CONCERNING CHARTER AMENDMENT.

In his objections to sign the warrants for the purchase of the Pacific Power & Light Company's water plant, Mayor Hartwig says that the city has taken no steps toward the amendment of the city's charter as asked for in the communication to the council from the New York attorneys of the Chicago bond brokers, Ulen & Co. With these amendments, he states, the city could go into the market with the bonds and receive bids at a greater advantage. It seems, noting the fact that Mr. Hartwig, himself, has been chairman of the charter amendment committee appointed by the council more than six months ago, that he should have made some effort to call the committee together for action. However, the fact is that the Charter Amendment committee has been called together but once, and then at the instigation of Councilman Howe. Mr. Hartwig's deliberations are too lengthy.

ANOTHER MISTAKEN IDEA.

The following misconception of apple culture is clipped from the Ottumwa, Iowa, Courier:

"'There is more money to be made in fruit raising in Southwestern Iowa than there is in the West' This statement was made by A. B. Cooper, an apple expert from the Hood River, Oregon, apple country, who attended the Iowa state fair. 'I believe that with excellent care an orchard would pay better profits along the Missouri river than out where I am located,' Mr. Cooper added. 'It would take three or four years to get the trees in proper condition. But the soil, the climate and other conditions are conducive to raising good apples.' What Mr. Cooper says of the southwestern part of the state is true of the southern and the southeastern, as well as other sections of Iowa. There are no better apples grown anywhere than those of southeastern Iowa. The only trouble is that the Iowa orchard has been only a side line, with very little attention given to it."

It is rather difficult to believe that an "apple expert from Hood River" could show such ignorance; for the editorial statement clearly evidences a lack of knowledge of the elements conducive to the most successful apple culture. It is possible that his statements were misinterpreted by the writer of the article.

However, it is very gratifying to know that the statements are not taken seriously at Ottumwa. The following letter, relative to the article, was written to W. F. Cooper by W. F. Dykes, a prominent citizen of the Iowa city.

Ottumwa, Iowa, Sept. 4, 1911.

My dear Mr. Cooper: Will you please just read the marked item in paper enclosed herewith. What do you think of that, anyway? And to come from a Hood River man at that! Do you realize now what you missed when you left Iowa when in search of an apple country? Now will you be good? Our old friend, Fred Bukey, once mailed me a copy of the Portland "Oregonian," or what ever it is called, with a marked item about some man who had been arrested and fined for offering wormy apples for sale on the streets of Portland. Here in Iowa, we would arrest a man for selling an apple without a worm. You know we want all that is coming to us, and if the worm goes with the apple, then we want the worm. Seriously, I never regarded Iowa as much of a fruit state. I think climatic conditions are against it. We excell in many crops, but not in fruit. Possibly, with the same care and cultivation given the orchard that is grown in the Western fruit districts, it might prove, in a manner at least, true, as this Mr. Cooper says. Certainly, with proper laws regulating the spraying and care of trees the quality of the fruit could be improved, but I am of the opinion that climatic conditions would make the crop too uncertain. I also believe much depends upon irrigation, so as to get the right amount of moisture at the right time.

THE PRICE OF SUGAR.

The failure of the sugar beet crop on the European continent is said to be the cause of the high price of sugar, which has reached such a figure as to cause the housewife look for suitable substitutes. Unless the rise breaks, candy lovers should purchase from their confectioners before he has to visit the market again. The Oregonian says:

"It costs something to satisfy the proverbial "sweet tooth" of the nation these days. The day in which an advance in the price of sugar is not noted occupies a lonesome place on the week's calendar. It really looks as if we would be compelled to return to "blackstrap" for sweetening our coffee, taffy for our daintiest sweetmeet, and gingerbread for angel cake. However, self-denial was scheduled a saving grace by our Puritan forbears, and this may be a good point at which to begin the practice of this old-fashioned virtue. At any rate, sugar is higher than in some years—highest, it is even said, in the history of sugar refining. Evidently we have got to "stand the rise" and make the best of it."

The Hood River school board is credited with having passed a resolution forbidding High School students from participating in any form of athletics who fail to mantain a standard of at least 80 per cent on weekly markings in their studies. If all school boards would adopt like measures it would raise the standard of athletics by eliminating a lot of the "unfit," and it would also induce others who are inclined to be lax in their studies to brace up and make good.—Newberg Graphic.

