

MOSIER.

Mrs. J. A. Mellquist returned home the first of the week accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Agnes Bell, who will visit relatives and friends in Mosier.

Orie Hodge was called to his old home in Rushville, Ill., this week on account of the death of his father.

Born, Wednesday, Nov. 23, a daughter, to Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Chamberlain.

A large number of Mosier people attended the Apple Show at Hood River Friday and Saturday bringing home reports of the beauty of the fruit display and the success of the general exhibit.

Mrs. L. L. Van Nortwick and two little daughters spent the latter part of the week with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dunsmore, returning to The Dalles Sunday afternoon.

R. D. Chandler and family left Monday for San Francisco, Cal., where Mr. Chandler has a position awaiting him.

J. K. McGregor left Monday afternoon to attend the Oregon Development League held at Salem this week.

Miss Alice Mosier spent Thanksgiving at home with her father and mother, returning Sunday to her school studies in The Dalles.

Miss Maude Bateham and friend, Miss Caroline Seal, spent the Thanksgiving holidays at the ranch in Mosier.

Mrs. V. L. Masten left last week for a visit with her parents in Portland.

H. M. Huxley spent Sunday with his family in Hood River.

Mrs. O. L. Craton went to Hood River the last of the week for a few days' stay with her mother.

The work of grading the street at the R. R. crossing was finished early Saturday afternoon. It makes a very nice appearance and is a great improvement.

H. G. Kibbee, Geo. Wright and D. C. Napper visited The Dalles Monday.

A pleasant dancing party was given in Stroup's Hall Saturday eve by Messrs. Littlepage and Dunsmore.

W. A. Davis returned Saturday evening from Waco, Tex., where he spent a very pleasant Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, known to Mosier people as "Uncle Jimmy and Aunt Nettie." They formerly owned the place now owned by C. A. McCann.

The first snow: All Mosier arose and looked out upon a white world Sunday morning: nothing more beautiful. Strange how loath we are to see winter come, yet when it is here, we are glad to and enjoy the change and beauty of it all.

CASCADE LOCKS.

Those of this town, who were awake early enough Sunday morning, had the pleasure of seeing about three inches of snow, but it melted rapidly and by noon there was but very little of it left.

Saturday night, H. Clay Levy gave a stag party for a few of his out of town friends.

Leslie Oliver, of Enderby, B. C., is spending a few weeks with his old friends in the Locks.

Miss Erna Yettick, who has been ill for a few days, is better.

The Ladies' Embroidery Club was entertained by Mrs. Frank Rogers last Friday. They worked diligently for a few hours, when a light lunch was served, but soon after the company broke up.

Clara Tompson, jr., was home to spend Thanksgiving holidays. He has been attending De Koven Hall, near Tacoma, Wash.

Miss Sybil Comer, of St. Mary's Academy, of Portland, spent the Thanksgiving holidays with her classmate, Miss Bertha Hendrick.

Jay Kinerly, of The Dalles, spent Saturday and Sunday with the Hendricks.

A very successful dance was given Saturday night by the committee for street lights. A light lunch was served in the hall.

Communication From Rae & Hatfield.

Editor Glacier—We note in your issue of November 17, an editorial comment, headed "Independent Shippers," which closes with an excerpt of an article credited to the New York Fruit & Produce News. The article appearing in the Produce News originally was untrue and libelous, and the necessary steps have been taken on the matter. We have pending against the editor of this paper an action for damages, which will come up in due course.

In writing this article, you evidently were basing your facts on the article appearing in the Fruit & Produce News under date of November 5, which, as above stated, was untrue and maliciously inspired by interested parties. To our mind for no other purpose than to prepare the growers who are shipping other than independently, for sales of their consigned goods, and shift the responsibility for low prices on receivers of independent consignments. It is true that there have been a good many carloads of apples sold at public sale, but these were from sections other than the Hood River, and while they undoubtedly had depressing effect on the market, yet there have been no Hood River goods sold by auction to date. We, as receivers of the bulk of independent consignments from Hood River, can vouch for this. As for the sales that we have made of consigned goods from Hood River, we are pleased to report that they have been satisfactory to those interested, and refer you to them in the substantiation of our statement.

