NORTHWEST FRUIT CREATES INTEREST

"No one is in position to foretell the extent of the influx of capital and desirable settlers into the Pacific slope country as the result of the National Apple Shows in Spokane and Chicago, last fall, but it is not over-stating it to say that every district is bound to receive a hundred-fold for every dollar expended in making the expositions what they were. The shows confirmed the reports given in print or by word of mouth of the marvelous development of the apple growing industry and the rapid and substantial strides made in the Northwest." The foregoing is a portion of an extensive editorial devoted to the National Apple Show in the February issue of the Southern Fruit Grower, published at Chattanooga, Tenn.

"Perhaps the most significant result of the two apple shows," the writer adds, "is the wide-spread attention attracted to the commercial orchard districts of Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana and British Columbia. The expositions were gratifyingly successful and, taken in all, it was the best exploitation of the apple ever had, next to the story of its first appearance in the Garden of Eden. Moreover, the people of the Mississippi valley country and the states to the east, south and north have better acquaintance with the apple belts of the Northwestern and Pacific states than ever before." "The Chicago show, which was installed in the First Regiment Armory, was attended mostly by men and women who have money to invest and others who are looking for homes in the country. The carol displays, winners of the chief prizes at the Spokane show, headed by the grand championship car, exhibited by C. H. Sprout, of Hood River, Oregon, were viewed with interest by thousands who marveled at the color, size and uniformity of the fruit; but it is conceded that the district loathed were the centers of attraction, largely because of the fact that spectators were able to grasp the extent and importance of the fruit-growing industry in the Western states, through having the evidence in concrete form before them and listening to the talks by growers."

SPOILED THE ACT.

An incident that enraged the actor and amused the audience. Some years ago a melodrama was being performed in a country theater, the chief actor in which had made himself, from his haughty and overbearing conduct, disliked by all. In the last scene he was supposed to visit the tomb of his ancestors. In the center of the stage upon a marble pedestal stood the statue of his father. A heavy fold of drapery covered the figure. Enter Albert, who thus addressed the statue:

"I am here once again to gaze upon those features which in life so often looked on me with tenderest affection. Father, thy mourning son now comes to pay thee adoration. Let me remove the veil which from the vulgar gaze shields the beloved image of a once dear parent!" Off went the drapery, and behold, there was disclosed the statue of the father gracefully standing upon his head. The effect cannot be described. It was electric. The shouts of laughter which followed the mistake of the super effectually put an end to the scene, which changed to the next as quickly as possible amid the jeers of the audience, the anger of the manager and the uncontrollable rage of the actor.—London Telegraph.

THE PARISIAN CABMAN.

A Deadly Verbal Insult That Will Render Him Speechless. A discreet knowledge of slang is a very useful accomplishment for the stranger or the foreign resident in Paris. Thus if a cabman is rude or more than usually extroverted or if he splashes you with mud from head to foot as he passes and then turns around to grin at the damage done, and cochers frequently do these things, an inadequate command of the niceties of the French language leaves all the advantages on his side. You might call him "idiot" or "sauvage," but this would only tickle him. If, however, you were able to shout "Va donc, Collignon!" the result of the encounter would be at once wholly in your favor. To say "Collignon" to a cocher is the supreme insult. It leaves him gasping and further speech on his side useless. It is easy to understand why. Collignon was a coachman who as long ago as 1835 went to the house of a poor professor and murdered him because he had protested against an over-charge. It is satisfactory to know that Collignon was promptly tried, sentenced to death and guillotined. To this day, then, "Va Collignon!" remains the last word.—Paris Cor. New York Sun.

HEIGHTS NEWS

Sisco, of Wasco, who have been visiting the family of their nephew, Hubbard Taylor, returned home Monday. The Modern Woodmen have improved their property on Twelfth Street by building a new board sidewalk and trimming the trees on the lot. The Men's League, of the Baptist church, and the Push Club held a joint meeting last Thursday night at the reading room of the church and discussed the proposed annexation to the city that part of the Heights in the vicinity of the ball park. It was favored by all present. At the regular weekly meeting held Friday night in the Gill basement the Heights Push Club appointed a committee to secure some one to remove the garbage from The Heights. The present facilities for fighting fire were discussed. It was suggested at the meeting that the club co-operate with the Baptist church and secure a bell to be used jointly by the church and the fire department.

FRANKTON.

A. Whitehead was a guest of Robert Tazwell Sunday. Farley Elliott is about the proudest little fellow in this neck of the woods, having killed a coyote with a 22, Saturday, while out by himself on the bluff back of Mr. Colton's place. Miss Emma Noble gave a valentine party last Tuesday evening to a crowd of her young friends. A merry time was enjoyed by all. The la grippe has a fine hold on a goodly number of the people at Ruth-ton. Among those confined to the house are Mr. and Mrs. John Dickenson, Florence La Mar, Mrs. Chas. Merchant. John McCustian had a serious attack of heart trouble Saturday. He is at present with his sister, Mrs. Will Barton, of Hood River. Miss Nina Noble gave a linen shower to her friend, Miss Lizzie Eby, Saturday afternoon. The afternoon was merrily spent in chatting and partaking of a dainty lunch served by Miss Noble and Mrs. Wm. Trigg. Miss Eby received many beautiful pieces of linen. Beside the young friends of the bride-elect her mother, Mrs. Will Eby and mother-to-be, Mrs. O. Eastman, were present. We will tell the rest next week.

O. A. C. Club Organizes.

The Hood River O. A. C. Club completed its organization at a meeting Saturday afternoon. A constitution was adopted and the following officers elected: President, R. A. McCully; vice president, Mrs. Roy Brock; secretary and treasurer, C. F. Galligan. The club will have a charter roll of about 25 members, the majority of whom are graduates of the college. Similar clubs are being organized in nearly every county of the state for the purpose of assisting the alumni association in its work. If Dean Cordley and other members of the O. A. C. faculty can so arrange their time during the Institute in March, they will be the guests of honor at a "College Evening" given by the club. The club is also endeavoring to have the O. A. C. Glee Club make Hood River a visit during their tour in April. Two Injured in Runaway. A dispatch from White Salmon to Tuesday's Journal says that a broken line enabled the leaders of the White Salmon-Glenwood stage to successfully jackknife on the driver, caused a runaway which threw Robert Chubb, a passenger for Laurel, head first onto a rockpile, and Dick Kreps, the driver, on to the running gear, his life being saved by the vehicle striking a tree. Chubb is in a serious condition at the hotel and Kreps has three ribs broken. Another passenger escaped unhurt, but the big stage was completely demolished. Doesn't Require Magic. Closest—I saw a magician last night who made ten dollar bills disappear as though they had never existed. Spendit—Huh! I can do that.—Philadelphia Record. Perplexing. Territorial (his first experience as sentry, going over his instructions)—If any one comes along I say: "Halt! Who goes there?" Then he says, "Friend," and I say, "Pass, friend; all's well." But some silly ass'll say, "Enemy," and then I shan't know what to do. Rotten job, I call it.—Punch. Indignant. The mayor of a small town had come to Leipzig to see the fair. A stranger who had lost his way asked him: "Fray, good honest man, what is the name of this street?" "I am not a good honest man," said the former; "I am the mayor of Marburg."
