TROUBLESOME MAN FINED FOR ASSAULT

Albert Langsdell, who was arrested Saturday night on the Heights by Night Watchman Hicks, was found guilty of assault and battery Monday morning by Justice of the Peace A. C. Bock and assessed a fine of $50 and costs. Langsdell first became a trouble maker last Wednesday night. He had taken lodgings at the Ledgerwood lodging house on Oak street. He refused to pay for this room and Mrs. Ledgerwood, the proprietor of the place, called on the night watchman to eject him. However, he returned about 10 o'clock and after abusive language stepped from the building and hurled a stone through an upper story window, breaking a number of panes of glass.
He escaped from the city and nothing more was heard from him until Saturday, when he assaulted R. S. Hall on the county highway near the Gulgnard & Rosiger orchard. A warrant was sworn out for him and the city officer, Hicks, accompanied by Constable Olinger, found him on the Heights and the former made the arrest.
Langsdell attempted to escape from the city prison Monday morning. He broke by Marshal Lewis and was making away, when the officer was forced to fire at him in order to bring him to a halt.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Enoch Brayford
Mrs. Enoch Brayford passed away August 6 at 6 A. M. at the Cottage Hospital of this city. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the Bartness chapel and the body was interred at the Idlewild cemetery.

JACK RAND, PIONEER, DIES FROM LOCKJAW

Jack Rand, a pioneer of this county, died yesterday morning at his home on the old East Side grade from lockjaw, which resulted from an injury received last week when Mr. Rand stepped on a rusty nail while walking near his home. Mr. Rand, who was born at Ravenswood, West Va., February 14, 1828, and moved to this state in 1887, was one of the earliest homesteaders of this community. He fled on a claim on the shores of Lost Lake before it was placed in the National Reserve. He moved to his country home on the East Side, where his death occurred, in the year of 1890.
The deceased was married twice. He was married the second time on March 10, 1895, to Mrs. John Rand, the widow of his brother. In addition to his wife he leaves surviving four sons, the children of his first marriage, Charles Rand, of Minneapolis; Andrew Rand, of Cortelyou, Wash.; Marvin Rand, of The Dalles; and Ed. Rand, sheriff of Baker county of this state.
Funeral services will be held at 2:30 today by Rev. J. B. Parsons at the U. B. church after which the body will be interred in Idlewild cemetery.

GEORGE S. McLAREN DIES FROM POISONING

Mr. McLaren was taken ill while returning to Seattle from Tacoma and hurried to a hospital as soon as he arrived there.
Mr. McLaren, who has made frequent visits here with his mother, Mrs. Harriett McLaren, and sisters, Miss Mary McLaren and Mrs. Stanton Allen, is well known to Hood River people. He was the news of his death came as a great shock. The deceased leaves surviving a wife and two sons.

BALL GAME, CIRCUS, SUNDAY AMUSEMENTS

A Puritan father of the old New England days, living under the strict "Blue Sunday" laws of the early period, would undoubtedly have been shocked could he have arisen from the grave and appeared on the streets here Sunday, when the gay crowds from Camas and Vancouver, Wash., who came here on the excursion boat, Kellogg, mingled with the local residents and listened to the band concert of the Lewis & Clark circus at noon. A circus in Hood River on Sunday is rather a novelty and the unusual band music at the noon hour just as the morning services of the churches were closing created a peculiar interest among the people.
Amusements for the day were plentiful. The wild west show gave an afternoon and evening performance and at 2:30 in the afternoon the Camas baseball team met the local aggregation from the lower city. The game resulted in a tie. Nine innings were played and the Camas boys had to leave for the wharf to catch the homeward bound boat. It is stated that the Washington lads, who have met with unusual success on the diamond this season, are arranging for a series with the local team.

Dr. and Mrs. Robertson, of Moscow, Idaho, were the guests last week of Prof. and Mrs. L. F. Henderson, Dr. Robertson is at the head of the Civil Engineering department of the University of Idaho.
