Rev. E. A. Harris, who has been here as the temporary pastor of the Riverside Congregational church for the past three weeks, was given a unanimous call to the pastorate of the local church by the congregation at a meeting held following the service Sunday morning. Rev. Harris came the first of the month from Streator, Ill., and he has made many friends in Hood River and the people of the town and valley so that his acceptance to the call was immediate. Rev. Harris takes charge of the church at an increased salary, almost double the amount which was formerly paid by the church. He has a wife and four children and expects to shortly leave for Streator to close up his affairs and return to Hood River with his family. Mr. Harris will preach his acceptance sermon on "The Call and the Answer," Sunday morning. In the evening his subject will be "The Cost of a Man."