Mayor Signs Ordinance.

The news was received at a late hour yesterday afternoon that Mayor Hartwig had signed the ordinance providing for the transfer of the $30 000 water bond issue from Ulen & Co., the Chicago brockers, to Morris Bros., of Portland.

SKAMANIA COMPANY WILL OFFER POWER

Sam Samson, who was a resident of this valley during the winter of 1905 and 1906, but who is now residing at Stevenson, where he is owner of the Stevenson Hot springs, accompanied by engineer F. Vandivort, was in this city yesterday to confer with the local business men and members of the city council relative to furnishing power to the city for a municipal plant. Mr. Samson is developing a site on the Wind river, where he says he will be able to secure 6,000 horsepower. He plans to sell his electrical energy to different municipalities along the Columbia at wholesale prices and allow the city governments to retail the power through a municipal plant.

Mr. Samson, who will in person or through a communication present his proposition to the council tonight, states that he will be willing to make a cut, furnishing power on a wholesale basis, of 50 per cent in the present rate schedule of the Pacific Power & Light Co. In the event that the city will entertain his plans, he will be willing to submit sealed bids in competition with any power companies. He left here yesterday for The Dalles, where he will make the same proposition. He has placed the proposition before the cities of Vancouver and Washougal, Wash., where it is looked upon favorably by the citizens.

The Stevenson man, has spent several years in Alaska, where he made a large fortune in mining enterprises.

HYDRO ELECTRIC MAY ENTER THE DALLES

N. C. Evnsa, one of the chief stock holders of the Hydro Electric Co., met with the common council at The Dalles last week and asked that body for a franchise in their city. His plan received favorable attention since the people of The Dalles are at present protesting the heavy rates of the Pacific Power & Light Co. The matter was referred to a committee, which will make a report October 3.

Mr. Evans said in part to The Dalles Council:

"The situation here at The Dalles is the same as at Hood River. Myself and associates are getting ready to install an electric plant at Hood River and we propose and wish to make it large enough so that we can also supply The Dalles with juice. We have secured a franchise at Hood and there is no reason why people here should not give us the same privilege unless they want to be held up and robbed. We will guarantee to furnish electricity 20 per cent less than the rates here at the present time, and in reality the charges of our company would probably be nearer what they are now."

HORSE THIEF CAUGHT AT LA CENTER

D. Chubb, according to a dispatch to Oregonian, aged 21, was arrested by Sheriff Cresap and Deputy Sheriff Woodward Tuesday at La Center, on a charge of stealing two horses valued at $600 from Elmer Bertelson, of Camas Prairie, Wash, last Wednesday night. Chubb is held in the county jail here until he can be taken back to Camas Prairie for trial. He confessed to the theft.

Chubb, who says his home is at Trout Lake, Wash., reached La Center last night in a starving condition, having had no food since Wednesday except two sandwiches and a couple of cookies. After leaving Camas Prairie he followed the old McClellan trail and forded the North fork of the Lewis River in the darkness. He says he had a narrow escape from drowning. The stolen horses were abandoned in a pasture by Chubb shortly after he crossed the river.

KEELINE SELLS LARGE APPLE CROP

Thirty-five carloads of apples, 160 barrels to the car, all from the orchard of W. S. Keeline, near Council Bluffs, have been purchased by Palmer & Co., of Sioux City, for $12,000. The price has been been paid for the apples as they hang on the trees. The orchard from which this great crop has been sold consists of fifty-three acres, and has been cultivated from the beginning under the direction of the scientific department of the Iowa State Agricultural college at Ames.

Several times this crop of apples has been saved by the use of oil burners. It has been frequently inspected by Profs. Beach and Greene, of the Ames school.

The deal between Mr. Keeline and Palmer & Co. was made on the following quotations: Jonathan and Grimes' Golden, $2.45 per barrel; Winesaps and Genitans, $1.90; Ben Davis and similar varieties, $1.45. Half of the crop is of the Jonathan variety.

Mr. Keeline is president of the National Horticultural association. The price received for his apples yields him about $218 an acre.—Sioux City, Ia., Journal.

Mr. Keeline is the father of Frank Keeline, who has been in the Hood River Valley for the past year making a study of apple culture.

Train Demolishes Wagon.

