WENATCHEE DEMAND IS NOT GRANTED

There is to be no change by the National Apple Shor in the rating of the Wenatchee apple as requested by Wenatchee. This is the ultimatum issued Thursday to the Wenatchee Commercial club by the board of directors, through the secretary, Ken H. Rice. When the Wenatchee people announced several weeks ago that they would not exhibit at Spokane unless the rating on the Winesap was raised to 10, the same rating which people began trying to find what the sentiment was among the other apple growing districts on the subject. The Winesap has already been raised to 8-9 from 7-8 and as the Newtown and Spitzberg are rated 9-10 and 10 respectively the Wenatchee folks were anxious to have their best apple on a par with the Oregon specialties.

A message was received by the Hood River Commercial Club and after consulting with Manager C. H. Sprout, of the Apple Growers Union, and other prominent apple men here, Secretary J. C. Skinner sent back the word that Hood River would not agree to the further raise of the Winesap rating. Other persons queried by Mr. Rice gave similar answers with the result that the Wenatchee demand was not acceded to. Whether the Washington district will carry out its threat of not exhibiting is not yet definitely announced but it is believed that they will come around and enter the show.

They Have a Definite Purpose.

I am again able to be up and attend to my work. I shall never hesitate to recommend them." For sale by C. A. Plath.

Johnson in Cold Storage.

Harry Johnson was on ice the other Sunday when the weather was very warm outside the cold storage plant. He did not mean to be and he became slightly ill from the effects because he did not take his overcoat along. Johnson placed his milk in the cold storage plant in the morning and in the evening when he went to get it somebody on the outside accidentally locked him in. He was in the cold room for about two hours and a half and if there had not been a call for ice about 8:30 he might have been there all night. When he was released he found his team had tired of waiting and run away.

College Men as Harvest Hands.

They have a custom in Denmark that is worthy of note. College undergraduates in that country are in the habit of spending their vacation, or part of it, by working in the harvest field. The undergraduate without money first engaged in this business. It was recognized by him as a healthful and profitable way of spending his vacation, and it was appreciated by the Danish farmer as furnishing high-grade labor. The custom has grown in favor until now the student with money as well as the one without it is to be found in the harvest field during vacation time. Harvest needs are made known to the various colleges and universities, and upon that information the assignments of labor are arranged. The result is expedition of harvesting, plus may better students.

To hope or imagine that in a country like the United States a similar custom could obtain generally is without the line of possibility. But, in the fact itself there is valuable suggestion for the individual student, and it might be for groups of students. It would be of unquestioned benefit to society if all college-bred men, or nearly all of them, could come in contact with the conditions which a life of hard labor imposes. Such an experience would really prove a broadening of the young college man's view. It would put him in close and intimate touch with the more common relations of life. It would tend to quicken his sympathies for the so-called common man. It would be a practical tuition in democracy that would result in physical health and vigor and in intellectual wholeness. It would beat dawdling away the vacation days at some summer resort or otherwise in idleness; with a future net gain to society at large which would be measured only by the extensiveness of the custom.—Bellingham Reveille.

Spelling and Prize Fighting.

In a spelling bee held at the National Education association at Cleveland O., two years ago, a team of Cleveland school children defeated all comers; Pittsburg second, New Orleans third. A negro girl, 14 years old was proclaimed champion of the world and she still wears the medal. She spelled correctly every word in the difficult test, 100 written and 400 oral words. The big race seems to be annexing all of the championships.
