DATE SET FOR OREGON APPLE SHOW

The annual apple show for Oregon will be held in Portland November 15-17, in connection with the annual meeting of the State Horticultural Society. Officers of the association are already at work upon the program for the exhibit, and hope to be able to make it public in time for the show to be advertised widely and to secure big representations from all of the Northwestern states.

The premium lists are nearly completed and will be mailed to fruit growers of the Northwest early in August. F. W. Powers, secretary of the State Horticultural Society, desires that everyone should be supplied with these lists and requests that those who have not received the catalogues of previous shows send their names to him at 308 in the Spalding building, so that they may be placed on the mailing list.

The Young People's meeting of the Baptist church on the Heights will not be discontinued during August as planned. The wisdom of the determination to continue unbrokenly was indicated by last Tuesday evening's meeting, one of the largest and most interesting of the season. On next Tuesday evening August 8, the gathering will take the form of a social on E. W. Ordway's lawn. Everybody invited.

Prof. E. E. Courson and daughter, Miss Geraldine Courson, of Portland, were here Monday and Tuesday, guests of Miss Lenore Adams, who was a music pupil of Prof. Courson last winter. True to Life.
"Oh, if ever I come across that artist! He calls his picture 'The Sleeper on the Bench' and has put a volume of my poems in his hand."—Flegende Blatter.

Did You?
Did you ever whistle merrily as you combed your hair on the morning after the night before?—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

In Praise of Eloquence.
An Alabama negro was defended in court by Senator Morgan. Having cleared the negro of the charge, the senator said to him, "Rastus, did you really steal the mule?"
"Well, Marse Morgan, it was just like this," said Rastus. "I really thought I did steal dat mule, but after what you said to the jury I was convinced I didn't!"—Success Magazine.
