LITTLE THRUSTS OF THE YAKIMA.

In a recent issue of the Yakima Republic there was published a letter from "W. W. R.," evidently a citizen of the Yakima region, who had just made a tour of the Hood River Valley by automobile. We desire to thank Mr. "W. W. R." for his pleasing remarks on the beauty of our scenery, but we would like to call his attention to a few things he said. We want to do it gently, though, for from the gentleman's statements he is a warm blooded citizen and he may come over from his Yakima, paradise and lick us, if we get him riled--warm blooded people have been known to fight. We think he is warm blooded because of the following paragraph: "We spent Sunday very enjoyably touring the Hood River Valley in the automobile. We started in the morning for Cloud Cap Inn, at the base of Mount Hood, some 27 miles from here, but found, as we approached the snow-line, that we were crowding the season a little. We turned back, made camp and spent the heat of the day, which, by the way, was something fierce, on the banks of the river. We tried to be comfortable, but did not fully succeed. There is a sultriness in the summer atmosphere here which we do not have in the Yakima country. The temperature must have been well over 90 in the shade, and the quality of the heat reminded me of good old Nebraska."

We think "W. W. R." is warm blooded, we are, indeed, sure that he is warm blooded; for he is the first man that has ever found it sultry in the Hood River Valley. We've never had the pleasure of a visit to the Yakima country. It may be cooler there than it is here but we were a little surprised, after having read the statements of the autoist, when we read that the Yakima soil's temperature often reached a point as high as 140 degrees. That doesn't sound as if it were cool there all of the time. "W. W. R." took another little thrust at Hood River, when he said: "The Hood River Valley does not at the present time show the signs of prosperity to which we are accustomed in Yakima. Costly farm houses are the exception. There is nothing like the Nob Hill district here; nor, I think, is there any section of the valley of any consequence so well improved as much as that around Zillah."

We might have passed his statements up but for that one sentence, "Costly farm houses are the exception." If he had merely stated that the Yakima homes were palaces compared with the residences of our Valley we couldn't have questioned him, that is on our own authority, for as we stated we have never seen the homes of Yakima. But, when the gentleman makes the assertion that would lead one to believe the traveler rarely saw a beautiful and expensive home in touring the Hood River Valley, then we have to call his little bluff. It is only the blind tourist who passes through the Hood River Valley without remarking on the beauty and convenience of the many modern homes.

BUILDING ACTIVITY.

Since the beginning of Spring the dozen or more of public and business structures and residences that are being erected, or that have been completed, in this city give it an air of thrift and progress. Contractors and carpenters have found no idle moments. Within the past month work has been begun or completed on five public and business edifices. The Fashion Livery Co. has opened its big four story livery barn, which is the most up to date and best equipped structure of its kind in this part of the state. The exterior work on the new $50,000 passenger station of the O-W. R. & N. Co. is being finished. The concrete foundation has been laid for the two story brick building, the dimensions of which are 50 by 100 feet being built for C. H. Sprout. This building will be occupied by the furniture department of the Frane Hardware Co. The Hood River Apple Vinegar Co. found it necessary to increase the size of its building in order to accommodate the demand made on its recently installed soft drink department and an addition to the factory is now being made. The excavation was begun last week for the handsome Congregational church. A number of handsome residences are under way or have been completed. Such building activity is a source of pride to the home citizen and is noted with keen interest by the stranger who stops on his tour of the west in search of a location.

MISTAKES CAUSED BY CLIPPING.

Recent failures on the part of different newspapers in Washington and Oregon to give credit to contemporaries for editorials and news stories recalls an amusing incident that happened in Indiana several years ago. During a warm political campaign the editor of one of the papers of a smaller town of that state wrote an editorial that struck home so well that it was copied in many other papers and, as is often the case with editors, a number of the publications used the article as their own. On account of illness of the editor who had written the piece, his wife was forced to take charge of the paper for a few weeks. Happening on to the editorial in the paper that had given no credit for it, she clipped it, and used it as having come from the other paper when it had originally appeared in her husband's publication. In an issue of the Glacier several weeks ago an article concerning the Underwood pigeon farm "W. H. A. Hussey" was clipped by the Bingen Observer without due credit being given. Several papers the next week used the clipping, giving the Observer credit for it.

THE MUNICIPAL WATER SYSTEM.

The people of Hood River should and, from the expression of public sentiment, are rejoicing that the long dreamed of municipal water system, which will give them an adequate supply of water, has reached the state from which in a short time it will become a reality. Only the legal details, which in less than two months time will be completed, must be carried out before the ground will be actually broken for the installation of the new system.

The city council is to be congratulated on its action in bringing the matter to a point where the present owners and the city government are ready to submit the valuation of the property of the old system to a condemnation jury. Their action in letting the people voice their own sentiments at the special election called for Saturday, June 8, is wise. It is to be hoped, and will undoubtedly prove true, that the citizens will take the interest they have recently expressed and make the vote for the bond issue as nearly unanimous as possible.

The city authorities have begun a rigorous enforcement of the ordinance providing that automobiles must show rear and front lamps after dark. A number of prominent autoists have been arrested for a neglect in failing to observe the city's rules and, though the fines assessed in no case so far have amounted to more than the costs, the fear of a penalty will cause the owners of cars to use care in showing their lights.

