Mr. Fruit Grower!

If you are contemplating increasing the size of your orchard you should be careful in the selection of your trees, for without the proper type of trees to start with, you cannot hope for the success you deserve.

The True-to-Name Nursery has furnished the larger portion of the trees for the most profitable orchards of Hood River, the orchards that have in later years produced the prize winners were from trees grown by the True-to-Name Nursery, including the prize winning car of Yellow Newtowns at the National Apple Show at Spokane. The trees that we have to offer are not "pedigreed" nor "thoroughbred," but are of the type that have produced results that speak for themselves. Our years of practical experience in the nursery business is a safeguard against mistakes and should be a sufficient recommendation to merit your confidence.

It will pay you to examine our stock; write us before placing your order. Address all communications to

COURT RECEIVES VERDICT PRICE

BOND ORDINANCE STILL UNSIGNED

Mayor Fails to Attend Monday Evening Meeting of Council--Batchelder Wants an Injunction.

By action taken at an adjourned meeting of the city council last Thursday night the city drew warrants to the extent of $32,441, which have been delivered into the hands of the circuit court clerk, W. E. Hanson, in order that the city take over the water plant of the Pacific Power & Light Co. and receive the revenue derived from it. Mayor Hartwig, who was reported to have refused to sign the warrants, stated in a long message to the council that reports of his refusal to sign the warrants should have been modified by the addition of statements to the effect that he desired further time to deliberate over the matter. He made his signature to the warrants provisional on the unanimous favorable sentiment of the councilmen for the warrant procedure. However, immediately on the receipt of his message the council unanimously passed such a resolution.

Mayor Hartwig stated that according to a decision of the Supreme Court of the state in the case of the National Sumpter, under circumstances practically similar to the local situation, decided that a mayor was not a mere automation and that an official has no legal right to put into circulation a commercial paper by which any holder may be injured for want of funds to pay same.

The mayor further stated, in his Thursday evening communication, that he still protested against the issue of the $30,000 water bond issue from Ulen & Co. to Morris Bros. He said: "In this connection I would also like to call the attention of the members of the council to the advisability of re-advertising the $30,000 bond issue together with the added amount necessary to take over the water plant, as said bonds may be sold at a lower rate of interest."

However, an ordinance providing for the transfer of the bond sale was on its final passage. Up to yesterday the mayor had refused to sign the ordinance. He says that the city will not be able to do any work on the municipal water plant this winter, and that it should take advantage of a sale of the bonds, when a smaller rate of interest and perhaps a premium may be secured. "The rate of six per cent on bonds in effect makes individuals pay eight per cent on loans. Why should not a city with the prestige of Hood River secure a bid of five per cent on a sale of its bonds and thus enable its citizens to secure loans for seven per cent at least," said the mayor.

Other important action at the Thursday evening was the adoption of a report of the Street committee providing for the opening of a street from the warehouse of the Apple Growers' Union to the Hood River Apple Vinegar Company's plant. The city marshal was ordered to consult with the city attorney for action necessary for the abatement of nuisances. The Judiciary committee was instructed to bring in an ordinance providing for work to be placed at the city limits warning automobilists against a speed of fifteen miles an hour.

It was hoped by other members of the council that the mayor would make some statement at the Monday night meeting of the council as to his attitude on the signing or vetoing of the bond ordinance. However, when the council met, the mayor was not present. When it was seen that he would not arrive, J. M. Wright, president of the council, took the chair and it was decided that the body should adjourn until Thursday night, when an adjourned meeting would be held.

When seen yesterday morning relative to his absence from the Monday evening session, Mayor Hartwig stated that he understood there would be no quorum present. The business of the evening was of no great importance, he said.

The mayor attended a moving picture show during the evening. At the time the decision was made to hold an adjourned meeting Thursday evening all of the members of the council were present, with the exception of J. E. Robertson, who came later.

J. F. Batchelder was circulating among the business men of the city yesterday morning a petition, or rather a contract, asking that money be donated toward defraying the expenses of hiring an attorney to institute injunction proceedings against the sale of the $30,000 water bond issue to Morris Bros.

Judge Bradshaw received the order of the verdict of the court for his signature last night. As soon as he signs this, the city will assume control of the water plant.

At a recent meeting and re-organization of the student body of the local high school, the high school boys and girls made a strong protest against the action of the city school board in raising the standard of scholarship to be maintained by those participating in athletics from a weekly grade of 75 per cent to that of 80 per cent. By a unanimous vote the board was asked to reduce the grade of that to the old standard.

