ATTITUDE TOWARD ATHLETICS.

So great has the interest of the students of the high schools and colleges of the country centered in the yearly athletic events that a clearly defined re-action is taking place. While no one disputes the benefits of healthy sports and the greater ease with which a man or woman physically fit copes with the mental problems of life as compared with the individual weak in body, the tendency of the American youth has been toward the attitude of the hero worshiper, and the athlete has been the hero. Scholarship, while always a thing to be proud of, has unwittingly been lost sight of. The athletic events have been made the great events of the year and the participants have been made the popular idols of their fellows.

But the attitude is changing, as it should, athletics are not to be despised. Manly sports are rather to be encouraged, but from a sane viewpoint. Games with rival institutions have their worth from the fact that they increase college spirit and loyalty and aid in the building of patriotism. The idea, however, that the main thing in a scholastic career is to become an athletic hero, has been found to be a perverted one. The position has often been an asset, or might well have been made one, for the fortunate possessor. But many times the devotion of time toward attaining it has soled from other things that he has been unable to make use of the advertising which it has given him.

The change in attitude is being manifested everywhere. Only last week the ruling of the local school board was an evidence. The predominant sway of athletics has been noticed by patrons, who have come to demand that their children should have other ambitions than those along athletic lines. The wise student is he who endeavors to strike the happy medium of the ancient Greek and to participate in sports enough to increase his bodily strength and at the same time give greater capacity to his mental powers.

APPLE TREES IN VACANT LOTS. Of course residents of the Hood River Valley never notice the ragged apple trees of a number of vacant lots in the edges of the city. They have become accustomed to them. They know how carefully tended are the orchards of the Valley and the possible significance of the unkempt vacant lots never sinks in. Yet how different is the impression of the visitor to the Valley. He may often be too polite to say anything but he doubtless never fails to think it very strange that an apple growing community should allow to be exhibited to the public such stunted specimens of the industry.

Carlisle Ellis, the writer who was recently here securing data for an article in Everybody's magazine, frankly expressed his surprise that uncultivated and uncared for tracts were allowed to exist. While the matter is not very serious, for the greater portion of the travelers to the community penetrate the wonderful regions of the Valley and soon forget the vacant lots, still some casual visitor, who may decide to take a walk into the outer edge of town, will be poorly impressed with the sight. If the lots are properly cared for, it will remove material from which visitors are justified in being prone to poke fun at us.

BROTHERS PLAY ON OPPOSING TEAMS

The Hood River baseball team re-deemed itself here Sunday when they defeated the Vim team, of Portland by a score of 11 to 2. This was very gratifying to local fans because of the fact that the Vim boys beat the crack Gresham team, the members of which played it on the local boys so heavily Sunday before last, by a score of 9 to 1.

Of the peculiar interest in Sunday's game was the playing of the Myers brothers. Frank Myers, well known to local fans, pitched for the home team, while one brother, Billie Myers, umpired the game and another brother, Charles Myers, played second base on the opposing team. It was a critical moment when the brother, a member of the Vim team, was at the bat. Three other of the Myers brothers, all of whom, with the exception of Frank, reside in Portland, visited here over the week end. The other brothers were: H. J. Rudolph and Ed. Myers.

Bear's Foot Creates Mystery. A small boy while playing in a vacant lot on the Heights last Saturday discovered what at the time was supposed to be a human hand. The object was brought to the city prison and turned over to Marshal Robert Lewis. Indeed, it bore every resemblance to the hand of a human body, and in order to account for it, those who examined it were working out some weird tragedy. A peculiar feature of it was that not one of the fore knuckles remained. However, the mystery was explained when a Heights taxidermist called the marshal and explained that it was a bear's foot that he had thrown away. Some one had brought him the skin that he might mount it. He had removed the fore knuckles in order to save the claws of brain.

WILLIAM LADD FINDS LONG LOST STICKS

After lying on the wind-swept summit of Mount Hood for more than 50 years, a fir stick, known by W. L. Ladd, one of the first persons to make the ascent of the mountain, has been recovered and is held at Cloud Cap Inn. The stick was found by William S. Ladd, son of William M. Ladd, who returned a few days ago from an outing at the base of the mountain, in which this party with Guide Miller climbed the mountain and explored several points just below the summit. It was on this trip August 8 that Mr. Ladd and his friend, Kingman Brewster, came upon the stick which attracted their attention because of the markings on the end.

The party had been tramping about on the summit for several hours, now and then climbing down the mountain for a short distance in an effort to find new trails. They made the descent on the Portland side. Mr. Ladd said there was little snow on the summit this year, which accounts for the fact that the stick has not been found by other climbers. There is, however, he said, an abundance of snow on the lower part of the mountain.

