DENVER APPLE SHOW TO BE BIG EVENT

Cash prizes and special premiums to the amount of $25,000 will be awarded at the American apple exposition which will be held in Denver the week of November 12. The second edition of the premium list will be off the press in about a week, and the last edition will be published about the middle of October. Apple growers can receive copies by writing to headquarters of the show in the Chamber of Commerce building.

No expense and effort are being spared to make all shores of the biggest and best ever held anywhere. Apple growers in every district in America are invited to send exhibits and the management assures them their fruit will be judged strictly upon merit.

More than $3,000 in prizes will be awarded in the twenty-five box exhibits, over $2,000 in the ten box displays and $1,000 in the five-box class. No exhibits will be accepted of more than twenty-five boxes, and from that down to plates.

Among the special premiums will be farm implements and machinery, spraying outfits, orchard heaters and nursery stock. One of the big attractions at the show will be the apple kitchen. Apples will be cooked in every conceivable manner and demonstrations will be given to show women just how it is done. There will be an apple packing contest and a box making contest in which valuable prizes will be awarded.

Among the handsome trophies that will be awarded will be one offered by the International Apple Shippers' Association. A great many silver cups have been presented by apple dealers and fruit associations in various sections of the country.

The meeting of the apple congress the same week of the show has given the exposition national prominence and is attracting exhibits from all sections of the country. It is estimated that thousands of people to Denver from Colorado and the adjoining states.

Efficient Slowness.
 Quality is working to the surface in these days. How much can you do? Has been the question asked rather than, How well can you do?

Quality has always been at a premium, but the demand for it has not been as sharp or as overwhelming as that for quantity. A curious illustration of this fact was seen in the words printed on a laundry wagon in Spokane this week, "Slow but Sure." It is a novel exhibition for an American enterprise to admit "slowness" in any sense of the word, and yet a certain degree of slowness is essential to quality work. One has to return to Goethe's aphorism, "Without haste, without rest." To hurry means to rest. Immediate work necessitates enforced idleness.

There is considerable slowness in thinning and packing the box of apples which brings the fancy price. Efficient slowness demands exacting attention, the finest test of brain power. Spokane Spokesman-Review.

Sting Bug Spoils Peaches.
 Considerable loss has been sustained by the peach growers of certain Ohio districts this year through the operations of the sting bug. The bug is not new to this vicinity. It is of greenish color, about the size of a large potato bug. It thrusts a stinger into peaches, inflicting a wound which becomes gummy and retards the growth of the fruit. The damage is caused during the late June and early July growth. A method of eliminating the bugs will probably be to collect, the insects by shaking the trees and gathering them on a spread.

Underwood Will Teach Pack.
 The Apple Growers Union of the White Salmon Valley will conduct an apple-packing school at the Underwood warehouse all this week. Such a school is conducted by the Union at Hosum, six miles up the valley. Instruction is given to all who wish to attend. Apples, paper and boxes, as well as the services of an expert in charge are furnished by the Union. The school is largely attended, as indications point to an enormous yield next year. Expert packers make from $4 to $6 a day.

Searchlight for Speeders.
 Doom to the joy of the joy riders! This is the plan of the county board of supervisors of Los Angeles, which has approved an appropriation with which to buy an experimental searchlight, says a dispatch. It is planned to train the searchlight down a stretch favored by speeders and by the rays of the light it is believed the county police can read the license numbers on the cars. If the plan works a series of searchlight stations along the most traveled county roads.

PORTLAND MAN HAS

no one travelling the Lost Lake road from Dees has ever failed to notice the fine pear orchard just across the river from the lumber town. The orchard is the property of F. A. Jones, of Portland.

Mr. Jones states that he set the orchard four years ago this spring. In it are some 1500 trees of which 500 are Bartlett and 1000 De Anjon. Previous to setting, Mr. Jones had the soil analyzed and found it especially well adapted to the growth of pears. The setting of pears in this valley until four years ago had been very light. Of the few producing orchards in the valley none exceeded a few acres, but the quality and quantity produced led Mr. Jones to set most of his ground to the two most popular varieties. The young trees have made excellent growth. They were headed almost as low as an apple tree and have been pruned with a view to the main center or goblet shape, a very difficult task with a pear tree, which is strongly inclined to grow straight up with all the branches close and intermingled.