The school board, however, according to one of its members, Dr. H. L. Dumble, will retain the 80 per cent standard. "The high school students should not think that we are opposed to athletics," said Dr. Dumble, "for no one believes more than we do in the benefit of sports properly conducted. But we consider that no student, who does not maintain a standard higher than 80 per cent should spend time on the athletic field."

DARING HORSE THEFT AT CAMAS PRAIRIE

Poses of men, composed of county officials and residents of the Camas Prairie district of Klickitat county, Washington, aroused at the daring theft of a pair of large bay draft horses, property of Contractor Burtleson, who will dig the big ditch draining Camas Prairie district No. 1, have been scouring the regions adjacent since Tuesday night, Sept. 12, for the culprits. Mr. Burtleson for the purpose of carrying out his large contract brought in a number of teams. The boys stolen were said to be worth more than $700, the most valuable pair of horses in the bunch.

It is thought that the theft was committed by persons familiar with the camp of the contractor's crew and who were well acquainted with the surrounding country. The horses were taken from the barn at midnight. It was possible to follow their tracks for about six miles toward the Columbia, when the trail became lost at a cross roads. The thieves or thief then turned either to the east and headed for the Yakima country or went west into the headwaters of the Lewis River.

The sheriff of five adjoining counties were notified and have been conducting an organized search. It is possible that arrests will be made soon. It seems that within the past several weeks a number of horses have been stolen in the vicinity. During the Indian races at Trout Lake the horses of several visitors were taken, among them was that of Editor Dunclich, of the White Salmon Enterprise. The theft of the Burtleson boys has left the impression among the residents of the community that the work has been that of an organized band. The contractor has offered a reward of $250 for the arrest of the thief.

FORGER ACQUAINTED WITH LOCAL AFFAIRS

Additional cases of forgery on banks here which came to pass in New York last week, demonstrate that New York banks are easy for the man with nerve.

Two forgeries for $1,500 each and one for $8,750, which netted the forger $3,750, were reported to the National Surety Company a few days ago.

Judging from the facility with which the forgers—who are not believed to be connected in any way, but to have worked entirely independent of each other—got away with the money it might almost seem a pity for any man to plod along, working hard for a living, when banks in New York are bursting with money they appear to be only too happy to let out.

For instance, last Friday a nice-looking man walked into one of the biggest national banks in the city and introduced himself as James H. McCann of Hood River, Ore. He had a cashier's check on the Butler Banking Company of Hood River. That happens to be a correspondent bank of the New York concern.

Hood River is where nice-looking angles come from. Mr. McCann introduced himself to the cashier. He knew everybody connected with the Hood River Bank, and talked apples, crops, and weather, and made himself agreeable. He had a check for $8,750 which he wanted to deposit with the national bank here to open an account. He was not in need of any money, but would like to deposit the check for collection and safekeeping. He was stopping at the Plaza.

Well, of course anybody would accommodate so affable a man, especially when he didn't want any money. Just wanted his cashier's check taken care of. So this stranger, with no other introduction, opened an account for $8,750 with one of the largest banks in New York and went his way. There is several hours' difference in time between Hood River, Ore., and New York. When it was noon here last Monday the Hood River Bank was just opening its doors. The cashier's check had just been received there when the day's business was half over here. They did not think of that at this end of the line, but when Mr. McCann walked in Monday morning here and drew his check for $8,750, they paid it without a murmur. A few hours later they got a hot wire from Hood River informing them the check was forgery. Of course the poor forger loses the $8,000 balance he still has to his credit.—New York Globe.

SPOKANE RECEIVES FIRST ENTRIES

The first entries for the Fourth National Apple Show have been received at headquarters in Spokane. Six carloads are contained in the first entries, says a dispatch to the Oregonian.

One carload of Jonathans is entered by Latah County, Idaho, through Secretary P. L. Orcutt, of the Moscow Commercial Club. Rome Beauties, enough to fill a car, are entered by the Wrightville Fruit Farm in the Lake Chelan county. R. P. Wright, the owner, took the highest number of prizes of any individual, county, district or state at the 1908 show. He took also the first prize on Rome Beauties last year.

J. F. McCurdy, of Parker, Wash., enters one carload of Stayman Wine-saps. McCurdy won first prize for the mixed carload in 1909. Three cars of wine-saps are listed by H. M. Gilbert, of North Yakima and Toppenish. With five or six cars entered last year Gilbert made a good showing. In 1908 he was beaten by Chelan County for the sweepstakes.