The original owner of the stick, W. L. Ladd, was a member of a party consisting of H. L. Pittock, George T. Myers and William Stephenson. Each man cut a trough from a fir tree in the timber line and the boughs were trimmed down to stout sticks to assist in climbing over the snow fields. On the return trip it was decided to leave the sticks as souvenirs of the climb. Each member of the party thereupon carved his name and the date on his stick and buried it in the snowdrifts. The same plan was followed on a trip made to the summit by a party of five in 1855. It was composed of H. L. Pittock, David Powell, William Stephenson, James Deardorff and Lyman Chittenden. The stick which Mr. Pittock left at the time was found by David Powell, in 1874, who presented it to Mr. Pittock. It was kept in Mr. Pittock's office in the Oregonian building on Front street, but during the flood the following year it was lost. -Oregonian.

CAPTURING RATTLES PLEASANT RECREATION

Colonel Henry Yule, the last of the two soldiers in Klickitat who marched with the late General Sherman in the "march to the sea," is living on a homestead in Cedar Valley, says a dispatch from Lyle to the Oregonian. For diversion and amusement from Cedar Valley farming, the Colonel occasionally captures rattlesnakes and turns them over to an agent at Blockhouse, who is making a collection for an Eastern show.

Describing a recent capture of two snakes, Colonel Yule said: "The two were evidently mates, from the number of rattles each possessed. They held their heads erect, and were ready to strike. After much effort, I caught them and turned them over to Agent Kinder at Idle Rest, near Blockhouse."

As the Klickitat country becomes settled, the rattlesnake is disappearing. At Wrights, when Homer C. Campbell was building Klickitat's first railway, the blast of a "coyote hole" threw out 80 rattlers to their death. Today the rattlesnake is rarely seen along the railway on the Klickitat River.

Delightful Dance at Allen Home. The beautiful bungalow home of W. B. Allen in the Oak Grove district was the scene of a delightful dancing party last Friday night, when Miss Belle Layman, of Indianapolis, and Miss Alice Bixby, of Ohio, the guests of Miss Dorothy Dorsey, were the guests of honor. Mesdames W. B. Allen, C. Allen and Miss Mary Allen were assisted in receiving by Miss Dorsey and her mother, Mrs. W. H. Dorsey. Those enjoying the pleasing events were: Mrs. C. N. Rabin, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Heilbroner, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Coffin, Dr. and Mrs. Malcolm Bronson, Mr. and Mrs. Walton A. Green, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hall, Miss Mary Montgomery, Miss Mary Knight, Miss Eula McCully, Miss Thomas, of Topeka, Kans., Miss Constance Henderson, Miss Lucy Cutler, Miss Bess McCrea, Mrs. Bronson, Dr. Bronson's mother, Fred McCrea, Joe McCrea, James E. Montgomery, Phil Beebe, Geo. Blodgett, Don Brunson, Frank and Anna Cutler, David Currier, Russell McCully, H. P. Coburn and Joe D. Thomson.

Delicious fruit punch and refreshments were served.

Narrow Escape in Runaway. While J. C. Earle was placing some bundles in his vehicle in front of the Hood River Market Tuesday evening about six o'clock, his Hambleton mare suddenly became frightened for some unknown reason and ran away up Third street toward State, dragging Mr. Earle at the side of the vehicle.

He was thrown from the buggy as the rig swung west in State street and was hurled to the ground, although he sustained no more serious injuries than a few slight bruises. The horse continued on a circuit until it drew the rig into a telephone pole in front of Gilbert Vaughan Company's place of business. The vehicle was demolished. The buggy is considered a hoodoo. This spring a team belonging to W. G. Ingram, of the Upper Valley ran away with it. In addition to sustaining a monetary loss for the cost of repairing the vehicle, Mr. Ingram was slightly injured at the time of the accident.

Ritz-Failing. H. C. Ritz, who recently came here from Walla Walla to assume the assistant editorship of "Better Fruit" was married in Portland Tuesday evening to Miss Katherine Failing, who is a sister of Mrs. E. H. Shepard, of this city. Mrs. Ritz has made a number of visits here and is well known to Hood River people. Mr. and Mrs. Ritz will make their future home here on Columbia street.

Mr. Ritz has had long experience in practical apple culture. For the past few years he has been engaged in work in the orchards near Walla Walla. For a number of years previously he was associated as fruit expert with the Hermiston Land & Irrigation Co.

