club Dance.

The University Club gave a dancing party in the Odd Fellows' hall Friday evening which was very enjoyable for the members and their guests who were present to the number of about one hundred. The hall was prettily decorated with greens and yellow bunting, the University of Oregon being honored in the color scheme. Punch was served throughout the evening and a buffet luncheon of sand which and coffee was served about midnight. The dance which was planned as an informal was one of the most pleasant affairs of the season. There were a number of out-of-town guests among whom were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Spencer, M. J. Van Vorst, Miss Van Vorst, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Meines, of White Salmon; J. Hull, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Slade, Frank J. Fox and J. H. Dudley, of Houton; Miss Ethelwynne Harris and Miss Margaret of Portland; Miss Frances Nelson, of Albany; Bob Nelson of Rose Lodge.

A Question of Color.

The enormous difficulties of color terminology are illustrated by a customer's "exact statement of her requirements" in a large Deansgate establishment one day. "Something in blue taffeta silk, please. I don't want anything as dark as navy blue nor anything as light as Cambridge blue, but something darker than Eton blue and yet a little off from an electric blue and hardly a sky blue—more like a robin's egg blue and yet not quite so light, but not an indigo blue, but something like this that; I think they call it morning glory blue, which is something like a turquoise blue and yet not quite so light as that and yet not so dark quite as this aquamarine blue nor so light as baby blue. Now, if you have anything in the shade I have described, please show it to me." The intelligent assistant unrolled a length, a cross between the blue devils and the deep sea, with the remark: "This is the shade of blue you require, madam. It is called 'London milk'."—Dyer and Calico Printer.

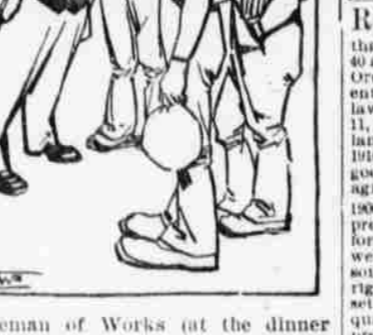

She Sympathized With the Gulf.

The bore stayed later than usual. "I had a queer dream last night," he said. "I dreamed I was sitting by a yawning gulf."

The pretty girl suddenly put her hand over her pretty mouth. "It must have been nearly midnight," she said.

Then he woke up and took the hint and his hat.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

His Confession.

She's such a dainty, winsome bit Of feminine humanity, Entirely unaware of it, And wholly free from vanity! I lost my heart when first we met, She was so sweet and squeezable—I own I haven't done it yet, It never seemed quite feasible.

But still she rules within my heart, And, strange peculiarity, She binds me to her by an art Without familiarity, I grow to love her more and more, Though I'm a husband dutiful, And, pray, who not? She's only four, And doesn't know she's beautiful.—Somerville Journal.