The Yakima Valley Fruitgrowers' Association, Naches and Selah, also will exhibit for district prizes.

C. C. CARPENTER KILLS BIG WILD CAT

C. C. Carpenter, who recently purchased the Howard place in the Pine Grove district, killed a large wild cat in his back yard Tuesday night. The big feline measured more than 48 inches from tip to tip and was of a grayish color. Mr. Carpenter slew the brute with a 22 rifle. The bullet went entirely through its head. When shot the animal was not more than ten feet away from the back door of the Carpenter home.

It is supposed that the cat was prowling in the back yard preparatory to raiding the rancher's chicken roost. It was seen near the house in the day time not long ago by Mr. Carpenter's cook.

DIRECTOR'S ELECT RETIRED LAWYER

H. G. KAUFMAN SUCCEEDS SKINNER

Former Illinois Citizen Will Handle Commercial Club Publicity—City Needs a Pay Roll, He Says.

At a meeting of the board of Directors of the Commercial Club held Tuesday afternoon, H. G. Kaufman, formerly an attorney of Oregon, the county seat of Ogle county, Illinois, was elected to the secretaryship to succeed J. C. Skinner, whose resignation takes effect the first of next month. Mr. Kaufman, with Mrs. Kaufman, arrived in Hood River in April. Mrs. Kaufman says that the Hood River Valley, the fame of which came to Mr. Kaufman through a box of its apples, was really the cause of his coming west.

"Hood River Valley by well selected advertising has become well known throughout the East and Middle West," said Mr. Kaufman, when asked as to the policies he would suggest for the club's publicity work, "and this advertising should be judiciously continued. The greatest work of the publicity manager for this community should now be toward finding new markets for the distribution of its products and in keeping Hood River before the public eye."

"It should be one of the duties of the club to carry on the work of encouraging the improvement of the Valley homes and progress of the city. The town of Hood River to grow needs new manufactures, a payroll. We have a limited field for this kind of work, but we should take advantage of every opportunity of secure factories."

Mr. Kaufman was for seven years president of the board of education of the Illinois city, his former home. Mrs. Kaufman, who will assist him in his duties, was for nine years president of the Civic Club of Oregon and was for a number of years chairman of the Forestry committee of the Illinois federation of the Woman's Club.

Mr. Kaufman was chosen from a large list of candidates. In addition to the former Illinois attorney were: C. H. Henney, Ray Scott, A. T. Allen, Dr. M. H. Sharp, Oscar J. Tilson, H. C. Allen and A. C. Ashley. With the exception of Mr. Tilson and Mr. Ashley all are local residents. The former is a Portland real estate man and the latter is secretary of the Mosier commercial club.

The selection of Tuesday afternoon, however, was made from the three names of Kaufman, Allen and Sharp. The other candidates were eliminated from the field at a meeting of the board of directors last Thursday afternoon. On Tuesday afternoon's ballot, Mr. Kaufman received three votes, Mr. Allen two and Dr. Sharp one. One of the seven directors was not present at the meeting.

NEAL CREEK ROAD PROVES POPULAR

Although opened to traffic but a short period, the Neal Creek road, which was surveyed and a new grade established over the route last summer, is proving one of the most popular highways between the upper and lower Hood River valleys.

The highways formerly used by residents of the upper and lower regions were the road over Booth Hill and the Deer road. The former had such a heavy grade as to make it impossible to pull heavy loads over it, while in addition to a number of grades, the traveler passing over the latter met with bad stretches between Dee and Summit.

Since the Neal Creek road has been in use the auto stages have found it to be the most convenient route to the upper country.

NEW STATION OPENED SUNDAY

The handsome new O.W. R. & N. passenger station was turned over by the contractors last week and was opened to the public Sunday. The waiting rooms of the new structure are conveniently arranged and handsomely furnished. In the east end of the building, one on either side of the passage leading to the concrete platform that surrounds the structure, are the smoking room and the ladies rest room.

The office is located at the west end of the main waiting room between it and the baggage room.

A passage connects the baggage and waiting rooms. The station has one of the new drinking fountains, where the traveller drinks from a flow of water bubbling from a basin as though from a spring.

Junior Dan Patch Shows Well

Junior Dan Patch upheld the record of his sire, Capt. C. F. McCann's Tip Top ranch stallion, Friday when he took the 2-28 consolation pace for a $1000 purse in three straight heats without apparent difficulty, says the Oregonian. In the last heat H. H. Hoggboom was holding him in, watching W. Hoggboom hitting for second money several lengths behind.

Truman Butler was a business visitor in Portland last week.