Mr. Jones takes especial pride in the shape of these trees as all the pruning has been done by himself. His idea was that the first four years of the life of the tree should be devoted to shaping its branches without regard to fruit spurs. For this reason the trees were not allowed to produce during the fourth year. Indications are that next year there will be a bountiful crop. The trees will then be five years old and the trunk as well as the limbs will be large and stout enough to sustain the burden of fruit. A few trees were allowed to bloom just to show the quality of the product this year and Mr. Jones on a recent trip here found June 14 trees in blossom to perfection and as a strange coincidence he says these 14 trees have cost him up to date just $1000 each. However, he is sure that next year's crop will reduce this cost materially, as he recently learned of two and one-half acre pear orchard in this valley that annually produces 40 to 50 tons of fruit.

Mr. Jones has 21 acres set to fruit and nearly the same amount ready for setting this fall and spring. Many Portland people are interested in the Valley but none are more enthusiastic than Mr. Jones. He is like Jim Hill, in one respect at least. After the completion of the North Fork road Mr. Hill made a trip over it for inspection and on being asked how he liked the road answered that while the road had cost many millions he would rather have the road than the money.

PEDIGREED APPLES TO BE DEVELOPED

"The excellency of fruit can be developed by carefully selecting the stock from which the trees are propagated just as fine herds of horses and cattle and sheep have been developed by the same methods, says H. M. Lichty, of Sunnyside, Wash., who was here Friday in the interests of the American Fruit Registration Association, which has its headquarters at Sunnyside. "It is a great undertaking," continued the Washington horticulturist, to make an attempt to secure registered fruit and orchards. The government has been conducting experiments along this line with respect to citrus fruits."

The association is securing buds, scions and other material from all the principal Northwest sections, such as Yakima, Wenatchee and Hood River and is ready to furnish the public with stock propagated from these selected trees.

"The system has been improved by almost all of the scientific men to whom it has been shown," said Mr. Lichty. "Prof. John Craig, of Cornell University said: 'It is all right. I have tried to get the federal government to assume this work but have no assurance that it will do so. I do not see why it will not be feasible for you to work up a registration system for Washington and Oregon. It will be a good work for you to get together profitable varieties from your section.' Mr. Lichty will be co-operated with in this valley by A. I. Mason and John Mohr, who will secure selected material from their orchards for him."

Riverside Church Notes.
 The Lord's Supper will be celebrated next Sunday morning. The pastor will speak on "The New Blood Covenant." New members will be received and the ordinance of baptism administered.

These are all topics which have been deemed of sufficient importance to report them for the Portland papers and the pastor's comments will be partly in the nature of pulpit editorials and partly sermonic. The public is cordially invited.

The furnace is being installed under the old church this week so none will have occasion to fear the cold in our services. A line of electric lights is also being strung on the east side of the new building to facilitate an easy entrance to the old church.

Kimball Buys Additional Land.
 C. D. Fish, of the Summit district, has sold to Walter Kimball, who moved here this year with his family to join his son, Fordham Kimball, who has been here on the ranch for the past year, a twenty-acre tract of orchard land adjoining the Kimball ranch. Mr. Kimball's additional purchase of Hood River land is comprised of five acres of bearing orchard and the remainder in two year old trees. Five acres of the place are in strawberries.

Something You Should Know About Substitution

If you wanted to buy oak lumber and the man delivered yellow pine, you would know the difference. If you wanted to buy silk and they sent you calico, you would have no trouble in seeing the substitution. It is not so easy, however, with medicine. A great many medicines look alike and taste alike, BUT THEY DON'T ACT ALIKE. Just think this over the next time you want medicines. Remember that at our store you can absolutely rely on every drug we sell. The difference between buying medicines and merchandise is the difference between knowledge and belief. You know the one but you have to believe in the other. You will be absolutely safe when you put your belief in us.