We further venture to state that our F. O. B. net prices Hood River to our clients exceeded that of the Union year after year, and are fully confident that they will do so again this year. We think, however, it would be the better plan to await the results at the close of the season, and then compare the net prices F. O. B. Hood River for the Union and the Independent shipments to New York and allow the net results to speak for themselves, and then comment freely.

Yours for fair play,
Rae & Hatfield.

WHAT HOOD RIVER NEEDS TO BE BIG CITY

G. H. Hoyt, a successful real estate operator from Chicago, spent a day in Hood River recently as the guest of J. H. Heilbronner. Mr. Hoyt has had twenty years' experience in the real estate business, paying particular attention to townsite propositions and farming in the central states.

In speaking of Hood River Mr. Hoyt waxed very enthusiastic about the possibilities. "I have spent several weeks on this trip. My principal object has been to size up the great development work throughout the Pacific Northwest. I have always been more or less interested in farming and fruit growing, but the development of the apple industry in the Northwest states has been a great surprise to me.

Hood River, to my notion, is more attractive than any of the other districts that I have seen. What surprised me most is the lack of interest taken in the development of your town. My first impression of your town was a village of about 1500 inhabitants. After seeing the development in all sections of your valley and considering the logical location of your town as a permanent outlet for your business, I can see no reason why you should not have a thriving little city of 10,000 inhabitants within five years.

What you need here most is a monthly payroll that will employ the surplus help needed in the orchard during the fruit season. A cannery and fruit dryer would be an economic move for the town and valley. It would encourage the development of new crops that are little thought of at the present time. Even though your farmers only made a small profit on products sold to the cannery, it would give them an outlet for over ripe fruit and provide a safe-guard against large losses on crops that must be handled quickly. Your Hood River cider is finding a good market everywhere because the consuming public find it to be the best cider made. Why can't you do the same with the Hood River canned peaches or strawberries?

If you will make quality the standard the same as you have done with your apples, the Hood River label on everything will command attention."

PINE GROVE

The Ladies' Aid will meet for work at the home of the vice-president, Mrs. J. L. Davis, Friday afternoon of this week.

Rev. Crenshaw, our pastor, occupied the pulpit Sunday morning, preaching at Odell in the evening.

Mrs. Mildred Sweetland was a visitor in Salem last week, returning home Friday accompanied by Dr. Sweetland and his friend.

A. I. Mason is attending the Horticultural meeting in Portland this week.

The Thanksgiving exercises at school Wednesday afternoon of last week were excellent. There were many visitors present. Much credit is due the teachers for their efforts in making them so successful.

The reading by Mrs. Morrison Saturday evening at Grange Hall was very fine. Those who did not hear her missed a rare treat.

DUKES VALLEY.

Among those who attended the apple fair in Hood River Saturday were E. Roberts, Paul Hansen and family and J. W. Scott and family.

B. Henderson and Kenneth McKay returned from Portland, Saturday, where they spent Thanksgiving. Kenneth McKay is a member of one of the Multnomah football clubs which played a Thanksgiving game with the National Club of Portland, which resulted in the defeat of the Multnomah Club.

The mail carrier of Dukes Valley received an increase in salary so began work again for Uncle Sam the last of the week. Everyone is very much pleased. We trust we'll have the mail regularly all winter.

Mr. Salaberry was circulating a petition last week for the purpose of establishing a new mail route, starting from Newtown which received the hearty support of most of the people.

A Prophetic Vision.

The following is from J. K. McGregor, president of the Mosier Commercial Club, and was written November 16:

I see in a vision this bright Autumn day,

The judges all stop at your Eden display,

There is deep thought and study on brows lined with care.

But I did not fear for "The goods, they were there."

I see nods of approval from each judge so wise,

Then the electric word, "Winner," soared up to the skies.

I hear joyful words in your valley to-day,

"We have captured the sweepstakes, and here they will stay."

Our care, thought, and patience and unexcelled soil

Have made pleasure and profit out of wearisome toil,

Our apples, the winners, with color so bright,

The sweepstakes have landed, we're happy tonight!"

Your apples are King so treasure them art.

They will stand for aye in the World's greatest mart.

Hood River should stand in the ages to come,

The peer of all and second to none.
