RECENT UPPER VALLEY IMPROVEMENTS

The time for the trip limited, the representative of the Glacier, who was recently in the Upper Valley securing data on development there, was unable to cover the entire district, and many evidences of the community's progress were necessarily overlooked. In the list below an effort has been made to supplement the story of several weeks ago and give as completely as possible the recent improvements of the newer apple district. E. S. Hayes, who is now operating a saw mill on the Oak Grove district, has cleared a tract of eight acres. E. H. Culbertson has cleared an eight acre tract and has erected one of the handsomest homes in the entire community. Mr. Culbertson's bungalow was erected for a cost of approximately $4000. His son, Tod Culbertson, has cleared a ten acre orchard tract and has built a new home in the district. F. H. Parker has cleared a tract of about 10 acres. F. W. Rockhold, one of the recent comers to the district, has been rapidly improving his place. Rea Babson is building a bungalow on his tract. Both Hiram and A. L. Hutson are making improvements. David Rogers has cleared one of the largest sections of land in the community. C. P. Johansen is now erecting an enormous hay barn, 24x80 feet. He is also installing a set of five-ton wagon scales at the new structure.

Pioneers Enjoy Sunday With Rand

Wau Guin Guin! The name has become familiar to residents of Hood River valley. Do you know its location? It is situated less than one and one-half miles from the center of the city of Hood River. It is the Indian name for the falls that pour over the bluff from Phelps creek, mingling its waters with the Columbia. The spot is a three-quarters of a mile along the bluffs overlooking the Columbia river hundreds of feet below. No other spot in all of Hood River valley surpasses it for beauty of scenery and picturesque surroundings. We are prone to go miles up the valley of Hood River to have an outing and view the beauties of nature, while here, within walking distance of the town, is the most charming retreat. Robert Rand, proprietor of Wau Guin Guin, has accomplished wonders in improving and beautifying this naturally beautiful place in the few years he has been its owner. There is a commodious hotel, with all modern conveniences, where tourists have enjoyed the hospitality of the host and hostess, Ernest Rand and wife. The proprietor and his good wife occupy a dwelling apart from the hotel. Flowers of all kinds greet one at every turn on the bluff. A unique building on the cliff, what the proprietor calls his "den," here is the most wonderful collection of curios to be found in the state. A tourist from the eastern states offered the proprietor $1000 for this collection, which, of course, was refused. A description of what is to be seen in this museum could not be given here. Everywhere one goes about the beautiful grounds is seen the genius of Robert Rand in making attractive what nature so bountifully supplied.

Sunday, June 15, the proprietor of Wau Guin Guin gave a dinner to some of his old time neighbors and friends. The dinner was excellent. The guests spent one of the pleasantest afternoons of their lives and in parting voted Mr. and Mrs. Rand entertainers par excellence. Mrs. O. P. Dabney furnished the following excellent poem for the occasion:

There is no age, Since God is Life, Then life is ever new, And each glad day Brings broader visions to our view. Since God is Love, Then Love alone is life, Which lifts our thoughts Above earth's woe and strife. The flowers unfold their beauty every spring, Love bids the birds return on joyful wing, And thus should we with each recurring year, Unfold more of love and hope and cheer.

The following comprised the list of guests: Mr. and Mrs. H. Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Stranahan, Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Dabney, Mr. and Mrs. Newton Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Morse, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Morse, Mr. and Mrs. E. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. T. Frather, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bell, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Blythe, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Howe, Mrs. William Allen, and Mrs. May Gilbert. One Who Was There.

Corps Women Observe Flag Day

The women of the Canby Relief Corps and the Canby Post, G. A. R., made proper observance of Flag Day, the 138th anniversary of the official recognition of the American flag, at their meeting in the K. of P. hall last Saturday afternoon, when a short program was given and readings were rendered by Mrs. Geo. H. Steinhoff and Mrs. Geo. P. Crowell. Rev. W. A. Stark delivered a short talk telling of how the sight of the flag affected the soldier under fire. Two members were initiated into the Corps Saturday and others will be initiated at the next meeting. After the exercises were finished a beautiful and delicious luncheon was enjoyed by these present.

The Brilliant Stars of June

By the end of June, Mars, Venus, Saturn and Jupiter will all be the morning stars, but Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is at all times the "Star" medicine for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. A cold in June is as apt to develop into bronchitis or pneumonia as at any other time, but not if Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is taken. Chas. N. Clarke.

Calf Disappears Over Bluff

Thought to have been frightened by dogs or some wild animal a calf belonging to Robert Rand, the proprietor of Wau Guin Guin, west of the city, has disappeared. It is thought the little animal, about a year old, ran over the high bluff along the Columbia at this point. The calf was recently discovered about 50 feet from the top of the gorge, where it had fallen and lodged on a jutting ledge. It was rescued from its position by means of a rope and tackle.

AUTOMOBILES

W. E. King is looking for a detective to solve a recent mystery connected with his car. He had an extra tire blown up and ready to replace an old tire in case of a blow out. He was very much chagrined one evening last week to find the tire in the rack flat. Some of his friends advised him to fill it with Esanaka.

Some of the Japanese boys who reside in the boarding house adjoining Niguma's store on First street, are the proud but bruised possessors of a motor cycle. The boys learned to ride the machine stationery first. However, as it was standing in the street one evening last week, with the motor running smoothly, some part of the apparatus became deranged and the engine raced madly, making as much noise as a White truck on an uphill grade. The Japanese boy who was manning it at the time fell all over himself and the street in getting away from the bucking thing which was vomiting black smoke. Pairs of almond eyes cut bias could be seen peering from every window in the Niguma house. Finally one of the fellows, a hero of Vladivostok, or who would have been had he been there, stalked the machine. He looked very much like the "old turkey gobbler that caught the grass-hopper a settin' on the sweet water vine," as he stood and jumped for the throttle. But he stopped the fiendish racket of the exhaust.

The next day two of the Japs were trying to negotiate the hill on Ninth street. They lost control of the motor and the cycle ran into a ditch, after having pitched both of them off, and the drive wheel spun madly in the air, while the machine tried to bore its way through a clay wall.

But the Japanese are a persevering race and they are now riding the motor cycle like veterans, even though their limbs are skinned and their joints stiff from the breaking in process. Figures prepared by Deputy Secretary of State S. A. Koser show the total automobile registration to be 11,500, an increase of 3089 over last year. The figures further show that the total of cars taken in the month of May was $44,158, of which sum $41,841.50 was from motor cycle licenses, $1866 from chauffeurs' licenses and $450.50 from transfers.

D. G. Jackson, of the Franz Hardware Co., has just purchased a Ford automobile from Howe & Ingalls, and is erecting a handsome garage on his residence property on Sherman avenue.

Miss Northey Honored by Librarians

Miss Della Northey, who is now away taking her summer vacation, has been attending the convention of the northwestern librarians at Tacoma, where she was honored by election to the secretaryship of the organization. Miss Northey, who had valuable experience in middle western libraries before coming to Hood River, is considered one of the most proficient librarians in the state or in the northwest.