When the local morning passenger train was arriving in the city Thursday morning the locomotive struck the delivery wagon of McGuire Bros., completely demolishing it and hurling Ernest Ford, who was driving the team, through the air beside the track. However, fortunately, young Ford's injuries amounted to no more than a slight bruise or two.

The impact of the collision freed the team from the wagon and hurled the top of the vehicle over a wagon that was standing near the track. The driver was unable to see the approach of the train because of several box cars standing on a siding.

Taft Begins Long Trip.

Pesident Taft celebrated his fifty forth birthday Friday. His Beverly, Mass., home was flooded with congratulatory messages. The following was received from King George of England:

"I have great pleasure in sending you my most hearty congratulations on the anniversary of your birthday and trust that the friendly relations existing between our two countries may ever continue."

BRUNQUIST RETURNS FROM FAIR VISIT

A. J. Brunquist, who has been representing Better Fruit at the State Fair returned from Salem Saturday evening. He reports that although it was too early for the best in the line of a fruit display, yet it was a great fair. The agricultural exhibits this year were more elaborate than ever and provided a striking demonstration of the fact that every section of our State, although differing in soil, topography and climate with intelligent and up-to date methods, is capable of enormous yields and good profits.

The camping features of the Oregon State Fair is a distinctive one. All State Fairs have a few campers, people who are either exhibitors or have concessions, but there are hundreds of people who are already looking forward to their week of camp life at the Oregon State Fair next year.

The attendance at the Fair was very good considering the fact that it rained nearly every day. A fine string of races had been arranged but as the track was heavy no records were broken. Better Fruit received gratifying words of appreciation for the work it is doing both from subscribers and advertisers.

ESKIMO SEALERS.

A Battle of Alertness Between the Hunter and His Prey.

The Eskimo method of hunting seals shows a primitive calling improved to a fine art. When a seal is discovered the direction of the wind is at once noted. Then the hunter, keeping himself to the leeward of the seal, walks up to within about a quarter of a mile of it. Beyond this he begins to crouch and advances only when the seal's head is down.

Now, as the seal is one of the most wideawake of animals and has the habit of throwing up its head quickly every few seconds to guard against danger, it follows that the Eskimo has to be extremely alert if he would get his seal. When the seal's head is down upon the ice its eyes are shut, and it is said that in these brief intervals it takes its sleep.

The hunter by carefully watching the seal's movements is able without much difficulty to get within about 200 yards of it, but at closer quarters he is obliged to employ other tactics. He lies down at full length on the ice. Then the real sport begins.

When the seal's head is down the hunter, who keeps a keen eye on his prey, is able to approach still nearer by dragging himself forward on his elbows. This maneuvering continues for some time until the distance between man and beast has been reduced to a few yards.

When near enough to make a sure shot the Eskimo takes his bow and arrow from his side and sends a swift shaft through the head of his outwitted companion. Sometimes instead of the bow and arrow a harpoon is used with equal effect.—Harper's Weekly.

The Parents' Joke.

Some parents seem unable to resist the temptation to make a joke with the Christian names of their children, says the London Chronicle. The Somerset House registers testify to the existence of a Mr. Mineral Waters, a Frosty Winter and an Alfred Days Weeks. There is something to be said in favor of naming children in the order of their arrival—Primus, Secundus, etc.—but it is unfortunate for a well known Canadian named Cumber that it should have fallen to his lot to be Quintus, for his name is always appearing in the papers as Mr. Q. Cumber.

A Boston Street.

It was one of the older conductors breaking in a new recruit who had shown that he was not particularly quick to catch an idea. The car came to Webster street, and the older conductor whispered the name to the recruit. The latter did not understand, and the conductor, losing patience, said, "Webster—Webster's dictionary." And the passengers were amazed to hear the new man bawl out, "Webster's dictionary."—Boston Post.

Yearned For Excitement.

"Yes, the great society leader is absolutely ennuied."

"Tired of everything, eh?"

"Positively. The last time I saw her she was faintly wondering in a bewildered way whether she'd better take up aviation or get a divorce."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Correction.

Instead of Charles Castner going to Boston to conduct a packing school as was erroneously stated in last week's Glacier, the name should have been that of John B. Castner. The date of the Hood River Apple fair should have been November instead of October 9, 10 and 11.

"I've been working two or three evenings making an umbrella stand," says the man who has taken up arts and crafts endeavor.

"This lady lawyer wants to make a motion," explained the clerk, "but her gown is too tight."—Washington Herald.
