MRS. JAYNE'S DEATH SHOCK TO MANY
 The news of the sudden death of Mrs. A. A. Jayne, who succumbed Sunday evening, while on a street car bound from St. Johns to Portland, was a painful shock to her many friends of this city, who only the week before bade her God speed on her journey to her new home in Southern California. Mrs. Jayne fell in a faint on the floor of the car and expired shortly afterward at a drug store where she was taken.
 Mrs. Jayne had been complaining of feeling ill earlier in the evening. She had been suffering from heart disease for some time and valvular affections had become chronic.
 When it was noticed by passengers that Mrs. Jayne had fallen in her seat, says the Oregonian, the car, which had traveled several blocks past the place where she became ill, was stopped at Union avenue and Russell street, and she was taken into the Russell Drug store. Strong restoratives were applied but she expired shortly after being carried from the car.
 Mrs. Jayne was 43 years old. Dr. Yielding, who attended her, pronounced the cause of death valvular affection of the heart.
 In mentioning Mrs. Jayne's death in the editorial column, the Oregonian says:
 "Mrs. A. A. Jayne, who was stricken with heart failure on the St. Johns car Sunday evening and died a few minutes thereafter, was the oldest daughter of the late J. L. Sperry, who was long a resident of Central East Portland. As Miss Minnie Sperry she had a host of friends in the village days of the East Side. To those who remain her sudden death will come as a painful shock—almost as a tragedy."
 Mrs. Jayne was buried in Portland Tuesday. The funeral services were conducted by Rector Edmund Trew Simpson, of the St. Mark's Episcopal church, of which Mrs. Jayne had long been one of the most devoted members.
 In addition to her husband, Mrs. Jayne leaves surviving three sons, Burton, Maurice and Allen.
 Among the Hood River people who were present for the funeral services were: Mrs. R. D. Gould, Mrs. W. J. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Early, Mrs. W. G. Snow, Mrs. T. J. Kinnaird, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Clark.
Masquerade Tuesday Evening.

Because of the difficulty of securing costumes here, it has been suggested by the committee that all come draped in white sheets to represent ghosts.
 A decoration committee composed of Mrs. Harry DeWitt, Mrs. Chas. Hall and Mrs. Albert P. Reed will prepare the ball room for the festive occasion.
 J. F. Thompson, of Parkdale, spent most of last week here overseeing work on the lower Valley property of himself and A. Millard, of Omaha, Neb. Mr. Thompson recently had some very handsome panoramas views taken of his Upper Valley orchard. He, and Mr. Millard set out 116 acres to commercial varieties of apples last year. With the surrounding hills and the peak of Mount Hood as a background the picture is very beautiful.

FATHER BRADY CLOSSES SUCCESSFUL MEETINGS
 A successful mission for Catholics in the church of the Immaculate Conception closed Sunday. It was conducted by Rev. Thomas Joseph Brady, diocesan missionary for the diocese of Baker. Father Brady is also the acting chaplain for the chapel car, St. Anthony. It opened last Sunday morning and special services were held every evening and every morning.
 The missionary opened every evening's services with the "question box" feature. All were invited to deposit questions in this box and on the same day these questions were answered. All services were well attended.
 There were two special features for non-catholics, a lecture on the "Lost Confessional," delivered Wednesday evening, and a lecture Sunday night, entitled "Home or Harem, Which?" This last lecture closed the mission. It was a brilliant setting forth of the doctrines of the Catholic Church on marriage and divorce. Every available seat in the church was utilized to accommodate the crowds that attended.
 From Hood River Rev. Father Brady went to Mosier, where he will conduct a week's mission. The mission there will be conducted in the chapel car St. Anthony.
 Father Plus, of the local Franciscan Fathers desires to thank all those who attended the services.
 The church was crowded at every meeting. More than 40 extra chairs had to be secured to accommodate the congregation.