BEAUTIFUL BOOKLET ENTITLED "MT. HOOD"

A beautiful booklet of poems, written by Mrs. Mary Alice Congdon and entitled "Mt. Hood, Our Indiana's Pal-To," was recently placed on sale at the local newsdealers. The booklet, which is handsomely illustrated with engravings depicting the wonderful mountain scenery, is dedicated to the Langille family, to whom she says she is indebted for her material. Mrs. Congdon is a native of Nova Scotia and a sister of Mrs. James Langille, the mother of City Recorder H. B. Langille.

Mrs. Congdon is in the city at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Norman Young, where she will spend the next two weeks. Sunday Game Will be Interesting. The Heights and League baseball teams will meet for their third encounter on the Columbia park Sunday afternoon. The game promises to be one of the most interesting seen in the city this year. Both teams have met with unusual success so far in games played with other cities. Out of the two former contests each team has a victory to its credit and the battle next Sunday will be a treat to the many local fans.

Sudden Death of Young Lady. The sad news was received here Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Dysart and younger daughter, who were there visiting Leslie Butler, Mrs. Dysart's father. The death of Miss Avis Dysart, the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dysart, who was stricken Saturday morning with heart failure, Miss Dysart, who is only twenty years of age, had just returned to her home at Centralia from college to spend the summer vacation. Accompanied by Mr. Butler, the family returned home as soon as they were able to get a train. Leslie Butler also attended the funeral services of his niece.

Injunction Stops Assessment Sale. Alleging that the city engineer and W. G. Aldred conspired to change the contract price for the improvement of State street, H. C. Deitz, F. E. Parker and M. H. Sharp have secured through their attorney from Judge Bradshaw an injunction stopping the sale of their property abutting on the street. The sale of the lots were advertised by the city because of failure to pay delinquent assessments levied for the purpose of paying the cost of grading and improving the street.

Glacier Ownership Maps. Up to date blue print, present ownership maps of the Hood River valley are for sale at the Glacier office. This map is in two sections, the lower and the upper valley. It has the roads and streams marked and the names of land owners written over their tracts. It will be sent to any address postpaid upon receipt of the price.

The east room in the Baptist Church is being decorated this week and will become the home of the primary department of the Sunday school. It is expected it will be ready for occupancy next Sunday. Commencing next Sunday a new system of lessons will be followed in the school. Mr. Hargroves is arranging the work for most of the classes. The purpose is to follow more closely the regular lines of school work with its demands and it is hoped the school may have the continued sympathy and support of the parents and friends.

Mrs. C. A. Plath entertained a number of the ladies of the city last week with an informal reception given in honor of her mother, Mrs. Matilda Glasco, of Los Angeles, who is here visiting her.

Mrs. W. H. Chipping entertained Monday evening in honor of her sister-in-law, Miss Nell Chipping. A number of stereopticon views of Alaska were shown and greatly enjoyed by the guests. Dainty refreshments were served.

One of the most elaborate social functions of the season was given last Thursday night by Mrs. W. P. McLaren and Mrs. Stanton Allen at the beautiful country residence of the McLarens. The music for the occasion was furnished by a Portland orchestra. Stith Thompson, who has been teaching in the Lincoln High School, in Portland, is here for a short visit. Mr. Thompson was a class-mate of James E. Montgomery at Butler College at Irvington, Ind. Chester Hurlburt, of Tacoma, was here yesterday visiting his old friend, D. G. Cruikshank. Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Moe and little daughters, Florence and Frances, will leave tomorrow night for a month's visit with friends in the Middle West. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will brace up the nerves, banish sick headache, prevent drowsiness and invigorate the whole system. Sold by all dealers. H. C. Smith left yesterday afternoon for Albany on a business trip.

THE PARIS FAIR The Store That Gives You the Best Values

Nelson Will Start Stock Farm. O. J. Nelson has bought the old Lucas ranch in Cedar Valley, Klickitat county, and expects to slowly make a stock farm of his holdings in that fertile region. It is the natural home of red clover and timothy, and with the abundance of water to be found all over the valley it will be known as a "Summer Heaven" for stock. Mr. Nelson leaves this week to visit the stockmen of the Oregon coast, country to be gone a week. The place was sold by Edward Abeling--Goldendale Independent.

Weygant Ceases to be Guide. Mark Weygant, who for the past ten years has spent his summers in guiding mountain climbing parties up the steep east side of Mount Hood to the summit, has retired from his hazardous undertaking and will take the position of ditch walker for the Glacier Irrigating Co. The veteran guide's place will be taken by George Miller, who has been his assistant and understudy for several years and who has come to know the regions of the ice fields and snow of the mountain side as well as his master.

HEIGHTS NEWS J. H. Gill, L. E. Taft and J. W. Taft left Tuesday morning for a several days' fishing trip on Lost Lake. The store of A. C. Staten was crowded last Friday and Saturday with customers who had come to witness the tea and coffee demonstration. The baseball game at Columbia Park Sunday between the Heights team and the O-W. R. & N. team, of Portland, resulted in a victory for the former, score 7 to 5. The game should have been shut out for the visitors, but the local aggregation failed to show up in its usual form. The Ladies Aid of the United Brethren church will hold their Ken-sington tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hartley. A good program has been prepared. For Sale--150 strawberry crates.