We wish to call the ladies attention to our excellent line of corsets. We have a corset to fit every figure and at a price to fit every pocket-book. We carry a very large stock and can fit you properly in a corset that will give you comfort, health and satisfaction. We call your special attention to our line of celebrated Nemo Corsets, descriptions of a few of the numbers we give below:

No. 200-Nemo solid service corset for all average figures, has Nemo dress adjustable device, four hose supporters, white coutil or batiste, sizes 19 to 30. Price $2.00

No. 208-Nemo solid service corset with crossed hose supporters in suspender effect, for tall, slender figures, white coutil or batiste, sizes 18 to 30. Price $2.00

No. 318 Nemo self-reducing corsets for short-waisted stout figures, low bust and under arms, skirt of medium length with flattening back effect.

four Lasticops hose supporters, of coutil or batiste, sizes 19 to 36. Price $3.50

No. 320-Nemo self-reducing corset for tall and medium stout figures, higher bust and under arms, flattening back effect of coutil or batiste, sizes 19 to 36. Price $3.50

No. 305-Military belt corset for slender and medium figures, made with the Nemo military belt, medium bust, long skirt, four Lasticops hose supporters of fine white coutil or batiste, sizes 19 to 30. Price $3.50

The construction of No. 305 gives slender lines below the waist but plenty of space above, thus inducing deep and healthful breathing. Very popular with athletic women and those who are fond of outdoor exercise.

We know that we can please you in the line of corsets and have them in different makes from a 50c corset up to a $5.00 one.

Mt. Hood R. R. Co. Enlarges Yards.

The Mt. Hood Railroad Co. is laying a spur track on the right hand side of the main line leading into its local yards. The road will be used for taking engines to a new round house to be constructed for added equipment. At a later date, at the beginning of next year, perhaps, the Oregon Lumber Co. will install a local retail yard, which will be located along the new track.

Street Lights for Heilbroner Building.

For the convenience of the tenants of the building as well as pedestrians, J. H. Heilbroner, owner of the Heilbroner block at the corner of Third street and Cascade avenue, will place street lights in front of the structure. The lights, which will be of a high candle power, will be placed as follows, one at the Third street entrance to the upper office quarters and the ball room, one at the Cascade avenue entrance and the other at the corner in front of the 5, 10 and 15 cent store.

A Great Advantage to Working Men.

J. A. Maple, 125 S. 7th St., Steubenville, O., says: "For many years I suffered from weak kidneys and a severe bladder trouble. I learned of Foley Kidney Pills and their wonderful cures so I began taking them and sure enough I had as good results as any I heard about. My backache left me and to one of my business, expressman, that alone is a great advantage. My kidneys acted free and normal, and that saved me a lot of misery. It is now a pleasure to work where I used to be a misery. Foley Kidney Pills have cured me and have my highest praise." C. A. Plath.

More Students for Training Course.

In order to secure for the local high schools on the first day numbered 600, this list will be increased when it is ascertained what number has registered since then.

First Christian Church.

Subject of discourse next Sunday morning, "Intimacy with Jesus." In the evening Rev. Handsaker will deliver a popular lecture. Subject: "Uncle Sam's Golden Calf." Mrs. Todd will sing at the evening meeting.

The revival at Odell is attracting a great deal of interest. A large number is being erected south of E. T. Folts' residence, that will accommodate the entire community.

Clark-Merrick.

Russell O. Clark was married last Thursday evening at the United Brethren parsonage by Rev. J. B. Parsons to Miss Irma Merrick. The young couple left immediately for the Wallamette Valley for a short honeymoon.

The Ladies Aid Society and Brotherhood of Grace Church have undertaken to supply Hood River with a course of lectures and musicals of the highest class, for the fall and winter of 1911-12. Their efforts should meet with the unanimous support of the people of Hood River. The first number will be the Hon. Victor Mordock, M. C., Wichita, Dist. Kansas, who has been so prominently before the people in his fight with organized dishonesty and greed in governmental affairs. Mr. Mordock will speak here September 21. V. C. Brock was a Portland visitor Tuesday evening.

Lloyd Moss arrived from Hudson, Wis., last week and has taken up his residence in Central Vale.

The Order of the Eastern Star will resume its regular meetings next Tuesday evening.

Inclined to Be Suspicious. "You are one of the oldest conductors on our line," said the traction magnate.

"Yes, sir. I have been in your service nearly thirty years."

"Well, it's queer you have not wished to fit yourself for something better than being a mere conductor. You surely have 7-8 times when you were not on duty to study and read."

"Oh, I have read and studied, but it appears if I had wasted my time. I suppose if I had paid less attention to the subjective mood and more to practical things I should long ago have reached a much more important position than that which I hold."

After the conductor had gone the magnate mused in silence for a while and then, turning to his secretary, asked: "What do you suppose he meant by the subjective mood? Has it anything to do with labor unions?" Chicago Record-Herald.
